SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATURDAY, THE 13TH OF APRIL 1895.

AT the end of the previous week cool settled weather had become established over the greater part of Bengal, and an unusual distribution of pressure obtained. Highest pressure was in the north of the province and from there readings slowly diminished towards the south-east, the lowest being in Burma. This distribution continued unaltered for a day or two at the beginning of the present week, after which a slow steady fall over Bengal and an equally slow rise in Burma and the east of the Bay restored the normal arrangement. While the low readings continued in Burma, the wind circulation, following the pressure gradient, was westerly and at times northerly, but as the change mentioned above proceeded, the westerly winds changed to southerly and then to south-easterly, especially in the eastern half of the province. Probably, in consequence of the unusual pressure arrangement and the irregular wind circulation, local storms have occurred in considerable numbers and scattered showers have fallen in all districts except Bihar and Chota Nagpur, where rainfall has been almost entirely absent. Though the thunderstorms have been numerous, the showers accompanying them have been light except in East Bengal, where several stations have received heavy falls. A more decided result of the local disturbances is seen in the temperature which was relatively low at the beginning and remained several degrees below the normal throughout the week, both during the day and the night.

Pressure.—On the 7th, the first day of the week, pressure was ·07″ in excess in Bihar and ·07″ in defect in the south of Burma, while readings in Bihar were more than a tenth of an inch higher than those at Diamond Island, Bassein and Rangoon. This arrangement became more pronounced on the 8th, as a rise prevailed, of greater amount in the north than the south. The return to the normal distribution began on the 9th, when there was a slow fall over Bengal and a slow rise in Burma and the east of the Bay. This slow change continued on the 10th, 11th, and 12th, on the last of which dates the arrangement was reversed, there being a small defect in the west of Bengal, and a small excess in Burma. On the 13th and last day of the week a general and in places a rapid rise of pressure prevailed, so that resulting readings were highest in Burma and diminished rather quickly towards Bihar, causing a strong easterly circulation of winds over the whole province.

Temperature.—At the beginning of the week there was defect everywhere in temperature except in East Bengal, some stations of which had a small excess. The defect was about 2° except at the extreme southern stations, where it varied from 5° to 9°. On the 8th defect varied from 0° in North Bengal to 10° in South-East Bengal. During the remainder of the week the difference from the normal was not so large and more uniform except on the 13th, when there was a large defect over the whole province, generally varying between 5° and 10°. In consequence of the continued low temperature the means for the week are below the normal in all districts by amounts varying from 2°·3 in North Bengal to 4° in Orissa and Chota Nagpur.

The actual temperatures registered during the week and their variations from the normal temperature for the season are clearly seen in the table below, where the average maximum, minimum and mean temperatures for the week at nine typical stations in different districts of the province are compared with the normal values for the same period:—

Rainfall.—Heavy showers have fallen in East Bengal, and numerous but generally very light showers in all the other districts except Bihar and Chota Nagpur. The mean fall in East Bengal is 1·5 inches, in South-West Bengal ·35 inch, North Bengal ·46 inch, and in Orissa ·32 inch. These are all above the normal for the season by amounts varying from ·04 inch in Orissa to ·67 inch in East Bengal.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

NOTIFICATION—No. 2294S.R.

The 18th April 1895.—The following rules prescribed in the Resolution of the Government of India, in the Finance and Commerce Department, No. 1439S.R., dated the 27th March 1895, for the custody, supply and sale of all kinds of stamps and stamped papers, in supersession of all previous rules on the subject, are published for general information. Those portions of the rules which apply to general and court-fee stamps are adopted and issued by the Lieutenant-Governor under the authority conferred on him by section 55 of the Indian Stamp Act of 1879, and section 27 of the Indian Court-fees Act of 1870.

H. H. RISLEY,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

Rules for the custody, supply, and sale of Stamps of all descriptions, namely, General Stamps used to denote the duties payable under the Stamp Act, 1879; Court-fee Stamps used to denote the fees payable under the Court Fees Act, 1870; Telegraph Stamps and Postage Stamps.

CENTRAL DEPÔTS.

1. There shall be three central depôts for stamps of all descriptions in charge of the Superintendents of Stamps at Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay, respectively. These central depôts shall maintain a stock of stamps sufficient for two years' consumption. The Superintendents of Stamps in Madras and Bombay shall, for this purpose, forward, not later than the last week in September in each year, indents for the supply of the various descriptions of stamps required in the following year for the territories dependent on them for the supply of stamps to the Superintendent of Stamps, Calcutta. The Superintendent of Stamps, Calcutta, shall prepare a general consolidated indent for stamps of all descriptions, showing separately the demand for the following year for each of the three Presidencies, including in it the indents of the Superintendents of Stamps, Madras and Bombay; and shall forward this general indent to the Government of India, in the Finance Department, for transmission to the Secretary of State, so as to reach him not later than the 1st November in each year. The Superintendent should forward a copy of the section of the general indent relating to Postage stamps to the Director-General of the Post Office, and of the section relating to Telegraph stamps to the Director-General of Telegraphs.

2. Stamps for the Bengal Presidency, including the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, the Punjab, Central India, Rajputana, Assam, and Burma, and local depôts subordinate to Calcutta, and stamps for copies for use in the Central Provinces, shall be supplied from the central depôt, Calcutta, on the indent of officers in charge of local depôts.

3. Stamps for the Madras Presidency, including Coorg and local depôts subordinate to Madras, shall be supplied from the central depôts at Madras on the indent of the officers in charge of local depôts.

4. Stamps for the Bombay Presidency, including Sind, Berar, the Cental Provinces (save as provided in rule 2), and local depôts subordinate to Bombay, shall be supplied from the central depôt, Bombay, on the indent of officers in charge of local depôts.

5. The Superintendents of Stamps, Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay, on receiving an indent from a local depôt, shall have the indent examined to ascertain that the indent is such as to insure the local depôt having a proper supply, and may comply with the indent in full or in part, as he thinks fit. If he thinks that the indent should be increased, he should request the officer who submitted the indent to submit a supplementary indent. The Presidency Post Offices of Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay may indent for supplies on the central depôts.

LOCAL DEPÔTS.

6. Every treasury throughout India, including those attached to political and salt agencies, shall be a local depôt for the custody and sale of stamps of all descriptions. Local Governments may establish local depôts at places where there is no treasury.

7. Each local depôt shall, unless the Local Government otherwise directs, maintain a supply of stamps equal to the probable consumption of five months. Local Governments may direct that the supply to be maintained, either generally or in respect of any particular kind of stamp or in certain local depôts, shall be equal to the probable consumption of such other period as they deem expedient.

8. As soon as the number of stamps in the local depôt falls below the number issued from the depôt in the preceding six months, the officer in charge of the depôt shall prepare an indent for a supply equal to the probable consumption of three months. The indent shall show in separate columns for each denomination of stamp of which a supply is required the total of the balance in the local depôt and any branch* depôts subordinate to it, the quantity sold in the preceding six months, and the quantity indented for, which should be approximately one-half of the quantity sold in the preceding six months. The periods of "six months" and "three months" of this rule may, like that of five months in rule 7, be altered by Local Governments to such other periods as they may deem expedient. This indent will be forwarded direct to the Superintendent of Stamps, Madras, Bombay, or Calcutta, as the case may be; but the Local Government of any province may direct that the indents shall be forwarded through any other officer, such as the Superintendent of Stamps of the province, or that a copy of the indent shall be forwarded to such officer.

9. If the supply of stamps in any local depôt should run short before the receipt of the supply from the central depôt, the officer in charge of the local depôt should indent for a supply from a neighbouring depôt, sending a copy of the indent to the Superintendent or Commissioner of Stamps of the province, or such other officer as the Local Government may direct. It is the duty of the Superintendent of Stamps, Madras, Bombay, or Calcutta, to report to the Local Government (or such authority as the Local Government may direct) in the case of General and Court-fee stamps to the Director-General of Post Office in the case of Postage stamps and to the Director-General of Telegraphs in the case of telegraph stamps, any case in which it may come to his knowledge that the stock of stamps in any local depôt of any description has fallen below the prescribed amount.

10. As soon as possible after the arrival of a supply of stamps from the central depôt or from another local depôt, the officer in charge of the local depôt shall have the boxes or packets opened in his presence, and the contents of each box or packet counted either by himself or in his presence immediately on being opened. The number of stamps received shall be compared by the officer in charge with the submitted invoice, and a receipt shall be sent as soon as possible to the officer who despatched the stamps.

11. Local Governments may issue such orders as may be thought necessary regarding the detailed counting of stamps received in a local depôt, and as to the description of stamps which the officer in charge must count with his own hands. Such orders may include instructions that a certain percentage only of sealed packets marked as containing a certain number of stamps need be opened and counted at the time of receipt, and the remainder, if the percentage opened are all found correct, left with seals unbroken to be counted as they are required on being given out from double lock. The officer in charge is responsible for observing any such instructions, and for satisfying himself as to the number of stamps received before signing the receipt.

12. If any of the stamps received are found to be unfit for issue, they should be at once returned to the Superintendents of Stamps. Stamps which are through any accident rendered unfit for issue, at any time after receipt, should be similarly returned to the Superintendent as soon as their unfitness is discovered. The necessary entries on account of stamps so returned should be made in the monthly statement (rule 34), and in the plus and minus memoranda (rule 36).

13. Immediately after the stamps received have been counted, they shall be placed in proper receptacles in the store under double lock, arranged in parcels or packets containing known quantities, the amount of each denomination being entered in a register maintained to show the receipts and issues to and from the store under double lock.

14. The treasurer, or such other officer as the Local Government may direct, shall be the ex-officio vendor of all descriptions of stamps in each local depôt. Sales to the public or to licensed vendors shall not be made direct from the stores under double lock, such sales being made by the ex-officio vendor from the supply entrusted to him for this purpose, to be kept by him under single lock, as prescribed in the following rules.

15. The stock to be made over to the ex-officio vendor to be kept by him under single lock should ordinarily be sufficient for the probable demand of one month. On a fixed date near the beginning of each month the ex-officio vendor shall prepare an indent for the quantity required for the month in a form showing the balance in his hands, an average month's consumption, and the quantity required. When this indent is approved by the officer in charge, who should examine the balance under single lock, and ascertain that the quantities shown agree with the quantities shown in the indent, he shall give out the quantity required from the store under double lock. The same procedure shall be followed if any stamps should be required at any intermediate date. Local Governments may reduce the period of one month mentioned in this rule to one week or any other period less than a month, if they consider this desirable with reference to the amount of the treasurer's security or for any other reason.

16. From the stock so made over to his charge and kept by him under single lock, the ex-officio vendor shall sell stamps to the public and to licensed vendors for cash. He shall keep in such language as the Local Government may direct an account of the daily sales for each of the four descriptions of stamps in a form showing for each denomination the balance in his hand at the beginning of the day, the quantity sold during the day, and the balance in his hand at the end of the day. He shall pay daily into the treasury the cash received by him for stamps sold, the amount realised on account of each of the four descriptions of stamps—namely, General, Court-fee, Postage, and Telegraph—being paid in separately. The account of daily sales should be inspected every day by the officer in charge of the depôt.

17. The rules regulating the grant of discount and the grant of licenses to licensed vendors for the sale of General and Court-fee stamps vary in different provinces, and are prescribed by Local Governments, subject to the general rule that no change in the rates of discount shall be made without the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council.

18. Local Governments may direct that the sales to the public of General and Court-fee stamps by ex-officio vendors shall be limited to stamps of a value higher than a named amount, the sale to the public of stamps of lower value being left to licensed vendors.

19. Telegraph stamps shall be sold to the public for cash by the ex-officio vendors, provided that the quantity of stamps sold to one person at one time shall not be less in value than Rs. 5, and that the quantity sold shall not include less than one rupee worth of any particular denomination. On such sales no discount is allowed.

20. Telegraph Masters shall obtain supplies of telegraph stamps from the local depôts, subject to the same conditions in regard to the quantity supplied at one time as those of the preceding rule, and shall sell to the public Telegraph stamps of all descriptions and to any value. No discount is allowed to Telegraph Masters for the sale of stamps; but they are allowed permanent advances of Telegraph stamps without payment, the amount of the permanent advance being fixed by the Director-General of Telegraphs. When the permanent advance of Telegraph stamps has once been taken, subsequent issues to Telegraph Masters are made only on cash payment. But when the local depôt is closed for holidays of more than one day's duration, officers in charge of local depôts are authorised to issue Telegraph stamps to Telegraph Masters without payment in excess of the value of the permanent advance, these temporary advances being adjusted, when the treasury re-opens, by the return of stamps or the payment of their value, if sold.

21. Service Postage-stamps shall be sold for cash from local depôts to Government officials and to persons specially authorised to purchase and use service stamps on a written application. On such sales no discount is allowed.

22. Ordinary Postage stamps shall be sold to the public for cash from local depôts, provided that the value sold to any person at one time shall not be less than Rs. 5, and shall not include any fraction of a rupee, and that embossed envelopes and post-cards shall be sold in complete packets only. No discount is allowed on such sales. Soldiers' envelopes are sold from certain selected local depôts only to Commanding Officers in complete packets, no discount being allowed.

23. The officer in charge of every post office, receiving office, tahsil, thana, and police-station at which letters are received for despatch, and every person licensed under the rules framed under the Stamp Act, 1879, to sell General stamps, are required to keep a supply of ordinary Postage stamps for sale to the public sufficient for the probable demands of one week. To such persons ordinary postage stamps, except soldiers' envelopes, are sold from local depôts for cash, on the same conditions as to quantity as those prescribed in the preceding rule; and on such sales discount at the rate of quarter of an anna in the rupee is allowed.

A special extra commission of ¼ anna in the rupee has been sanctioned, with effect from 11th November 1892, on all sales of the large size registration envelope.

24. The officers in charge of post offices, receiving offices, tahsils, thanas, and police-stations at which letters are received for despatch are also required to keep a supply of one-anna Revenue stamps for sale to the public. To such officers one-anna Revenue stamps are sold from local depôt, on the same conditions as to quantity as those prescribed in rule 22. On such sales discount at the rate of one half-anna in the rupee is allowed.

25. A District Officer may authorise the grant of discount at the rate of quarter of an anna in the rupee to any boná-fide retail vendor of ordinary Postage stamps, provided he is not employed in a Government treasury. Such authority shall be in writing, and shall remain in force for one year. It may contain conditions in all or any of the following respects, namely, the maintenance of a sufficient supply of stamps of all or any specified denominations of Postage stamps for retail sale; the sale of the stamps at one or more particular shops or places, and the prohibition of sales at other shops or places; and the days and hours of sale. The District Officer shall keep a register showing the name, residence, and occupation of every person to whom he grants such authority.

26. Superintendents and Inspectors of Post Offices within their respective jurisdictions, and any other officers of the Post Office authorised on that behalf by the Postmaster-General or Deputy Postmaster-General, are empowered to examine the stock of Postage stamps kept by any of the persons required or authorised to keep Postage stamps for sale to the public under rules 23 and 25.

BRANCH DEPÔTS.

27. Every subordinate, branch, or tahsil treasury shall be a branch depôt for the sale of stamps of all descriptions.

But in any case where the sale of stamps from such a branch depôt is insignificant, and equal facilities exist for the supply of stamps from a depôt in the same station as the branch depôt, the Local Government may direct the closing of the branch depôt.

28. The sub-treasurer, or such other officer as the Local Government may direct, shall be the ex-officio vendor of stamps at a branch depôt.

29. The officer in charge of the branch depôt shall obtain his supplies from the local depôt to which the branch depôt is subordinate, in the same manner as the ex-officio vendor at the local depôt obtains his supplies, except that the indent and the stamps must be sent by post or messenger to and from the local depôt; and that the examination of the balance in hand and the comparison of the amounts shown with those shown in the indent shall be done by the officer in charge of the branch depôt. In cases where there is likely to be a distinct saving of cost of greater security of the stamps in transit, the Local Government may empower the Board of Revenue or other superior Revenue authority to sanction the despatch of stamps direct from the central depôt to branch depôts, such supplies being passed through the accounts of the local depôt treated by the Superintendent of Stamps as supplies to the local depôts to which the branch depôts are subordinate.

The ex-officio vendor shall obtain his supplies from the officer in charge of the branch depôt, in the same manner as the ex-officio vendor at the local depôt obtains his supplies from the officer in charge.

30. The supply to be kept in a branch depôt should be equal to the probable demand for three months; but Local Governments may direct that the supply shall be equal to the demand of any other period instead of three months which they may consider expedient. The stock should be kept up to this amount by indenting and obtaining supplies from the local depôt from time to time as may be necessary.

31. Local Governments shall fix the period a supply sufficient for which shall be kept under single lock by the ex-officio vendor, and the remainder of the stamps in the branch depôt shall be kept under double lock of the officer in charge of the branch depôt and of the ex-officio vendor, and given out to single lock as required.

32. Sales from branch depôts will be made subject to the same rules as those from local depôts.

RETURNS TO AND BY THE SUPERINTENDENTS OF STAMPS AND ACCOUNTANTS-GENERAL.

33. On the last open day of September and March each year, the officer in charge of each * local depôt will count, or have counted in his presence, the stamps in the depôt, both those under double lock and those under single lock, and will require the officers in charge of the branch depôts subordinate to him similarly to count the stamps in the branch depôt. He will attach to the monthly statements for September and March rendered to the Superintendent of Stamps, Calcutta, Madras, or Bombay, or, in the provinces noted in the margin, to the local Superintendent or Commissioner of Stamps, or other officer named by the Local Government, a certificate in the following form:—

The North-Western Provinces and Oudh, Punjab, the Central Provinces, and Berar. [In the case of Revenue adhesive stamps supplied to Berar from the central depôt at Madras, the monthly statements will continue to be submitted to the Superintendent of Stamps, Madras.]

NOTE.—In the case of all stamped envelopes or postal wrappers, the discount or commission is calculable on the face-value of the stamp.

I do hereby certify that I have personally examined and counted, or had counted in my presence, the stamps of all descriptions in store in this local depôt on the $\frac{\text{September}}{\text{March}}$ 18 , and found the value of each description to be as stated in margin.* Also, that I have received certificates from the officers in charge of the subordinate branch depôts that they have similarly counted the stamps in the branch depôts on the last day of the month of $\frac{\text{September}}{\text{March}}$ of which the accounts are incorporated in the Head Treasury accounts, and that these certificates show the value of each description of stamps to be as stated in the margin.†

34. Monthly statements showing the receipts and issues of each local depôt, including the transactions of the subordinate branch depôts, shall be prepared by the officer in charge of the local depôt, and forwarded in the first week of the succeeding month to the Superintendent of Stamps, Calcutta, Madras, or Bombay, or the local Superintendent or Commissioner of Stamps, or other officer specified in rule 33, separate statements being prepared for General stamps, Court-fee stamps, Telegraph stamps, and Postage stamps.

These statements shall show for each denomination of stamp the values of the balance in hand at the beginning of each month, of the quantities received from the Superintendent of Stamps or other officer during the month, of the quantity sold during the month, and of the balance in hand at the end of month. The statements may be forwarded direct to the Superintendent of Stamps, Calcutta, Madras, or Bombay, or the local Superintendent or Commissioner of Stamps, or through any officer named by the Local Government.

35. The statements shall be checked by the Superintendent of Stamps, Calcutta, Madras, or Bombay, or by the local Superintendent or Commissioner of Stamps, or other officer specified in rule 33, by comparison with previous statements and the accounts of the central depôts, and shall be used by him to check indents and to watch the balances in the local depôts. If the monthly statements of transactions show that the balance of any kind of stamp in any local depôt is falling too low, the attention of the officer in charge should be called to the fact. To enable him to check the returns, each local Superintendent or Commissioner of Stamps, or other officer specified in rule 33, will be supplied by the Superintendent of Stamps, Calcutta or Bombay, with monthly statements showing the stamps issued to and returned by the local depôts subordinate to each.

36. Treasury officers and other officers in charge of local depôts shall forward to the local Accountant-General or Comptroller such returns of the receipts and sales of stamps as the Comptroller-General may direct, in the form of plus and minus memoranda or otherwise.

37. Each Superintendent or Commissioner of Stamps, or other officer specified in rule 33, shall send to the Accountant-General or Comptroller such accounts of the transactions of the central and local depôts as the Comptroller-General may prescribe.

38. They shall also every six months intimate to the Accountant-General or Comptroller, for comparison with the amounts shown in the returns received from treasuries and other local depôts under rule 36, the receipt of the certificates prescribed in rule 33, and the amount of stock certified to be in balance in each local depôt.

39. The Comptroller-General shall prescribe such rules as he considers necessary for the disposal of the accounts mentioned in the foregoing rules, and for the check of the receipts, issues, and sales.

40. The Local Governments in Bengal, Madras, and Bombay shall arrange for a periodical verification by counting of the stock of stamps in the respective central depôts. The verification shall be carried out in the manner and form prescribed by the Comptroller-General, to whom the result will be reported.

41. The Superintendents of Stamps, Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay, shall forward every month to the Director-General of the Post Office a statement showing the balances and receipts in the central depôt and the issues to each local depôt of Postage stamps during the month. Each Superintendent or Commissioner of Stamps, or other officer specified in rule 33, shall also send monthly to the Comptroller of the Post Office a statement of the sales during the past month of the several denominations of Postage stamps in the local and branch depôts subordinate to him. Each Accountant-General or Comptroller will, with his monthly account current with the Examiner of Telegraph Accounts, forward a statement showing the total realisations at each treasury from the sales of Telegraph stamps during the month.

The marks gained by candidates who fail will not be published.

1. The examination is held annually at the Civil Engineering College, Sibpur, on the 1st Monday in June. The examination will be conducted either at the College or by an Examiner, Public Works Accounts (including Railway and Telegraph) in Bengal, Assam, and Burma only. The examination will be ipso facto vitiated if it be not held (begun and completed) on the dates fixed, but the officer who will conduct the examination may make his own arrangements in regard to the place and hour of examination with the candidates.

Candidates will not be examined in any of the Calcutta offices.

A candidate already in permanent Government employ* may be allowed to compete in the examination even if he is more than 25 years of age, and may be appointed to an accountantship if he passes it, but if he is not already in pensionable service, he will be eligible only for appointment to the non-pensionable establishment on State Railways.

* This term includes employment under Local Boards and foreign bodies if such is pensionable by the British Government.

2. The candidate should apply to an Examiner of Public Works Accounts not later than 30 days previous to the date fixed for the examination, and obtain his consent to conduct the examination, if examination at the College is not convenient. The application must bear the address of the candidate, must be accompanied by a fee of Rs. 10 and the following certificates, and must be forwarded by him not direct to the Principal, but through the Examiner.

ACCOUNTS.

Certificates may be submitted in original, or true copies attested by an officer of the Engineer or Accounts Branch, but none will be returned:—

(1) Certificate of good character signed by applicant's immediate official superior or by the instructor under whom he has been educated, or by some other superior under whom he may have been brought up or employed, or to whom he may be well known. (This certificate must have special reference to the two years immediately preceding the application.)

(2) Certificate of age (baptismal or of birth not required if the candidate is already in permanent Government employ).

(3) Certificate that the application is in the candidate's handwriting.

It will rest with the Examiner of Accounts, to whom the candidate submits his application, on a consideration of these certificates, to decide whether the candidate should be registered for the examination or whether his application should be rejected. He will only forward the names of accepted candidates to the Principal, together with their applications in their own handwriting, statement of their ages, and fees. These should be transmitted altogether under one covering letter on the last day allowed by the rule.

3. Examination papers that are issued for examination need not be returned.

4. Each examination is complete in itself. A candidate who has failed in an examination, and presents himself for examination on a subsequent occasion must undergo the full examination and furnish fresh fee and certificates.

5. Passed candidates should apply, not to the Principal of the College, nor to the Accountant-General, Public Works Department, but direct to the Examiner of Public Works Accounts in the province or railway under whom they may desire to be employed.

6. It must be distinctly understood that the passing of this examination does not give any claim to an appointment, and that in making appointments preference will be given to qualified persons who are already employed in the Department.

7. The Civil Engineering College acts solely as an examining body in reference to admission to the fourth grade of Accountants, Public Works Department.

J. S. SLATER, Principal,
Civil Engineering College.

SIBPUR, the 26th March 1895.

N.B.—The attention of candidates is drawn to the alteration in rule 2 (3). In future no candidate is to apply direct to the Principal for permission to attend the examination, but must send his application through an Examiner of Public works Accounts, who will decide whether the candidate is to be admitted.
The Principal will attend to no application received direct.

THE following Bill was passed by the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 13th April, 1895, and is, by order of the President, published for general information:—

A Bill to provide for the maintenance of Records of Tenant-rights in Bengal, and for the recovery of the cost of Cadastral Surveys and Settlements.

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

A Bill to provide for the Maintenance of Records of Tenant-rights in Bengal, and for the recovery of the cost of Cadastral Surveys and Settlements.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide for the maintenance of records of tenant-rights and of settlement records in Bengal, and for an alternative method of recovering the cost of cadastral surveys and settlements; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

PART I.

Preliminary.

Short title.

1. (1) This Act may be called "The Land Records Maintenance Act, 1895."

Extent.

(2) It shall come into force only in Districts or parts of Districts of which a field survey and a record of rights have been made under Chapter X of the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885, or under any other law for the time being in force, and to which the Local Government may, from time to time, extend it by an order published in the Calcutta Gazette;

Commencement.

and thereupon this Act shall commence and take effect in the Districts or parts of Districts named in such order on the day which shall be in such order provided for the commencement thereof.

Interpretation clause.

2. (1) In this Act all words and expressions defined in the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885, shall have the meanings attributed to them, respectively, in that Act, and the word "addition" shall have the meaning attributed to it in the Indian Registration Act, 1877.

(2) By the term "record of rights" shall be understood the settlement record of tenant-rights called the khatian or such new editions of such record as may be prepared under rules made under this Act, or such other corresponding record of tenant-rights as may be declared by the Board of Revenue to form the record of rights for any District or part of a District. A record of rights includes entries duly made in a Register of Mutations.

PART II.

Registration of Mutations.

Registrars of Mutations.

3. The Sub-Registrars appointed under the Indian Registration Act, 1877, shall be Registrars of Mutations under this Act.

Registers.

4. The Registrar of Mutations shall keep such registers as shall, from time to time, be prescribed by the Local Government, including, for every village within the limits of the sub-district, a Register of Mutations, in which there shall be recorded changes affecting the record of rights of that village, and containing such particulars as the Board of Revenue may, from time to time, with the sanction of the Local Government, prescribe.

Landlords' statements.

5. (1) Whenever the Local Government shall issue a notification in the Calcutta Gazette to that effect, every landlord shall, within the period prescribed in the notification, file, in the office of the Registrar of Mutations, within the sub-district in which his tenants' land is situated, a statement, in a form to be prescribed by the Local Government, showing truly, to the best of his knowledge and belief, the changes, if any, which have taken place in his tenants' rights, by reason of transfer or succession, since the record of rights was prepared, or since the last statement was filed.

(2) The Collector of the District shall cause such notification to be published by affixing a copy thereof in some conspicuous place in the office of such Collector, in every Civil Court, in every police-station, and in the office of every Subdivisional Officer within the District, and in any other manner which the Local Government may from time to time direct.

Notice of transfer or succession to be given to Registrar of Mutations.

6. Every tenure-holder, raiyat at fixed rates and occupancy raiyat, who transfers his tenure or holding, or any part thereof, and every person claiming to be in possession of any tenure or holding as a tenure-holder, raiyat at fixed rates, or occupancy raiyat in consequence of a transfer or of intestate or testamentary succession, shall, within four months from the date upon which he gave or took possession, as the case may be, give notice of the fact to the Registrar of Mutations within whose sub-district the whole or some portion of the land to which the notice relates is situate, at his office:

Provided that a notice under this section is receivable although the prescribed period has elapsed:

Provided further that when any person has duly given notice under this section, all other persons are released from the obligation of giving notice in respect of the same transfer or succession:

Provided further that when an instrument effecting a transfer of tenant-right has been registered under the provisions of the Indian Registration Act, 1877, all persons are released from the obligation of giving notice under this section in respect of the same transfer.

The contents of the notice.

7. The notice shall contain—

(a) in the case of a transfer, the names of the transferor and the transferee, or in the case of a succession, the name of the deceased and his successor,

(b) a specification of the nature of the interest transferred or acquired,

(c) the survey number of the lands as entered in the record of rights, and

(d) such further particulars as the Local Government may, from time to time, prescribe.

8. (1) The Registrar of Mutations shall, on receipt of a notice under section 6, whether given within the prescribed period or not, from a transferor or transferee, ascertain if both the transferor and the transferee, or in the case of the death of either party since the transfer, if the one party and the representative of the other party admit the transfer, or in the case of the death of both parties if their respective representatives admit the transfer, and if both transferor or transferee or their respective representatives admit the transfer, he shall, after satisfying himself as to the identity of the persons appearing before him, cause the following particulars to be endorsed on the notice (that is to say):

Duty of Registrar on receipt of notice from transferor or transferee.

(a) the signature and addition of every person admitting the transfer; and if such transfer has been admitted by the representative or agent of any person, the signature and addition of such representative or agent;

(b) any payment of money or delivery of goods made in the presence of the Registrar of Mutations in reference to the transfer, and any admission of receipt of consideration, in whole or in part, made in his presence in reference to such transfer, and shall affix the date and his signature to these endorsements, and shall register the transfer in the Register of Mutations in such manner as the Local Government shall from time to time by rule prescribe.

(2) If necessary, the Registrar of Mutations may issue a summons for the attendance of either or both the transferor and transferee, or their respective representatives, either simultaneously or at different times, at his office:

Provided that, in lieu of issuing a summons, he shall either himself go and examine, or issue a commission for the examination of any person who is—

(a) exempt by law from personal appearance in Court,

(b) unable, by reason of bodily infirmity, without risk or serious inconvenience, to attend at the office, or

(c) in jail under Civil or Criminal process.

9. The Registrar of Mutations on receipt of a notice under section 6, whether within the prescribed period or not, from a person claiming by succession, shall, after satisfying himself as to the identity of such person and causing the signature and addition of such person to be endorsed on the notice, by a notice affixed in a conspicuous place, and by beat of drum, in the village in which the land claimed is situated, call upon any person who desires to do so to appear before him at his office within one month from the date of the last-mentioned notice and deny the succession, and if within that period no one appears and denies the succession, he shall endorse a statement of the fact on the notice affixing the date and his signature to the endorsements, and shall register the succession in the Register of Mutations in such manner as the Local Government shall from time to time by rule prescribe.

Duty of Registrar on receipt of notice from successor.

10. Notwithstanding anything contained in sections 8, 9 and 12, any person may attend at the office of the Registrar of Mutations by agent duly authorized by power-of-attorney executed and authenticated in manner hereinafter mentioned.

Appearance by agent.

11. (1) For the purposes of the last preceding section, the powers-of-attorney here mentioned shall alone be recognized—

(a) if the principal at the time of executing the power-of-attorney resides in British India, a power-of-attorney executed before and authenticated by any Magistrate or the Registrar or Sub-Registrar appointed under section 6 of the Indian Registration Act, 1877, within whose district or sub-district the principal resides:

(b) if the principal at the time aforesaid does not reside in British India, a power-of-attorney executed before and authenticated by a notary public, or any Court, Judge, Magistrate, British Consul or Vice-Consul or representative of Her Majesty or of the Government of India:

Provided that the following persons shall not be required to attend at any office or Court for the purpose of executing any such power-of-attorney as is mentioned in clause (a) of this section:—

persons exempt by law from personal appearance in Court; persons who by reason of bodily infirmity are unable, without risk or serious inconvenience, so to attend; and persons who are in jail under Civil or Criminal process.

(2) In every such case the officer, if satisfied that the power-of-attorney has been voluntarily executed by the person purporting to be the principal, may attest the same without requiring his personal attendance at the office or Court. To obtain evidence as to the voluntary nature of the execution, the officer may go to the person purporting to be the principal and examine him or issue a commission for his examination. Any power-of-attorney mentioned in this section may be proved by the production of it without further proof, when it purports on the face of it to have been executed before and authenticated by the officer hereinbefore mentioned in that behalf.

12. The law for the time being in force as to summonses, commissions and the compelling the attendance of persons summoned in suits before Civil Courts shall, mutatis mutandis, apply to any summons or commission issued, and any person summoned, under this Act.

Reason for refusal to register to be recorded.

14. If any of the persons purporting to have signed the notice, or any one mentioned therein as transferor or transferee or in the case of the death of either if his representative denies the transfer, the Registrar of Mutations shall refuse to register the mutation.

15. If the name of a transferor, or of a deceased person through whom succession is claimed, inserted in a notice given under section 6, is not recorded in the record of rights as that of the person in possession of the land specified in the notice, the Registrar of Mutations shall, without registering the transfer or succession, as the case may be, by a notice, affixed in a conspicuous place, and by beat of drum, in the village in which the land claimed is situated, call upon any person who desires to do so to appear before him at his office within one month from the date of the last-mentioned notice and deny that the alleged transferor, or deceased person through whom succession is claimed, was at the time of the alleged transfer in possession of the land specified in the notice. And if no person within the prescribed period so appears and denies, the Registrar of Mutations shall, if the other provisions of the Act are complied with, record the transfer or succession, the subject of the notice, in the Register of Mutations.

Procedure when transferor's name not in record of rights.

16. (1) When a Registrar of Mutations has made an order refusing to register a transfer or succession, an appeal shall lie within thirty days from the date of the order against such order to the Collector of the District to whom such Registrar of Mutations is subordinate; and the Collector may, after taking such evidence as he thinks necessary, reverse or alter such order: and if the Collector directs the transfer or succession to be registered, the Registrar of Mutations shall obey such order, and such registration shall take effect as if the transfer or succession had been registered when the notice was first given under section 6.

Appeal against refusal to register.

(2) No appeal shall lie from any order of a Collector passed under this section.

Registrar to allow inspection and to give certified copies of entries in Register.

(2) Copies given under this section shall be signed and sealed by the Registrar of Mutations and shall be admissible for the purpose of proving the contents of the original entry.

19. (1) The Local Government shall from time to time prepare tables of fees payable—

Fees to be fixed by the Local Government.

(a) for the registration of mutations—

(i) within the prescribed period,

(ii) after the prescribed period,

(b) for copies of entries in the Register of Mutations,

(c) for inspecting the Register of Mutations,

(d) for notices, processes and commissions given or issued under this Act,

(e) for such other matters as appear to the Local Government necessary to effect the purposes of this Act, and may from time to time alter such tables.

(2) Tables of fees so payable shall be published in the Calcutta Gazette, and a copy thereof in English and the Vernacular language of the district shall be exposed to public view in the office of every Registrar of Mutations.

A Sub-Registrar, registering an instrument effecting a transfer of tenant-right, or, under the provisions of sections 64 and 65 of the Indian Registration Act, 1877, receiving a memorandum of a transfer of tenant-right, shall as Registrar of Mutations make an entry in the Register of Mutations as if he had received a notice under section 6.

Registration of instruments effecting transfer of tenant-right and simultaneous registration of mutations.

23. (1) No person bound to give notice under section 6 shall, after the period therein mentioned, be entitled to obtain a decree for, or recover, the rent of any land the subject of the transfer or succession until he has given such notice, and if the defendant denies that the notice has been given, or if the Court thinks fit, it may require him to file a certified copy of the entry in the Register of Mutations relative to such land, or to adduce evidence to the satisfaction of the Court that the notice was duly given.

(2) No tenant bound to give notice under section 6 shall, after the period therein mentioned, in any suit in which his landlord is plaintiff and he is a defendant, be entitled to adduce evidence that he is a tenure-holder, raiyat at fixed rates or raiyat with a right of occupancy in the land held by him until he has given such notice, but the Court in which any such suit is tried shall afford the defendant sufficient time to enable him to give such notice.

24. Whoever voluntarily or negligently omits to give, within the prescribed time, notice under section 6, shall be liable to such fine, not exceeding fifty rupees, as the Collector of the District may see fit to impose.

THE BENGAL PROVINCIAL SERVICE BUDGET FOR 1895-96.

The Hon'ble MR. BOURDILLON moved for the discussion of the Bengal Provincial Service Budget for 1895-96.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

EXCISE REVENUE.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked:—

The Excise Revenue shows an increase in the revised estimates for 1894-95, and in the budget estimates for 1895-96. The receipts from license and distillery fees and duties for the sale of liquors and drugs amounted to Rs. 94,90,000 in the revised estimates for 1894-95, showing an increase of Rs. 3,55,000 over the actuals of 1893-94. Will the Government be pleased to state how much of this increase is due to Outstills? Will the Government be pleased to state the number of Outstills in 1893-94 and the number in 1894-95, district by district, if practicable?

The Hon'ble MR. BOURDILLON replied:—

"The information asked for cannot now be furnished. The receipts from Outstills in 1893-94 can be given separately, but those for 1894-95 cannot be shown, as the year has not closed. In framing revised estimates, separate estimates are not prepared of receipts under the different heads, so that it is impossible now to give details of the estimated total of Rs. 94,90,000 in 1894-95.

"The number of Outstills in 1893-94 was 2,034; the number actually open in 1894-95 is not yet known to Government. The distribution of Outstills by districts will be found in Table V appended to the Board's Excise Administration Report for 1893-94, to which I beg to refer the Hon'ble Member."

OPERATION OF THE OUTSTILL SYSTEM.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked:—

Whether the Outstill system, which was condemned by Parliament some years ago and abolished in most parts of Bengal, has been reintroduced in some parts of some districts within the last three years; whether a proposal to reintroduce that system into some parts of the Bankura district is now before the Board of Revenue or the Government of Bengal; and whether, in consideration of the general condemnation of the Outstill system by the public and by the House of Commons, the Local Government has considered it necessary, or will consider it necessary, in future, to consult local opinion, or public bodies representing public opinion, before reintroducing the Outstill system into any part of any district where it has once been abolished?

The Hon'ble MR. BOURDILLON replied:—

"During the last three years Outstills have been reintroduced in part of one district only, viz., Cuttack, where in 1893 six Outstills were sanctioned in a jungly part of the district remote from the Sadar distillery and bordering on the Gurjat frontier.

"A proposal was made to Government to reintroduce the Outstill system into certain sparsely populated tracts of the Bankura district, but the Lieutenant-Governor has already negatived the proposal. The Government of Bengal is always careful to ascertain the bent of local feeling and all the circumstances of the locality before introducing a change of the kind described; but in jungly localities, such as those referred to as being tracts to which the Outstill system is suitable, it can hardly be said that public feeling exists."

RECEIPTS FROM COURTS OF LAW AND STAMPS.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked:—

The receipts from Courts of Law have been estimated at Rs. 8,90,000; the expenditure under the same head is estimated at Rs. 90,32,000. The receipts from Stamps are estimated at Rs. 1,25,25,000. Three-fourths of this sum are credited to the Provincial Funds. If the Stamp Revenue were credited to the Courts of Law, there would be a surplus balance. This, however, is not done; the deficit in connection with the Courts of Law is met from the general revenues of the province. Will the Government consent to credit the receipts under Stamps to Courts of Law, and devote a reasonable percentage of the surplus balance to the improvement of the Courts of Law by adding to the number of Munsifs, raising the pay of the ministerial establishment, and by such other means as to the Government may seem fit?

The Hon'ble MR. BOURDILLON replied:—

"The Lieutenant-Governor is unable to give any such assurance as that asked for. All Provincial Receipts are credited to the Provincial Funds from which expenditure is sanctioned under the various heads according to the requirements and the relative importance of each. The theory that certain items of revenue should be set apart and hypothecated to certain items of outlay cuts at the root of Provincial Finance, and would render it absolutely unworkable. It is difficult as it is in most years to make revenue and expenditure balance each other, and it would be impossible, or intolerably inconvenient even if possible, to make an innumerable number of sub-heads balance each other, and to earmark every item of revenue as applicable only to the corresponding item of expenditure."

IRRIGATION WORKS.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked:—

The working expenses under "Irrigation" show a steady tendency to increase. The working expenses were Rs. 14,55,000 in 1893-94; in 1894-95 they were Rs. 14,67,000; for 1895-96 they have been estimated at Rs. 14,90,000. Further, the receipts from Irrigation under all heads show a steady decrease. The actuals for 1893-94 were Rs. 25,45,000, the revised estimate for 1894-95 was Rs. 23,43,000, which is Rs. 88,000 less than the budget estimate for the same year, and the budget estimate for 1895-96 has been fixed at Rs. 23,86,000. Explanation is solicited as to the increase in the working charges and the decrease in the receipts under this head?

The Hon'ble MR. BOURDILLON replied:—

"The estimated increase in working expenses during 1894-95 and 1895-96 is due to the heavy cost which has been, and will be, incurred in making good the damage done to the Midnapore Canal by the cyclone of May. 1893.

"The estimated falling off in the receipts is due to the fact that the figures of 1893-94 were abnormally inflated by larger traffic in the Orissa Canals and by the recovery of old arrears in the Midnapore Canal. These facts have already been stated in the last sentence of paragraph 4 of my Explanatory Note."

SALE OF QUININE BY POSTAL PEONS.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked:—

The receipts from Cinchona Plantation have been estimated for 1895-96 at Rs. 1,45,000, which represents an increase of Rs. 20,000 over the actuals of 1894-95. The explanation given is "Increase anticipated in consequence of the more extensive sale of Quinine in pice-packets." Will the Government be pleased to take into consideration a suggestion which has been made to facilitate the more extensive sale of Quinine, viz., that postal peons distributing letters should be furnished with the packets for sale?

The Hon'ble MR. BOURDILLON replied:—

"The suggestion that postal peons distributing letters should be entrusted with packets of Quinine for sale is not thought to be likely to lead to success. It would entail an amount of account-keeping and pecuniary responsibility on the part of the postal peons to which the Post Office Department would probably object. The Lieutenant-Governor is anxious to extend the sources of supply by utilising other means besides those of the Post Offices, such as isolated shops, railway stations, &c., but he does not consider that it would be desirable to entrust the packets, which are easily injured by damp, to the care of itinerating peons."

VETERINARY RECEIPTS.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked:—

A sum of Rs. 5,000 is estimated under "Veterinary Receipts" A sum of Rs. 1,47,000 is estimated under "Miscellaneous" under Head XXV (Miscellaneous). Will the Government be pleased to give some details as to these items?

The Hon'ble MR. BOURDILLON replied:—

"The estimate of Rs. 5,000 under 'Veterinary Receipts' represents, in round numbers, the total payments expected on account of horses and horned cattle to be treated at the Veterinary Institution, Belgachia, during 1895-96.

"The principal items in the total of Rs. 1,47,000 estimated under 'Miscellaneous' receipts are the following:—

	Rs.
(a) Recoveries from Local Funds towards the cost of offices of control and account	80,000
(b) Fees and fines in Revenue Courts	38,000
(c) Recoveries of law charges other than those in pauper suits ...	9,000

"The remaining items are of small amount."

RECOVERIES ON ACCOUNT OF THE DANKUNI DRAINAGE SYSTEM.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked:—

Receipts from "Recoveries on account of capitalized maintenance charges of the Dankuni Drainage System" (Head XXX of Appendix A) have been fixed at Rs. 4,000 in the estimates for 1895-96. The actuals for 1893-94 were Rs. 17,000. The revised estimates for 1894-95 came up to Rs. 15,000. An explanation is solicited as to why the estimate for 1895-96 should be fixed at Rs. 4,000 only?

The Hon'ble MR. BOURDILLON replied:—

"The total amount recoverable on account of the capitalised cost of the Dankuni Drainage Scheme was Rs. 65,344, which was to be realised in six years, beginning with 1891-92. It is calculated that up to the end of 1894-95 Rs. 60,000 will have been realised: of the balance of Rs. 5,344, it is proposed to recover Rs. 4,000 in 1895-96 and the remainder in 1896-97."

EXCHANGE COMPENSATION ALLOWANCE.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked:—

The estimates for 1895-96 under the head of Charges of District Administration show an increase of Rs. 71,000 over the revised estimates for 1894-95 and an increase of Rs. 1,38,000 over the actuals of 1893-94. In the Explanatory Note it is stated that the increase is chiefly for Exchange Compensation Allowance. Will the Government state how much of the increase is due to Exchange Compensation Allowance, and how much to the other charges mentioned in the Explanatory Note?

"In the estimate for 1895-96 under the head stated there is an increase over the actuals of 1893-94 of nearly a lakh under Exchange Compensation Allowance.

The remaining increase of Rs. 38,000 is due to the development of the Certificate Department (Rs. 10,000), to larger operations in surveying waste lands (Rs. 16,000), and to smaller items. It is impossible to compare the details of the budget of 1895-96 with those of the revised estimate of 1894-95, because they have not yet been ascertained."

AMOUNT OF EXCHANGE COMPENSATION ALLOWANCE IN BENGAL.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked:—

Will the Government state the total amount payable for Exchange Compensation Allowance for the Bengal Establishment for 1895-96? What was the total amount paid in 1894-95?

The Hon'ble MR. BOURDILLON replied:—

"The revised estimate of the sums to be paid from Provincial Revenues in the shape of Exchange Compensation Allowance is Rs. 9,19,000 for 1894-95, and the budget estimate for 1895-96 is Rs. 11,43,000. The actual figures for 1894-95 are not yet available."

LOCAL ALLOWANCE TO DIRECTOR OF LAND RECORDS AND AGRICULTURE.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked:—

In the Estimates for 1895-96 the expenditure under "Land Records and Agriculture" is put down at Rs. 90,000. Under the revised estimates for 1894-95, the expenditure was Rs. 87,000, and the actuals for 1893-94 came up to Rs. 81,000. The expenditure is thus steadily on the increase. In the Explanatory Note it is stated that a part of this increase is due to the payment of Local Allowance to the Director of Land Records and Agriculture. Will the Government be pleased to state what is the amount of the allowance, why is it paid, and what is the nature of the service for which it is paid?

The Hon'ble MR. BOURDILLON replied:—

"The amount of the Local Allowance payable to the Director of Land Records and Agriculture is Rs. 250 a month in addition to the pay of his grade. Though called Director of Land Records, he is in fact Settlement Commissioner, and the allowance is drawn by him in that capacity."

CHARGES FOR SUPERINTENDENCE UNDER EXCISE.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked:—

Under "Excise" the charges for Superintendence have steadily increased since 1893-94. The actuals for 1893-94 were Rs. 64,000; the revised estimate for 1894-95 put the expenditure at Rs. 66,000; the budget estimates for 1895-96 raise the amount to Rs. 73,000. It is explained that Rs. 4,000 have been provided for Exchange Compensation Allowance, and Rs. 1,500 for Local Allowance of Rs. 60 per mensem to each of the two Inspectors. Explanation is solicited as to why this Local Allowance to Inspectors should be granted? Was no Exchange Compensation Allowance included in the revised estimate of 1894-95? If such allowance was included, what was the amount? Allowing in the budget estimate of 1895-96 Rs. 4,000 as Exchange Compensation Allowance, and also the allowance granted to Inspectors, there would still be left a balance of about Rs. 1,500, representing increased charge of Superintendence, in regard to which explanation is solicited?

The Hon'ble MR. BOURDILLON replied:—

"The Local Allowance which it is proposed to give to the Inspectors of Excise is granted to compensate them for the loss which is shown to be entailed upon them when travelling under the existing rules of travelling allowance applicable to their case.

"No Exchange Compensation Allowance was estimated under this Head in 1894-95.

"The difference between the budget of 1895-96 and the revised estimate of 1894-95 is an increase of Rs. 7,000. Of this sum, Rs. 5,500 are accounted for as the Hon'ble Member points out. The remaining Rs. 1,500 of the advance are due to the adjustment of the pay of one of the Inspectors, which was formerly debited under a separate minor head."

BOARD OF REVENUE EXPENDITURE.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked:—

Under "General Administration", Head XVI, the revised estimate for 1894-95 shows that Rs. 2,80,000 represented the expenditure in connection with the Board of Revenue: the budget estimate for 1895-96 places the expenditure at Rs. 2,93,000. Explanation is solicited as to the increase of expenditure.

The Hon'ble MR. BOURDILLON replied:—

"In the increase of Rs. 13,000 pointed out by the Hon'ble Member, Exchange Compensation Allowance is responsible for Rs. 2,000. Another sum of Rs. 7,000 has been provided by the Accountant-General under the pay of the Junior Secretary to the Board of Revenue to meet the possible contingency of this appointment being held by a member of the Indian Civil Service. The remaining differences are of small amount."

JAIL EXPENDITURE.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked:—

Under "Jails" the expenditure under "Salaries" in the revised estimate for 1894-95 is Rs. 2,55,273; in the budget estimate the expenditure is placed at Rs. 2,60,000. An explanation is solicited as to the increase.

The Hon'ble MR. BOURDILLON replied:—

"The figures quoted by the Hon'ble Member are those not of the revised but of the budget estimate of 1894-95. The difference between the budget figures of the two years is due to an expected increase in the payment of Exchange Compensation Allowance."

MARINE ESTABLISHMENTS.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked:—

The expenditure under "Marine Establishments" shows a steady increase. In 1893-94 the actuals were Rs. 82,000; in 1894-95 the revised estimate places the expenditure at Rs. 83,000. In the budget estimate for 1895-96 the expenditure is put down at Rs. 87,000. An explanation is solicited as to the increase.

The Hon'ble MR. BOURDILLON replied:—

"The difference of Rs. 4,000 between the revised estimate of 1894-95 and the budget estimate of 1895-96 is due to the expected payment of Exchange Compensation Allowance at an enhanced rate."

MIDNAPORE CANAL.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked:—

Under the revised estimate for 1894-95, the expenditure for the Midnapore Canal is put down at Rs. 2,57,400; the budget estimate of 1895-96 shows an expenditure of Rs. 3,12,000. Explanation is solicited as to the cause of the increase? The receipts for 1895-96 from the Midnapore Canal are estimated at Rs. 2,77,000. Is the Canal being worked at a loss?

The Hon'ble Mr. Bourdillon replied:—

"The cause of increased expenditure anticipated in 1894-95 and 1895-96 has already been stated in the reply to Question under heading of 'Irrigation Works.'

"In ordinary years there is no loss but a profit, as the following figures for the last five years will show:—

Year.	Net profit. Rs.
1890-91	37,942
1891-92	27,373
1893-94	1,03,712

"The low estimate of receipts in 1895-96 is explained by the fact that it is always safer to make a low estimate, since the receipts vary a good deal according to the rainfall and the state of the crops from year to year."

EXPENDITURE IN CARRYING OUT THE RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE POLICE COMMISSION.

The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee asked:—

Will the Government be pleased to state the amount proposed to be spent in 1895-96 in carrying out the recommendations of the Police Commission? Will the Government be pleased to show the heads of the expenditure as recommended by the Police Commission, and the amount under each head, so as to indicate what part of the recommendations of the Commission has been given effect to?

"The following are the recommendations of the Police Commission with the estimated annual cost of giving effect to each of them:—

		Rs.
1.	To raise the pay of constables from Rs. 6 to Rs. 7 in the five Divisions of Burdwan, the Presidency, Rajshahi, Dacca and Chittagong	49,098
2.	To grant recruits free kits on joining	43,566
3.	To increase the clothing allowance	21,219
4.	To discontinue deductions from the men's pay towards a Superannuation Fund	57,534
5.	To grant special allowances to a prosecuting agency ...	21,120
6.	To grant allowances for the charge of a police-station	1,53,240
7.	To grant pony allowances to investigating officers ...	25,020
8.	To increase the number of Sub-Inspectors by reducing that of head-constables	2,82,484
9.	To increase the number of constables	50,343
10.	To reorganise the non-investigating police ...	30,338
	Total ...	7,33,962

"Complete effect has already been given to the first five recommendations as well as partial effect to the remainder except the seventh, which the Inspector-General of Police desires to leave in abeyance for the present. The substitution of Inspectors for Head-Constables as investigating officers is to be gradually carried out in ten years by an increased annual allotment of Rs. 28,206.

"On further consideration the Lieutenant-Governor has decided to spend on item No. 9 a further sum of Rs. 28,678, so that the total will be Rs. 79,021. Of this total, Rs. 33,594 have already been sanctioned, and the remainder will be expended in 1895-96. Under item No. 10 a reduction has been made of

Rs. 2,113, and the total stands at Rs. 28,225, of which Rs. 21,690 have already been granted, and the remainder will be expended in the coming year.

"The net result is that out of the estimated additional annual cost of Rs. 7,33,962, which the recommendations of the Commission involve, the Government of Bengal has already sanctioned the expenditure of Rs. 4,29,147 per annum, while a further sum of Rs. 80,168 will be expended in 1895-96, making a total additional expenditure of Rs. 5,09,315 per annum to the end of that year.

"Complete effect will have been given to the recommendations of the Commission when the balance of two lakhs and a quarter has been granted gradually in eight years as explained above."

The Hon'ble Mr. Womack said:—"I desire in the first place to congratulate the Government on the elasticity of the Revenue for 1894-95, which has resulted in a welcome addition of 11½ lakhs to the closing balance, and I trust that it will be found that the Revenue for the coming year will be equally elastic, and that, instead of a reduction in the balances which is anticipated, there may be an increase. I also desire to congratulate Your Honour on the success which has attended your efforts towards a reduction in the expense under the head of 'Stationery and Printing': to the unofficial mind there is always a great waste of money on Stationery and far too much Government Printing, and I have no doubt that further retrenchment is possible. I trust Your Honour and your Successors will continue to keep a watch on this matter, so that the expenditure under these heads may be reduced to a minimum.

"I would again call attention to a subject which was discussed in this Chamber a year ago, and, in view of the very satisfactory state of the finances, would enquire whether some reduction of the fees charged on the institution of Suits in the Court of Small Causes is not possible?

"Your Honour may not be aware that, by the practice of the Court, no interest is allowed except under certain conditions in the amount sued for, while the decree carries with it no interest, and no fees other than the institution fees are recoverable under the decree; this being so, it must be very evident that a plaintiff, even when successful, is bound to be a considerable loser by going into Court, and the result is that the Court is not resorted to unless the creditor is assured that the only chance of recovering any portion of his money is by proceeding to law, and is also certain that when he has a decree he can enforce it. These two points are, I am aware, beyond the cognizance of this Council, but I hope they will meet with attention in the rules which I believe the High Court is now framing for the guidance of the Small Cause Court; but if anything can be done towards reducing the fees, it will, I am sure, be of great advantage to suitors, and will add to the usefulness of the Court.

"I desire to refer to a subject which has been considerably discussed of late, and on which I have been pleased to see the remarks of Your Honour in another place. I refer to the purchase of stores in this country. The figures before us give no idea of the amount of either the local or the imported stores, nor am I sufficiently well acquainted with the figures of the Government of India to know whether the proportion of the cost of the purchasing and indenting establishment in England is added to the cost of stores imported. I am very much inclined to think not; I am quite willing to admit that at present, and for some time to come, a considerable proportion of the requirements of Government will have to be filled from Home, but I am certain that if a reasonable amount of discretion were allowed to the heads of departments, and if they were not so tied down by hard-and-fast rules, it would be greatly to the benefit of the country. I believe the Government of India has agreed to issue fresh rules on the subject to Local Governments and Heads of Departments, and I trust that those rules will be taken in the fullest and most liberal manner possible.

"In consequence of the financial position of the Province, I would ask Government, in view of the dreadful scourge of Small-pox with which the City is at present afflicted, whether it cannot assist the Municipality with a grant? I am given to understand that the extra cost to the Municipality will be something like Rs. 20,000; and as every rupee that the Corporation has is most urgently needed for absolutely necessary improvements, I am sure that if Government will give some assistance, it will be much appreciated."

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE said:—"I desire to join in the expression of congratulation at the excellent Budget which has been presented to the Council. It is impossible to approach the discussion of the Budget without congratulating the Hon'ble the Financial Secretary upon the very lucid statement which he has laid before us and the Government of Bengal upon the very efficient Financial Administration which that statement discloses. The Finances of a country might in one sense be said to form the backbone of the Administration. JOHN BRIGHT said in one of his speeches:—'Tell me what the financial position of a country is, and I will tell you all about the character of its Government and the position of the people.' Judged by this standard, the Financial Administration of the Province for the year 1894-95 may well challenge the approbation of public opinion. The receipts in the revised accounts of 1894-95 show an improvement of 14½ lakhs of rupees, the expenditure a decrease of half a lakh of rupees, and the closing balance a betterment of 11 lakhs of rupees, and this balance would have shown a still further improvement if the Government had not been obliged to make a contribution of three lakhs to the Imperial Government. The closing balance for 1894-95 is fixed at Rs. 33,73,000; while the closing balance for 1895-96 is estimated at Rs. 32,62,000. Such being the financial position of the Government, and such being our financial prospects, I venture to repeat one or two appeals which I made for the consideration of the Government about this time last year. At that time my criticisms were confronted with the remark that they were of a destructive character, and that I advocated impossible propositions involving increase of expenditure and diminution of revenue. It is impossible for me to say whether my criticisms on the present occasion will not be open to the same charge, but I feel that I shall not be doing my duty if I do not once again appeal to the Government, having regard to its prosperous financial position, to reconsider the question of the wages of its menial servants. They get a miserable pay and are obliged to rely upon the bukshish they can get or they can contrive to levy upon various parties. The price of food grains has risen enormously, and their wants have also grown with the growth of the times In making this appeal I have high precedent to rely upon. The Government of India has just raised the pay of the sepoy from Rs. 7 to Rs. 9 a month. The pay of the sepoy had been fixed at Rs. 7 a month ever since 1796. I will read an extract from the speech of SIR JAMES WESTLAND which sets forth the grounds for this increment:—

'The remaining amount, Rx. 180,000, arises out of an announcement which I have a very great pleasure in being charged with the duty of making. The pay proper of the Native Sepoy has been seven rupees a month since 1796, but in addition to this he enjoys other allowances, some of which are common to the whole force, like compensation for dearness of provisions, and some are special concessions, which apply only to portions of the forces. These last were mostly given under conditions which are no longer applicable, and they create in some cases undesirable inequalities of treatment.

'The necessity for an increase in the general scale of Sepoy's allowances has for some time past become increasingly evident to all engaged in the administration of India; and when some months ago the present Commander-in-Chief urged that the measure could no longer be postponed, the Government unanimously accepted the conclusion.'

"I venture to affirm that the claims of the menial servants of the Government are much stronger than those of the Sepoys. They have no special concessions made to them—they enjoy no allowances. And the Government of India with a cash balance of only Rs. 46,000 has felt itself constrained in the interests of justice to grant this increase of pay to the Sepoys. I might therefore with some confidence make an appeal for an increase of pay being granted to the menial servants when we have a cash balance of nearly 33 lakhs of rupees. I would include in the same category the ministerial establishments attached to the Civil, Criminal and Revenue Courts. They draw small salaries, and they eke out their miserable allowances by resorting to practices which will not bear the test of scrutiny. These practices are a matter of open secret. The high officers of Government are well aware of them—the Government is well aware of them. The Government should openly face the situation, and put down the scandal by the only means in its power, viz., by raising the pay of the ministerial establishment.

"This is not an original idea of mine. The Government appointed a Salaries Commission, composed of some of the most distinguished officers of the Government, and they unanimously and distinctly recommended that an increase of at least 75 per cent. should be made to the pay of the ministerial servants of the Government. The Salaries Commission said:—

'Assuming that on the grounds now set forth sufficient cause has been shown for increasing the salaries of ministerial officers, we have next to consider what should be the ratio and amount of such increase. That it should be, as far as possible, proportionate to the increase in the cost of living that has taken place since the last revision of salaries, is obvious, but from the nature of the case it is difficult to state precisely what that increase has been.

* * * * * * *

'The best way to settle the matter will probably be to fix such a mean as will be fairly applicable all round. This will, it is true, afford more relief in some places than in others; but if we assume that there has been an all-round increase of 75 per cent. since 1867, and recommend a proportionate increase of salaries for the whole of the Lower Provinces, it will have the effect of granting sufficient relief even to the least favoured districts, and will thus remove all occasion for discontent. Our Colleague, Babu Durgagutty Banerjee, points out that the Revision Committee of 1867 did not fix the salaries at that time with any reference to the cost of living, and that to make a fair comparison we ought to go back to the early years of British rule, when the ministerial establishments were first organised, and since when there has not been any increase of salaries at all proportionate to that which has taken place in the cost of living.'

"Then the Commission go on to observe:—

'It now remains for us to determine the scale of salaries in the light of the foregoing remarks. Finding, as we do, that the cost of living may fairly be taken to have risen, in the aggregate, to 75 per cent. as compared with 1867, when the present scale of salaries was fixed, and that there are unmistakeable indications on all sides of a tendency upwards, we consider it desirable, not only in the interest of officers concerned, but also in the interests of the service and of the public at large, that the scale should be raised as much in reference to the present and prospective rise in the cost of living as the state of the finances may permit, though an increase to the full extent of 75 per cent. would be more than could possibly be conceded by Government. This is the more desirable, as the officers attached to the other departments, namely, the Subordinate Judicial, Executive and Educational Services, as also to the Police and Opium branches, have of late years had their position and prospects improved. Our proposals on this subject will be found in the next Chapter.'

"The Salaries Commission recommended a graded scheme. I will not read what they said with regard to this graded scheme, but they strongly advocated an increase to the salaries of ministerial establishments, having regard to the fact that such increase had taken place in the salaries of Judicial and Executive Officers of Government. On the last occasion, when I had the honour to bring forward a proposal of this kind, Your Honour was pleased to lay down the proposition that the Government would feel it its duty to resist to the utmost any application of this kind so long as it could do so consistently with a sense of justice. I rest my case upon the highest considerations of justice. If it is fair and just that Exchange Compensation Allowance should be granted to the highly-paid officers of Government drawing comfortable salaries, so that they might be relieved of the pressure to which they are subjected by the fall in the Exchange, is it not equally fair and just that the humblest servants of Government should receive an addition to their pay so that they might be placed above want and the temptations to which want exposes them? Is it not fair and just that the public should be safeguarded against any inducement which they may have to levy blackmail upon them? The Government is no respecter of persons. The highest and the humblest servants of Government are equal in its eyes. The same equal measure of justice should be dealt out to all. If the high officers of Government get exchange compensation allowance, the humbler servants of Government should be granted a small addition to their pay.

"Coming to the head of 'Law and Justice,' I find that there has been an increase of expenditure to the extent of 1½ lakhs. The greater part of this expenditure is due to Exchange Compensation Allowance. In the estimates for 1894-95, provision was made for the appointment of two Munsifs and of an Additional Judge for the Eastern Districts. I do not know whether these appointments have been make, but I can find no similar provision in the budget estimates before us. Turning to the question of the increase in the number of Munsifs, I venture to differ from the opinion of the Government in this matter. I maintain that the establishment of Munsifs is not adequate to the increasing work with which they have to cope, and I rely upon the statistics furnished by the Hon'ble the Chief Secretary in reply to a question which I had the honour to put in this Council. I find that the number of contested cases decided by Munsifs under the Small Cause Court procedure in 1890 came up to 11,000, whereas in 1893 the number rose to about 21,000; that is to say, so far as this branch of cases is concerned, the increase was nearly 50 per cent. Then, with reference to ordinary cases under the ordinary procedure, the number in 1890 was 77,000 and in 1893 82,000; here the increase was small and insignificant. Taking all the cases, contested and uncontested, I find that the number rose from 400,000 to over 500,000, or, in other words, the number of cases had risen by more than 25 per cent. in the four years from 1890 to 1893 Now, what has been the increase in the establishment of Munsifs from 1890 to 1893? The number of Munsifs had risen from 262 to 289, or, in other words, by about 10 per cent. Therefore we are driven to the conclusion that whereas the number of cases increased by nearly 25 per cent, the number of Munsifs was increased by only 10 per cent. Then you must bear in mind that there was much important work done by Munsifs which is not included in these statistics—I mean what is called 'Miscellaneous Work'. I am told by my hon'ble friend MR. W. C. BONNERJEE that some portion of the miscellaneous work done by Munsifs is of a very important and responsible character. I am well aware of the remark made in the statistics furnished to us that there has been a slight improvement in the outturn of work done by Munsifs—an improvement in the quantity of work done; but I venture to express the opinion that an increase in the quantity of work turned out does not necessarily involve an improvement in the quality of the work done. In Judicial work improvement in quantity often means deterioration in quality. At any rate we have this fact, that the addition to the staff of Munsifs has not been in anything like the ratio in which the work has increased. I therefore most respectfully venture to solicit the attention of the Government to this important matter. I know that it means an addition to the permanent expenditure of the Government; but having regard to the financial position of the Government and the statistics to which I have referred, I hope the Government will see its way to making some addition to the number of Munsifs.

"There is another matter to which I wish to refer in this connection, namely, that Munsifs suffer very much from bad house accommodation. Your Honour gave expression to this opinion in your recent tour in the Eastern Districts, and I appeal to the Hon'ble MR. BEIGHTON, whose intimate knowledge of the position and work of Munsifs is very great, in support of my observation. Many of the Munsifs have been known to fall victims to their unhealthy surroundings. The High Court has called attention to the want of proper accommodation for Munsifs, and I submit that it is the duty of the Government to provide proper house accommodation for their officers, especially in the outlying and unhealthy districts. It is a duty recognised by Government in regard to its executive officers, and I hope the duty will also be recognised so far as Munsifs are concerned.

"Coming to the question of 'Education,' I find that there has been an increase under all the heads of this branch, except 'Miscellaneous,' in which there has been a slight decrease. I should like to be informed what the items are which are included under this head, and in what respect the decrease has taken place. I think it would be satisfactory if the heads of expenditure are so arranged as to show how much has been expended under high education and how much under primary education.

"With reference to the Excise Revenue, I find that the fees from distilleries and the duties from the sale of liquor are steadily increasing. In 1893-94 the receipts under this head came up to Rs. 91,000; in 1894-95 they rose to Rs. 94,000; in the budget estimates for 1895-96 they have been fixed at Rs. 96,000.

"On the other hand, so far as ganja and opium are concerned, there has been no substantial increase. Are we then to conclude that the expansion of the Revenue was due to the expansion of the Outstill system in the outlying parts of the country? and if this was so, it would represent a deplorable departure in the policy of the Government and a violation of the mandate of Parliament.

Such a policy would be disastrous to the best interests of the peasantry of this Province, and it would involve the financial ruin of the Government, for no Government can thrive upon the wholesale demoralisation of the people.

"One word more before I conclude. We are all grateful to the Government for allowing us the right of discussing the Budget in this Council, but I think the character and tone of the discussions will greatly improve if we have more detailed information given to us. At present we have only the major heads and the expenditure under those heads. For instance, under the head of 'High Court,' the total amount of expenditure is shown. We do not know what the salaries of the Judges are, what the number of the Judges, the establishment of officers, and the like are. The details are not given. If our criticisms are to be of any value, we ought to be able to enter into these details and not confine our remarks to the main outlines under each head I understand that in the office of the Accountant-General a detailed budget is prepared. Would there be any objection to lay that Budget before this Council? The members of the Bombay Legislative Council are furnished with such a detailed budget, and they are able to criticise the details of Financial Administration far more effectively than it is possible for us to do here with the scanty information before us. Perhaps if such a procedure were followed it may lead to the postponement of the debate on the Budget to the middle of June or July, but as our function is not to sanction or to modify, but only to criticise and discuss, I do not think such a course would lead to any public inconvenience."

The Hon'ble MR. LYALL said:—"As an old Inspector-General of Police I desire to say a few words on a very important point in the Budget now before us, namely, the increased expenditure under the head of 'Police.' While I held the position of Inspector-General I found the efficiency of the Police and their good working very seriously affected by the very large reductions which took place during the time when SIR ASHLEY EDEN was Lieutenant-Governor. I have always looked upon those reductions as the one blot on that Administration. Here, in Bengal, in the absence of any other local agency, we perhaps depend more than in any other Province on the efficiency of our Police, and anything which will raise that efficiency and make the Police less corrupt will be conducive both to the good of the country and to the advantage of the Administration. I rejoice therefore to see that Your Honour has been able to sanction so large an additional expenditure on account of the Police. There are, however, one or two points of Police Administration in regard to which I think further improvement is possible. In the old days the post of Court Inspector was very much run after. Men get old, and many get fat, and when a man who had past his prime was found unfit for the active duties of an Inspector, he was given the comparatively easy post of Court Inspector. That post is now held by Sub-Inspectors, most of whom would be equally efficient in the post of Inspector. The change which I advocate can be made without any increased expenditure. Another point to which I wish to refer is the very great run there was at one time for police appointments when SIR RIVERS THOMPSON promised to promote one or two members of the Police Force to the Subordinate Executive Service. When it was found that to enter the Police opened a door to the Subordinate Executive Service, a class of men entered the force who had never entered it before, as they saw before them prospects of possible promotion. We all know what effect the office of Archbishop of Canterbury has in ordinary men to enter the Church, and what effect the possibility of obtaining a seat on the Woolsack has on the Bar, and the promotions from the Police to the Executive Service certainly produced a similar effect. I think it would be well if Your Honour would again open that means of promotion to deserving officers of Police.

"I wish to add one remark with reference to what fell from the Hon'ble MR. WOMACK as to the reductions under the heads of 'Stationery and Printing.' The Department of Stationery is under my immediate control, and I wish to say that it is owing to the judicious expenditure of a comparatively small sum in giving increased accommodation to the Stationery Office that the large reductions which have been made have been found possible, and it is due to Your Honour to state that it is entirely to you that this reduction has been made possible.

So long as the Stationery Office was so dreadfully cramped for space, nothing like proper economy was possible."

The Hon'ble MR. BEIGHTON said:—"As a special appeal has been made to me as possessing perhaps a more intimate knowlege of the work performed by Munsifs, the way in which they are housed, and the inconveniences from which they suffer, especially in remote and malarious subdivisions, than other hon'ble members, I feel bound to say that it is impossible not to sympathise to a great extent with what the Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE has said. I believe His Honour is himself aware from personal observation of the extremely rough accommodation with which Munsifs in many unhealthy localities have to content themselves. In some places there is no dwelling available at all, even of the rudest description. An instance of this kind occurred not long ago. The Munsif of Baraset was compelled to apply to the High Court for permission to live in Calcutta owing to his absolute inability to find a residence of any kind at this subdivision. The question of supplying houses for Munsifs is one for the consideration of Government, and its complete solution in any satisfactory way must necessarily involve a large outlay. Nevertheless I should be very glad if the Council were to hear to-day from His Honour that Government were prepared by way of a commencement to meet this grievance, to build houses in some selected subdivisions where the greatest difficulty is felt, and allow Munsifs to occupy them on reasonable terms.

"The hon'ble member has also made some observations on the amount of work which devolves on Munsifs, and from statistics which he read he came to the conclusion that while the number of the Munsifs in the last few years has increased by 10 per cent., the number of cases disposed of by them has increased by 20 per cent. The Subordinate Judicial Service is no doubt hardworked, but I think a little too much is sometimes made of the amount of labour they have to undergo. As a rule they sit for a considerable number of hours in Court, but it would be a mistake to suppose that the whole of this represents a very large amount of mental strain. The great bulk of their work is not of a complicated or difficult nature. Their judicial work may be roughly divided into three classes: cases under the rent-law, suits under the Small Cause Court Procedure, and suits involving the adjudication of questions of title. The work under the latter head is undoubtedly difficult, and for its proper performance demands intellectual qualities of a high order. The other two classes of suits, however, cannot be said to make much demand upon the mental powers. The distribution of work is generally arranged so that a Munsif may have upon his file a fair proportion of cases of all classes, so that the aggregate of work involving a severe mental strain is not as a rule great. Then, a great deal of the judicial work of Munsifs is uncontested. This practically involves no intellectual exertion. The same may be said of the miscellaneous business to which reference has been made, consisting of the examination of accounts and the supervision of the Nizarat and Copying Departments. The number of hours, therefore, which a Munsif has to sit is not a true criterion of the expenditure of brain power involved.

"I wish to add a few remarks with reference to what fell from the Hon'ble MR. WOMACK on the report of the Calcutta Small Cause Court.

"The hon'ble member seems to me to labour under certain misapprehensions. He complained in the first place that no fees were allowed to a successful plaintiff for the legal practitioner engaged to conduct the case. This is, however, distinctly provided for in section 76 of the Presidency Small Cause Courts Act, except in suits below Rs. 20 in value, and even in such suits the Court may allow a fee, if the Court considers the employment of a practitioner 'as under the circumstances reasonable.'

"Then, again, he complained that no interest was allowed on current accounts before the decree was passed, and also that after decree until the date of realization the Court refuses interest. As to the first point the question involved is one of law and is entirely beyond the control of Government in the Financial Department. The usual practice is that on a running account for goods sold, a merchant or tradesman is not entitled to interest unless there was an actual agreement to pay interest on the part of the purchaser. The Calcutta Small Cause Court, like all other Courts, is bound in this respect, as in others, to follow the law. As regards interest after decree, a provision of the Civil Procedure Code (section 209) has been incorporated in the Presidency Small Cause Courts' Act, and this provision allows of the Court awarding interest at such rate as the Court considers reasonable. With reference to another observation of the hon'ble member that the fees payable on the institution of suits in the Small Cause Court are too high, there can be no doubt that they are somewhat higher than institution fees on suit filed in the ordinary tribunals. With regard to this, it will be within the knowledge of many hon'ble members of the Council that I made a detailed enquiry into the organization of the establishment of the Calcutta Small Cause Court some two years ago, and that I recommended considerable reductions of expenditure, some of which have been already, and others will in time be, carried out. There can be no doubt that these reductions have considerably increased the profits of the Court, and if a representation is made on the subject to Government, this increase in profit should in fairness to the public be borne in mind when the question of reconsidering the amount of institution fees leviable is again taken up. I am not aware whether any such representation has been yet made or whether the subject has been discussed in the Financial Department."

The Hon'ble MR. COTTON said :—" I only wish to trouble the Council with a very few observations in regard to the Budget under consideration. It is impossible, I think, not to sympathise to a large extent with the remarks and criticisms made by the Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE, and in one particular I must say I personally sympathise largely with what he said on the subject of the improvement of the salaries of the lowly-paid servants of the Government. I have no doubt whatever that the time is not far distant when some increase of pay will have to be granted, certainly to some of the menial enployés of the Administration, and possibly to some of the more under-paid clerks. The practical difficulty on these occasions arises from financial considerations. The Government have in the past year granted a large increase to the lowly-paid officers in the Police. The statement laid before you to-day shows that the total sanctioned increase of expenditure in the Police Department amounts to considerably over seven lakhs of rupees per annum. Such an increase as this involves a heavy strain on the resources of the Administration. Although it is not easy to make an estimate of what it would cost to make a corresponding increase of pay to the Ministerial Establishments in these Provinces, there can be no reasonable doubt that if an increase corresponding to that given to the Police were given generally, it would cost three or four times as much. Funds are not available to the Government for this sort of generosity. I have no doubt that in some measure the demands of the hon'ble member will be complied with; but that they will be complied with as liberally as the corresponding demand in the case of the Police Constabulary has been met I am afraid is not possible. Then, again, with regard to the Civil Courts, it is impossible not to feel that there is great force in what hon'ble members have told us, namely, that the Munsifs are very indifferently housed. On the other hand, it can hardly be expected that the Government should provide houses gratis for the large number of Munsifs who are scattered all over the Province; and if suitable accommodation is provided, it will be necessary to charge them a suitable rent for the buildings which the Government may construct. But I am not altogether sure how far the Munsifs themselves will be pleased with such an arrangement. One of the advantages of a Munsif's appointment in the Mufassal is, that he spends very little. It is one of the points in which the Provincial Judicial Service is preferable to the Provincial Executive Service, that Munsifs are able to live more cheaply than their contemporaries in the executive line. If houses are constructed for them, they will have to raise their standard of living, and they will have to pay suitable rents. Again, the amount of work done by a Munsif has undoubtedly increased in the ratio indicated by the Hon'ble Member, but it is right that I should point out that this large increase of work is almost entirely in the Small Cause Court Department. As the Hon'ble Member justly stated, the increase in the number of ordinary contested suits is very slight indeed, namely, from 77,000 suits to 82,000 in the course of five years, and that is an increase which has been more than met by the considerable number (29) of additional Munsifs appointed during the same period. The increase in Small Cause Court work is due to the fact that a few years ago Small Cause Court cases were not triable by Munsifs. They have now, on the recommendation of the High Court, been largely vested with power to try cases under the Small Cause Court procedure, and are so enabled to deal with petty cases with greater despatch and promptitude. It is to the interest of the public that this should be so. But uncontested cases give little or no trouble to the presiding Judge, and even in regard to petty contested cases—I can speak from personal experience as a Small Cause Court Judge—that they give very little trouble. Therefore the department in which the increase of the work of the Munsif is largest does not press very much upon the time of the Munsif. I wish to add that while the Government is fully alive to the necessity for increasing the staff of Munsifs, Munsifs are not the only officers of Government who are hardworked. The executive officers of the Government are also very hardworked. I should be justified in saying that the class of Deputy Magistrates as a whole is as hard-worked, if not harder worked, than Munsifs. Certainly I find from my experience that they suffer more largely from ill-health brought about by work and exposure than civil judicial officers. Although it is very easy to urge upon the Government the necessity for increasing these Courts by adding to the number of Munsifs, yet when one takes the question up practically, it is found that financial considerations preclude any very active progress in that direction. The progress which has been made in this direction since I have had the honour to be Chief Secretary is greater than that which has been made in most of the other departments of the Government. Look at other departments: look at the Jails, for instance. How easy it would be to spend a few lakhs in improving the prisons in this province; to rebuild prisons, the construction of which has been condemned, and to construct new jails on the most improved methods where they are required. Look how much money could be spent on the Registration Department, which is expanding by leaps and bounds; look at the public buildings of all sorts and descriptions, Administrative, Medical, Educational; look at the Munsifs' Courts. If we are to house Munsifs properly, it is also necessary that they should have suitable Courts. There are numberless directions in which the Government could spend its money, and this I may state on behalf of the Government that it does spend all the money it can in the directions in which it is most required. If money were available, none of the objects to which the Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE has referred would be left unprovided. If money were available, all his prayers would be granted. Much has been done hitherto in these directions, and I am sure that, with the improving condition of the Provincial Finances, more will be done in the future."

The Hon'ble MR. BEIGHTON explained:—"With the permission of the Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT, I wish to make one remark with regard to what has fallen from the Hon'ble the Chief Secretary. In alluding to my observations as to the insufficiency of house accommodation for Munsifs and in expressing his concurrence with these observations, he expressed a doubt whether they would be willing to pay rent for houses if Government provided them. I think that, knowing as I do the views of Munsifs better probably than any other official member of the Council, I can assure my hon'ble friend that they would be only too glad to pay any reasonable rent which the Government might think it right to impose."

The Hon'ble MR. BOURDILLON said:—"Before I proceed to answer in detail the criticisms of the budget statement to which we have just listened, I desire to express on my own behalf and on behalf of the Government my appreciation of the kindly tone of those criticisms; they breathe a spirit of appreciation of the work done by the Government and of sympathy with its difficulties, which makes the task of replying to these observations as pleasant as it is easy. The Hon'ble MR. WOMACK commenced by congratulating the Government on the reductions which have been effected in the course of the past year and the year before in the departments of Stationery and Printing: his remarks upon this point were extremely acceptable to myself, as I know how much attention has been given by His Honour the President to the matter, and what pleasure it has given me to aid his efforts in that direction; and it is gratifying to find that a practical member like the Hon'ble MR. WOMACK has appreciated our exertions, and that speaking on behalf of the large and influential body he represents, he has been able to congratulate the Government on its economies under the head of 'Stationery and Printing'. As regards the fees in the Small Cause Court, the Hon'ble the Legal Remembrancer has relieved me of the necessity of giving any answer. The hon'ble member can hardly expect me to give him an assurance that the Government will take steps to bring about a reduction of those fees. All that I can possibly say is that the matter will be carefully looked into, and that what can be done will be done. With regard to the purchase of stores, that is virtually a measure which is in the hands of the Government of India; for the Viceroy in Council and the Secretary of State have long since laid down very strict rules as to purchasing in this country articles of European manufacture. The matter has for some time had the personal attention of the Lieutenant-Governor, and as an instance of His Honour's practical support of local products, I may mention that during the last two years large savings have been effected by an order that all the paper used by officials under the Bengal Government should be paper made in this country. The hon'ble member concluded his remarks by an appeal to the Government to help the Calcutta Municipality in its efforts to abate the Small-pox epidemic now raging, and to provide relief for the sufferers from that dreadful scourge. I may tell the hon'ble member that a similar appeal has been made within the last few days by the Calcutta Municipality, and it has been my duty to reply to them that in the opinion of the Government it is a matter with which they should deal themselves, and that the epidemic being of a local character and the Calcutta Municipality having large funds at its disposal, the Government is not prepared to come forward with pecuniary assistance. It is not perhaps known to the hon'ble member how very large a proportion—two-thirds at least—of the cost of the medical institutions in the City is contributed by Government, and in the case of the Campbell Hospital, to which the Municipality does contribute a considerable sum, the proportion of the expenditure which is defrayed from Provincial Revenues is 60 per cent.

"The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE suggested the propriety of raising the salaries of members of the ministerial establishments, and his representations have been replied to both by the Chief Secretary and the Legal Remembrancer. It is admitted that if funds were available, there is hardly any direction in which money could be better spent than in raising the salaries of these low-paid servants of the Government. But this is a very large question, and, unlike other cases in which expenditure is needed, this is a matter in regard to which if a step in advance is once taken, there is no retreat. If the wages of the ministerial establishments are generally increased, the charge becomes a permanent one, and we cannot go back. It is obvious therefore that the matter must be taken up with great care and circumspection. Already in districts where the price of grain is very high, the Government is able under the rules in the Civil Account Code to raise temporarily the pay of such of its servants as draw less than a certain minimum salary, and I may mention that in 1893-94 considerable sums were granted for this purpose in districts where prices ruled exceptionally high.

"With regard to 'Law and Justice,' it is unnecessary for me to add anything to what has already been said by the Chief Secretary, since he dwelt at length on the question of the number of Munsifs and the increase of their work, but I may state that the question of the housing of Munsifs is a matter to which the Lieutenant-Governor in his frequent tours through the Province has constantly paid attention, and it is one to which careful consideration will be devoted within the next few months in connection with the balance at the disposal of Government.

"The hon'ble member next asked for the details of expenditure under 'Education.' I hold in my hands a statement which shows at one view the whole expenditure upon Education in Bengal, whether from Provincial Revenues, District Funds, Municipal Funds, the Mohsim Fund, or other sources. It is divided into several main heads, showing the expenditure not only in the Education Budget proper, but also that on special and medical instruction, and the public works expenditure upon school buildings; so that the hon'ble member will be able to see the amount spent under any head in any year as well as the source from which the funds have been derived. The Lieutenant-Governor caused this statement to be prepared with the express object of laying it before the Council on this occasion, but as this is the first year of its preparation, all the Commissioners of Divisions have not been able to supply the details of municipal expenditure, and so far as that information goes, the statement is incomplete. I shall be very glad to supply the hon'ble member with a copy of this statement as it now is, and also to send him a copy of the statement when it has been completed showing the expenditure upon Education from Municipal Funds.

"The expenditure on 'Excise' also came under criticism, and the hon'ble member argued that the increase in the receipts must be due to the development of the Outstill system. In answering the hon'ble member's second question this morning, I pointed out that during the last three years the Outstill system has not been introduced in any district except only in part of Cuttack, where, in 1893, six Outstills were sanctioned in a jungly part of the district, remote from the sadar distillery. Speaking from memory, I venture to say that the number of sanctioned Outstills has not increased. The hon'ble member should bear in mind the distinction between the number of shops sanctioned and the number of shops actually let: the numbers sometimes differ, because shops which have been sanctioned are not let. The number of shops for each district is settled every year, and in the number thus settled little variation takes place from year to year.

"The shops are then let out, and if any one year shows a larger number of shops let than that which preceded it, this result is not due to any effort on the part of the Government to develop the drinking habit among the people: it is rather the barometer of the prosperity or otherwise of the times. When the year is prosperous, the sanctioned shops are all taken, but when times are hard, the sanctioned shops are not all let.

"Lastly, with regard to what fell from the hon'ble member as to the desirability of laying a detailed Budget on the table, I have to inform him that such a Budget is already prepared. What is technically known as the Yellow Book contains in detail all the information the hon'ble member desires to have, but it refers to actuals, not to estimates. I would also point out that the perusal of such a detailed statement will be extremely irksome to most persons, though perhaps one or two hon'ble members might take the trouble to look into the details. However, subject to any remarks which may be made by His Honour the President, I will only say that, if desired, the latest existing detailed statement of the kind described can be laid upon the table, when the annual Provincial Budget is submitted to this Council.

"I desire to add a word more, namely, that in acknowledging on behalf of Government the unanimous approval of the financial arrangements of the Province which has been accorded by this Council, it is only fair to say that the Government has had nothing to do with the increase in the revenues, which is chiefly due to the general prosperity of the country and the operations of the Eastern Bengal Railway. All we can lay claim to is some credit for the very close way in which our expenditure has been kept within the budget sanctions of the year before. This is due to the loyal manner in which the careful instructions issued by the Government of India have been carried out by all the officers to whom they were communicated in 1894-95, and again at the time when the present Budget was being framed. If hon'ble members will look at the budget estimates of the year 1894-95 and at the revised estimates of the same year, they will find that the sanctioned grants have not been exceeded under any considerable head. There is only one head in which there has been any considerable increase, and that increase is the best possible proof of the intention of the Government to foster Local Self-Government; for the sum of Rs. 2,30,000 has been taken from Provincial Funds and made over to Local Funds. Of this sum, Rs. 1,54,000 represent the cost of public works of various kinds, which have been entrusted for execution to District Officers and Local Boards, and the large sum of Rs. 60,000 has been taken from under the control of the Director of Public Instruction and made over to District Boards to meet the wants of primary education.

"It is only left for me to congratulate Your Honour that in the last year of your Administration it will be your good fortune to have the control of so large a sum as 11½ lakhs for the execution of many schemes long since approved but delayed hitherto merely for want of funds, and generally for promoting the material progress of this great Province."

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said:—"I wish to associate myself with the remarks which have just been made by the Hon'ble the Financial Secretary with regard to the satisfaction which I myself and every member of the Government must feel at the manner in which our Financial Statement has been treated by this Council. It has been received in a flattering and appreciative way, and the remarks, whether appreciative or critical, clearly showed that the financial control which has been exercised over the Province has been understood and looked into, and that the deliberate feelings of my hon'ble colleagues in this Council support the Government in the measures which it has taken.

"Before going into further details I ask your leave, gentlemen, to make a few remarks upon the subject of interpellations in general, to which I have been partially led by the questions which have been put to-day. You, no doubt, are aware that the project of allowing a greater freedom in the putting of interpellations always accompanied the idea of the enlargement of the Legislative Councils, and while it is not fitting for me to betray the secrets and discussions which took place in the Executive Council, I think I may say that every member of that Council, at different times, expressed the view that interpellations of the kind that we looked forward to would be in the highest degree beneficial to the establishing of good relations between the Government and the people of the country. What our view was cannot, I ventured to think, be better expressed than as put in a Minute of SIR GEORGE CHESNEY to the effect that the Government has nothing to conceal, that it has every desire to explain the reasons for its actions, and it has everything to gain by making those reasons known as fully as possible. I think you will agree with me that the results have not altogether met the anticipations which we formed. Somehow or other—it is difficult to say how—a sort of idea has grown up in the public mind that an interpellation must necessarily be hostile, and that an hon'ble member who puts an interpellation may be presumed to have a desire to heckle the Government or to expose its shortcomings in some way or another. I think it is most unfortunate that such a feeling should have grown up. It has been due to criticisms which have been passed on the style of questions put, not so much in this Council as in the Councils of other provinces, and I think in many cases these criticisms, whether applied to other provinces or applied to this province, have not been altogether reasonable or sympathetic. I certainly feel that I have nothing very much to complain of as regards the spirit with which interpellations have been put here, but I think that we might put interpellations upon a better footing if it were thoroughly understood that the Government desire to deal with all the members of this Council as its trusted Councillors whom it wishes to associate with itself in its policy, and to whom it wishes to impart the information which it possesses. On many occasions interpellations take this form:—'Does the Government know of a certain action which has been pursued by a certain officer in the mufassal?' Either the Government says, 'we do not know, but we shall enquire,' or else the Government says, 'yes, we know; the officer in question was acting within his legal and prescribed powers, and it is not desirable for the Government to be always putting its finger into the works of its machinery and making the wheels go round in a different way or in a different direction than the one in which it is intended to go round.' This feeling that the Government should interfere directly in such matters is perhaps attributed to the Oriental notion which has come down to us from antiquity that the Government is all-powerful, and that it is able to redress an injury whenever it sees it. Unfortunately, the Government is not all-powerful, and the limits of human efforts are extremely restricted. There are but 24 hours in a day, and it is impossible to spend all those 24 hours in looking after what is done by officers in the mufassal in regard to matters in which the law or the Government gives them power to act independently. Then, there is another class of questions, of which we have had an instance to-day. My hon'ble friend, BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE, who put them, desired to get information on many subjects, and seems to think that the only way of getting that information is to put these questions. What I want to suggest for the future carrying out of the work of the Council is, that it would be very convenient if hon'ble members would consult the Secretaries to the Government privately on subjects of this kind before they put their questions in the Council. There are a great many points in the list of to-day's questions which could have been explained to the hon'ble member more quickly and even more clearly if they had been put in the Secretary's own room, and if he was shown the papers on which the answers had been based. I am afraid that my friends, the Secretaries, might think that a new vista of horrors is opening out to them, if, in addition to their ordinary work, of which no one knows better than I do how laborious it is, they may have to spend hours in explaining these things to the non-official members of the Council. Of course, if my suggestion is followed, you, gentlemen, will not require of them any undue expenditure of time of the kind to which I have alluded. I think it will be quite possible to fix a certain day and a certain hour at which the Secretary would be available, and having received notice beforehand would have the papers ready and explain matters to any member who may desire any information or explanation. I make this suggestion not with the idea of burking any enquiry or putting any restriction upon the power of putting interpellations. Ordinarily speaking, where information is desired, it can be more quickly obtained in this way. If the information that is obtained leads hon'ble members to think that the action or the policy of the Government requires correction or criticism, then would be his opportunity to put his question in Council on a better basis and in a more complete way than he can now. I believe that if this suggestion is taken advantage of, it will, to some extent, lead to a diminution of interpellations, and to a great extent will make the questions more definite, more pointed, more precise, and more useful in drawing out the particular points which are required to elucidate facts or policy which may require discussion.

"Turning to the particular points put before us, there is but little left for me to say after the able manner in which the Hon'ble the Financial Secretary has replied to the different criticisms which have been brought forward, and I wish to say with him how much I appreciate the manner in which these suggestions have been made. I felt it my duty on a former occasion to use words which have been quoted to-day, and which imply a certain amount of complaint that the object of our debators seemed to be to cut down revenue in every direction and to increase expenditure. Nothing that I said on that occasion applies to what has been said to-day. All the suggestions made to-day are useful and practical ones—the suggestions of men who know what they are talking about, and whose views are such as to deserve the serious attention of Government and the sympathetic desire of the Government to meet their suggestions as far as possible.

"With regard to the Hon'ble MR. WOMACK's remarks about the Small Cause Courts, I think those remarks have been fully and completely answered. As the Hon'ble MR. BOURDILLON has said, we will have a careful enquiry made into the question of fees, and ascertain whether it is in the competence of Government to alter them, and whether if it is desirable to do so, it can be done without incurring any financial loss or giving to suitors advantages which would be relatively too large compared with the costs which have to be incurred in other Courts.

"With regard to the question of Stores, the Hon'ble MR. BOURDILLON has already said what we have done in the matter of Stationery. The chief class of stores is, of course, that purchased by the Public Works Department; and, as I mentioned in the Supreme Council on Thursday last, that subject has lately been engaging my attention, and I have been looking with some disappointment to see how little had been done to carry out the policy of procuring them in the country. As I said then, until manufactories are set up in which steel shall be cast or iron wrought in this country, it will be impossible to avoid procuring from England the articles which our Public Works Departments most require, such as steel rails, steel sleepers, rolled joists, angle iron, and articles of that kind. No experienced commercial gentleman would advise us to procure them in this country through middlemen, because obviously the profit of the middlemen would be thrown upon the price put on the article, and no one, with any knowledge of the subject, will deny that it must be cheaper to buy in England and import direct from the India Office than to buy here from merchants in this country, who have to purchase from the manufacturers in England and impose their own profit before they part with the articles to purchasers. But I propose to take steps to have a return prepared annually and laid before the Council on the next recurring occasion to show what the nature of the stores is which are purchased in England and those purchased in India, and from that return it will be possible to draw a conclusion whether anything is done which at all contravenes the rules of Government or that Resolution which the Hon'ble MR. WOMACK has drawn attention to. It may also possibly have the beneficial effect of pointing out to the people in the trade what the nature and quantity of articles of this kind is, and of encouraging them to get out the necessary machinery for casting steel rails or rolling iron joists in this country. There is nothing which is more to be desired than the establishment of industries of that kind. It was a great disappointment to me that the Barrakur Iron Works, which was handed over to a private Company partly at my suggestion when I was Public Works Member of Council, in the hope that that Company would carry on the works more efficiently than the Government had done—it was a great disappointment to me that the anticipated progress has not been made, but I am still not without hope that we may see iron wrought and steel cast in these Iron Works, and if not there, elsewhere.

"Coming next to the Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE's remarks about the wages of menials, the Hon'ble the Chief Secretary has represented my views upon this subject. I think that the quotation which my hon'ble friend made from my remarks on a former occasion could hardly have been correctly made. I do not challenge it, but it did not seem to me to be anything which I remember to have said, or to express the attitude of mind which I took up with regard to that particular question. I may certainly say that the raising of the wages of the menial servants of Government would be, in my opinion, a very desirable thing if financial considerations allowed it, and if the hon'ble member could tell me what it would come up to, or if I was able to form off-hand an estimate, however rough, of the cost of doing it, I would at the present moment give the hon'ble member an answer more or less indicating my view as to the possibility of carrying out this matter during the present year. I may point out with regard to the raising of the pay of the Sepoys, which has just been effected, that this is an instance which shows how slowly a reform of that kind is carried out, and how long the applicants have to knock at the unwilling doors of the Treasury. As he himself remarked, the wages of the Sepoys had not been raised since 1796. Indeed, I may say that during the last fifteen years I have been rather intimately acquainted with the financial business of the Government, and I know that this proposal has been continually before the Government of India during that time, and as you see it has only just been carried out. The question of the wages of the menial servants of the Government stands in the same position; it has to knock at the door and continually go on knocking, and I have no doubt that the door will be opened at some time. I should be very glad if it could be opened during my time. One word as to the analogy between this increase of the wages of the menial servants and the Exchange Compensation Allowance to which reference was made by the hon'ble member. I would point out that we do for our menial servants what exactly corresponds with the Exchange Compensation Allowance given to European officers. These menial servants do not send their wives and children to England, and have not to remit money there. What corresponds in their case to the increased expenditure thrown on European officers by reason of the fall in exchange is the rise in the price of food. The compensation for the dearness of food which is constantly given to menial servants by definite rules when the market prices reach certain limits exactly corresponds with the Compensation Allowance when the exchange falls below certain rates. I only mention this as an academical argument, as showing that we have something to say on our side, and not as implying that I wish to contest the propriety of the suggestion which the hon'ble member has made, or as drawing back from what I have said as to my own desire to carry out this suggestion.

"Next, with reference to Munsifs and the supplying of suitable accommodation for them, with regard to which an appeal has been made, which in no degree exceeds my own views as to the hardships which Munsifs in many parts of the country have to suffer. I wish to mention that we are at present engaged in correspondence with the High Court on the subject. I have pointed out that there are three alternatives: first, the one mentioned by the Hon'ble the Legal Remembrancer of constructing houses with public funds, and I fear with the Hon'ble the Chief Secretary that any Government provision made in this way would be considered by Munsifs themselves to be too costly. As all of you know, our Public Works Department builds with solidity and not with cheapness, and if we have to charge so large a sum as will cover the cost of building a residential house which will be suitable and comfortable, the rent which will be fixed will be very much higher than Munsifs are in the habit of paying and much more than they would like to pay. This is one alternative, and even if this alternative is adopted, the work cannot be carried out at once, but will have to be done somewhat gradually, because out of the 289 Munsifs shown in the statement given last week, we may assume that about 200 of those are at outlying stations, and the cost of building houses for them, taking it at Rs. 5,000 per house, would come to about ten lakhs of rupees, so that that cannot be done at once. The other alternatives suggested were that Munsifs should take advantage of the provision which already exists under which any officer can apply for an advance to build his own house, it being understood that the High Court should, in their administrative capacity, see that a due value should be put upon it, and that the incoming Munsif should be compelled to take it at a fair rent; or that we should use our efforts and get capitalists or zamindars and other wealthy people in the mufassal to build houses for Munsifs, and having fixed a fair rent, we should in the same way issue orders that the Munsif should occupy that house and pay the rent fixed. These are the only three ways in which I consider it possible to meet the difficulty, and we are awaiting the advice of the High Court as to which of these courses we should pursue.

"Then, as regards 'Excise'. I would only mention one point in addition to what the Hon'ble the Financial Secretary has said as to the cause of the large increase of revenue from spirits. There are two ways to account for this increase in the revenue—first, by purchasers paying larger fees, and, secondly, that more liquor was consumed. If hon'ble members will read the Resolution on the last Excise Report, they will see that the Government took care to point out, and were able to show, that in almost every case where there had been an increase in revenue it had been accompanied by a relative decrease in quantity, so that the increase in revenue had not been obtained by an increase in the quantity of liquors and intoxicating drugs, but by the duty producing a larger revenue and making it dearer to consumers. I may mention some of the steps we took to raise the price.

"The still-head duty on rum, which is largely consumed in the country, was raised by one rupee, and the increase of revenue from this source was about one and-a-half lakhs, and again the several classes of license fees for the wholesale and retail sale of liquors in Calcutta were considerably raised, and from this also increased revenue of about half-a-lakh was gained. I am as confident as it is possible for any one to say who speaks without premeditation on a subject which has largely occupied his mind, but without the figures before me, that the increase in the revenue to which the hon'ble member alluded has not been due to an increase in the sales of liquors, but to an enhancement of its price.

"I will only add this, that I am entirely opposed to a large increase of Outstills, and I strongly hold to the propriety of the principle of the manufacture of spirits at sadar distilleries and the imposition of still-head duties upon it, and that, although there may be arguments for establishing Outstills in outlying districts and scattered places, I am not inclined to extend the number of Outstills to the prejudice of system of distilleries at head-quarters.

"With reference to the request that had been made by the Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE for more detailed information than that given in the budget statement, I shall be glad if he will see the Hon'ble the Financial Secretary and look over what information exists in the office, and if there is anything which is likely to be really useful or meet the wishes of members in general, it will be put before him. But I entirely deprecate anything which would lead to an increase in the labour of writing or in the cost of printing, because, as a matter of fact, information of a most extraordinarily minute and complete character exists in the book issued by the Financial Department, called the Yellow Book, to which I refer the hon'ble member as a standard source of information of the actual expenditure of the country at large, showing that of the whole of India and of each province under very minute heads. When I was President of the Finance Committee I relied almost entirely upon that book for the information we required, and I found that almost everything necessary to examine the state of the finances was to be found there. But that represented past and completed expenditure. Similar information is not supplied as to the details of estimated figures, but I think the Council will agree with me that the Government are wise in declining to take so much labour and expenditure with their estimates, and should incur it only when the books for the year are closed and the expenditure known with absolute certainty.

"The remarks which were made by my hon'ble friend, MR. LYALL, upon the police management were useful remarks made by an officer of great experience, and anything that he said on this subject must receive careful attention. They shall be laid before the Inspector-General of Police, and considered in the Judicial Department, and anything that the Government can do, especially with regard to the suggestion which he made regarding the employment as Court Inspectors of men who are still intelligent and capable, but who are physically inactive, shall certainly be considered with all the attention the subject deserved. With reference to the suggestion of the same hon'ble member that police officers should be appointed to the Subordinate Executive Service, I may say that we have here an example of our old friend 'the better is the enemy of the good.' The Government has adopted a better policy, namely, the restricting the appointments to the Subordinate Service by competitive examinations, and in this way we have obtained, by rules the credit of which is chiefly due to the Hon'ble the Chief Secretary, an excellent body of recruits—quite the flower of the educated young men in the province, all of whom have graduated, many of whom are M.A.'s and B.L.'s of good families, and sons of men who have either served the Government honourably and well, or hold good positions in the country. These rules were rigidly adhered to and rightly so, and I am quite sure that the policy has been a wise and successful one, and you will see how difficult it would be to deviate from this policy, and make what are called special cases: it will be like the letting in of water. Once make a special case of Police Inspectors who cannot pass the examination, and we shall receive applications from all quarters, and I therefore quite support the rigidity with which the Hon'ble the Chief Secretary has refused applications of this kind. But the Hon'ble MR. LYALL has omitted to notice that we have done more than SIR RIVERS THOMPSON did by promoting Inspectors to the covenanted grades of the Police, two of them being raised to Assistant Superintendents of Police in every three years. The position thus gained in their own service carries with it higher pay than by promotion to the executive service, and I think it will tend more to the good of the Police and to the Executive Service than if we were to revert to the old rule which was good at the time, but which is inferior to the policy now adopted.

"There is only one point on which I can add anything to what has been said with regard to Stationery and Printing. Every reform of this kind is accompanied with a certain amount of loss of efficiency. One of the chief causes of the reduction of expenditure has been a strict adherence to the rule that if an improvement is made in the form of a return, it should not take effect at once as a zealous officer would, no doubt, desire it should take effect, but the carrying out of the improvement should wait until the printed copies of the old form were exhausted. On the one hand, it will be seen that a saving is effected by first using copies of the old form in stock, while others may contend that the loss in efficiency by the postponement of the improvement is greater relatively than the gain effected by utilising the forms already in stock. Taking the strong economical view I have always taken, I am inclined to think that the carrying out of the reform should, in such a case, be postponed. Many reforms which are in themselves good are better for being postponed, and gradually introduced, and I think we are right in doing so, even though it has caused a slight postponement of the improvement in administrative procedure, which is desired.

"I will only trespass upon your attention further by remarking on one other subject, and I must apologise for doing so. My chief reason is that I spoke on this subject two days ago, when the Reporters were so tired in the course of a long debate that what I said failed to reach the public ear, at any rate in the manner in which I wished it to reach the Public. At last Thursday's meeting of the Viceregal Council I referred to the speech made by the Right Hon'ble MR. FOWLER, and the optimistic view which he took of the state of the Imperial Finances. He went on to show that while the whole of our public debt was over 200 millions, almost the whole of that debt was covered by our assets in the form of railways, canals, and public works of that kind. No sooner had he said that than an answer was put in by a well-known English writer who holds a very influential position in England as the Editor of the Investor's Review, who replied:—'What nonsense are you talking? Do we not find that in every bankruptcy the assets are greater than the liabilities, but the man is a bankrupt because his assets cannot be realized?' I confess I saw with great regret how greedily that was taken up by a certain class of Journalists in the country as an effective answer to what the Secretary of State had said, and, as an illustration of the futility of the reply, I drew attention to the railway with which we are most concerned, and to which more than anything else our good financial position is due, namely, the Eastern Bengal State Railway. I had then with me, as I have now, the accounts of that Railway for the last five years, and I showed that the net receipts of that Railway had risen from 67 lakhs to 70 lakhs in 1893-94, and to 87 lakhs estimated in the present year. The capital of that Railway has, during the same period, increased from 10 to 10½ crores, while the net returns on that capital have increased from 5·1 per cent. to 8·2 per cent. Now you all, as practical men and men of business, know very well that a working concern of that kind which brings in 8·2 per cent. per annum is an extraordinarily good investment. If we went into the market and wished to sell that Railway, we could get not ten or ten and-a-half crores, but almost double that amount. And, therefore, I assert that our assets in the form of railways and canals and public works, so long as they produced returns of that kind, are not merely equal to our liabilities as the Secretary of State has said, but are worth much more than the money actually spent upon them,—worth far more than would cover the whole of the public debt in India. I can hardly conceive how a gentleman in the position of the Editor of a great financial paper in England came to utter a criticism like that, except by an explanation which impugns either his intelligence or his honesty.

"I will only say, in conclusion, that I congratulate myself, and I congratulate the Council, upon the turn which the debate has taken to-day. It has not only been eminently useful and practical, but I am satisfied that it will raise the reputation of this Council in the eyes of the Provincial Councils of India in general."

The Council adjourned to Saturday, the 6th April, 1895.

LICENSES FOR ARMS.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked:—

Will the Government be pleased to lay on the table the report of the Commissioner of the Dacca Division, with reference to the question asked in Council on the 23rd March last, regarding licenses granted for the carrying of arms? Is it the case that licenses granted by the Magistrate of Dacca permit the carrying of arms only in the village or the town where the holder of the license may happen to reside, and not throughout the whole district? Does the Government approve of this restriction? If not, will the Government be pleased to direct that the restriction be withdrawn, and the holder of the license be allowed as before to carry arms throughout the whole district, and with the permission of the Commissioner throughout the whole Division?

The Hon'ble MR. COTTON replied:—

"It appears that this subject was under enquiry before the Hon'ble Member's original question was put, the Commissioner of Dacca having on the 12th January last asked the Magistrate of Dacca his reasons for restricting a license to carry arms to the limits of the village within which the licensee resides.

"The Magistrate of Dacca explained on the 3rd February that the great majority of persons who ask for gun licenses state that they require guns either for the protection of their homes from robbers or of their fields from pigs and deer. He considers that for such persons a license to use a gun within the limits of their own village is sufficient, and that it is undesirable to allow them to carry their guns round the country with the danger of their being used in agrarian disputes. He adds that the limitation of the license to a village is not enforced in the case of zamindars, whose interests extend over several villages, or of travelling traders or persons of position generally.

"The Lieutenant-Governor does not think that the action of the Magistrate as thus explained has been injudicious, and he is not aware that any complaints have been locally made, but he has authorised the Commissioner, if any application is made to him, or if he thinks it necessary to interfere in any particular case, to extend the operation of any such license to a larger area than the village or to the whole district.

"When a gun license is countersigned by the Commissioner of a Division it is valid not in the Division only, but throughout all the districts in Bengal which are subject to the Lieutenant-Governor."

THE LAND RECORDS MAINTENANCE BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. BUCKLAND in presenting the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to provide for the maintenance of Records of Rights in Bengal, and for the recovery of the cost of Cadastral Surveys and Settlements, said:—

"I do not propose to make any remarks on the present occasion, but will reserve what I have to say until the next meeting of the Council. I will only mention that a copy of the Report was sent to the Hon'ble THE MAHARAJA OF DARBHANGA, who has left Calcutta, and that this morning I received a telegram saying that he authorised me to sign the Report on his behalf, reserving to himself the right of moving amendments."

THE CALCUTTA PORT ACT, 1890, AMENDMENT BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. RISLEY moved for leave to introduce a Bill to further amend the Calcutta Port Act, 1890. He said:—

"It will be convenient that I should explain at the present stage the provisions of the Bill and the nature of the alterations it will make in the Act. The Act itself is a consolidating Act which incorporates the old Act of 1870, gives certain powers to the Port Commissioners, lays down their constitution, and gives them all the powers which are requisite for the working of the Port. The amending Bill, which I have the honour to introduce, contains two kinds of sections: first, it contains amendments, which may be described as ordinary amendments, embodying those changes which experience in the working of the Act has shown to be necessary. Some little time ago the question of amending the bye-laws of the Port Commissioners arose, and those bye-laws were sent for opinion to the then acting Advocate-General. He held that in some respects the bye-laws went beyond the section of the Act which gives the power to pass bye-laws. That section belonged to the original Act, X (B.C.) of 1870, and had been repeated, unaltered, in the more recent Act of 1890.

"The necessity for amending the Act having arisen out of these bye-laws, a Committee of the Port Commissioners was appointed to look through the entire Act and see what other amendments were needed, and on their proposals were based the sections of the Bill which I have described as ordinary sections. With respect to these sections there is no urgency in point of time: and if they were not passed till two or three months hence, no practical difficulty would arise. But besides these there is another class of sections, in respect of which considerable urgency may be claimed. These sections are intended to relieve the very important petroleum trade from certain legal difficulties with which it is now beset—difficulties which are causing considerable hardship, and may cause something approaching to actual embarrassment. Fortunately for the necessity of passing an amending Act quickly, the ground has been very thoroughly cleared for us by the action which has been taken by the Port Commissioners and the Chamber of Commerce. Negotiations went on between the two bodies for some time last year; a representative Committee was appointed by the Chamber of Commerce, which went into the matter very thoroughly, and all the questions which arose were discussed between them and the Port Commissioners, and an agreement was arrived at. The best legal advice was obtained, and since then action has actually been taken and money has been spent by the Port Commissioners on the faith that their action would be legalised, and this we are pledged to do as early as possible.

"I will now go through the amending sections of this Bill as briefly as I can, taking first those which are in the nature of ordinary amendments, and then taking the sections which are specially framed to relieve the petroleum trade.

"Section 2 of the Bill corrects a verbal error in section 13 of the Calcutta Port Act, III (B.C.) of 1890. It will be seen that section 12 of the Act gives power to the Local Government to grant leave of absence to the Vice-Chairman and to appoint a person to officiate as Vice-Chairman during such absence on leave, and sub-section (2) of section 13 enacts that 'the person appointed under this section to act for the Vice-Chairman' shall have certain powers; but this reference should be to the preceding section 12, under which a person is appointed to officiate as Vice-Chairman, and not to section 13; so that the amendment to be made in sub-section (2) of section 13 is a purely verbal amendment.

"The next section we have to deal with is section 32 of the Act, which confers upon the Port Commissioners, among other things, the power of fining their officers and servants. It is proposed to form these fines into a fund from which it should be open to the Commissioners to grant compassionate allowances to their officers and servants, and to utilise the same for purposes other than those which are contemplated by section 57 of the Act. It has been held by Counsel that all sums collected as fines by the Port Commissioners would be merged in the general revenues of the Port, and could not be formed into a fund such as that which is now contemplated.

"The 4th section of the Bill amends sub-section (2) of section 35 of the Act, the wording of which has been slightly altered. The only point, however, which arises is that the Port Commissioners wish to take power to carry passengers in their tramways, which, as the section stands, they have no power to do now. It is not contemplated to initiate a large passenger service, but under certain circumstances the Port Commissioners may consider it desirable to take passengers which they have no power to do now.

"I will for the present pass over section 5 of the Bill, which I shall refer to later on in connection with the sections of the Act relating to the trade in petroleum.

"Section 8 of the Bill amends section 106 of the Act, which deals with passenger boats which ply for hire within the Port, that is to say, boats, steam-ferries and the like which have been registered under the Act. Section 106 empowers the Port Commissioners to levy tolls on such vessels, but for a long time past the Commissioners have been levying charges for certain services, such as surveying, issuing licenses, painting numbers, giving tickets, and so forth. It has been pointed out by Counsel that the section is limited to the levy of tolls on such boats, and does not include charges for such services; it is therefore desirable that the existing practice should be legalised.

"The next sections of the Bill, 9 and 10, amend sections 108 and 109 of the Act. These sections provide for the imposition of additional tolls to meet a deficit in the income of the Port Commissioners which is liable to arise, and which has in fact arisen by reason of their liability to the payment of interest upon their debt; and the way in which the deficit has hitherto been met is by the imposition of a uniform rate of 4 annas per ton on all goods landed and shipped in the Port. The Port Commissioners represent that this uniform rate of charge is not a convenient arrangement, that it is liable to bear hardly on some articles of Commerce and nominally upon others; they therefore want full power to distribute this burden equitably according to the character of the goods which are landed or shipped. They accordingly propose to take power to levy additional, general, or differential rates of toll with reference to all goods, according to weight, measurement, number of articles, value, and so forth, and, if necessary, to distinguish between imports and exports. The section looks a somewhat complicated one, but I understand that it has been very carefully considered and drafted by MR. WOODROFFE, which, I think, should afford a sufficient guarantee of its correctness.

"Section 16 of the Bill, amending section 126 of the Act, is the section empowering the Port Commissioners to make bye-laws. As I said in the first part of my statement, when these bye-laws came up, it was found that a great many of them were not covered by the sections of the Act, and the Advocate-General proposed that the section should be amended in the manner suggested. The second part of the section, sub-section (b), has reference to the petroleum sections.

"This disposes of the first class of amendments, ordinary amendments with reference to which, as I said, there is no claim to urgency. These in themselves are quite sufficient to justify legislation, but they would not warrant my asking for a suspension of the Rules of Business. The sections relating to petroleum stand on quite a different footing. They authorise the Port Commissioners to provide facilities for the petroleum trade at Budge-Budge. When the Budge-Budge warehouses were originally started, I think in 1888, they were treated in effect as bonded warehouses. Importers were allowed to put their cases of oil into these warehouses, and to keep them there until they wanted them for delivery to purchasers, and the duty was only collected at the time when the goods were taken out for sale. The time during which petroleum was kept in these warehouses was more than what was allowed in the case of ordinary bonded warehouses, where goods cannot be kept for indefinite periods of time; but here there was no limit of time. About this time last year the Collector of Customs discovered that the system of bonding petroleum at Budge-Budge was illegal; that the Budge-Budge warehouses were not a 'bonded warehouse,' and that the procedure then existing was altogether bad in law. The Collector accordingly enforced the law, and the result was that duty had to be paid on all goods brought into these warehouses within four months of their being landed. This caused considerable hardship to the importers of petroleum, because the trade in petroleum having been conducted on the assumption that oil could be bonded for an indefinite period, prices were adjusted to that state of things. Obviously you can sell cheaper if you can spread the interest upon your money over a long period of time. About the same time there was a very remarkable increase in the imports of petroleum; an enormous quantity of oil was brought in, and there was no warehouse accommodation. The Port Commissioners had to direct where the oil should be stored; and, for want of room, large quantities of it were stacked in the open, and I imagine there must have been some considerable damage done. Not very long after that a special Act was passed in this Council to relieve the Port Commissioners from the legal liability which, it was understood, attached to them in respect of the landing and storing of petroleum, and that Act was passed at a single sitting of the Council. The difficulties which had arisen in connection with the petroleum trade were taken up by the Chamber of Commerce, who appointed a Special Committee to consider and report on the question. The report of this Special Committee was adopted by the General Committee of the Chamber, negotiations took place with the Port Commissioners, and an agreement was come to on the subject. It was agreed that in future, instead of importers landing petroleum themselves, the Port Commissioners should land all petroleum. Not only should they land it in the technical sense, which, I understand, is merely receiving it after it is put over the vessel's side, but they should also undertake the process known as 'stevedoring;' that is to say, they should send men into the hold and pass it over the side of the vessel. Importers, it was said, were not always very desirous of landing petroleum quickly, and it was desirable to have the means of putting pressure upon them. It was also settled that the Port Commissioners should not do the work themselves, but should do it by the agency of Contractors, or at any rate that they should have the option of doing so; that bonded warehouses should be provided for the storage of petroleum; that the oil should be stored there as long as the Commissioners thought fit; that the Port Commissioners should give a security bond to the Customs for any duty due on imports of petroleum; that they should issue warrants specifying that so much petroleum had been received, and that such warrants should pass from hand to hand when the goods were transferred; finally—and this is an important condition—it was agreed between the Port Commissioners and the Chamber of Commerce that the Commissioners should be exempted absolutely from liability for damages arising from fire, however caused; while they should be liable for loss arising from deterioration, and so forth, only so far as it could be shown to arise from the negligence of the Commissioners' servants. The agreement thus arrived at was understood to be satisfactory to both parties. The Port Commissioners were at first under the impression that no legislation would be required, except for the purpose of creating bonded warehouses. They thought all the other measures contemplated could be carried out under the existing law, and they acted on that supposition. Subsequently, however, they found that the landing of petroleum by them and its custody also required amendment of the law.

"It will now be convenient if I take up in order the sections which refer to the petroleum trade, and in the course of my explanation I shall be able to show what the legal questions are which have to be met. The first section which is intended to relieve the petroleum trade is section 5 of the Bill amending section 90 of the Port Act of 1890. This section will in fact enable the Port Commissioners to land all goods through Contractors, and in the special case of petroleum, but not in the case of other goods, it will enable them to do what is known as 'stevedoring'. Next come sections 6 and 7, which amend section 104 of the Act, and they add a fresh section—104A. Under section 104 of the Act, the Port Commissioners have only authority to employ Contractors or other outside agency to land cargo from boats or vessels which are known as inland vessels, and the object of the new section is to extend this power to all vessels, including sea-going vessels. Obviously it is necessary to make this change, as the vessels by which petroleum is imported are all sea-going vessels.

"The next petroleum sections are sections 11 to 14 of the Bill, which amend sections 113 to 116 of the Act; and here come in the legal difficulties to which I have referred. I stated just now that the Port Commissioners were originally under the impression that, as far as the landing and custody of petroleum are concerned, no legislation is required. They thought they would simply have to waive certain privileges conferred upon them by sub-section (2) of section 113, which provides that 'if any owner, without any default on the part of the Commissioners, fail to remove any goods from the premises of the Commissioners within two clear working days from the time of landing, such goods shall remain on the premises at the sole risk and expense of the owner.' It was explained that the legal effect of the section is to relieve the Commissioners of any liability which attaches to them as Warehousemen. They cannot incur liability as Warehousemen for any period exceeding two days. The view taken by the Port Commissioners acting upon legal advice was that this was a privilege attaching to them, and therefore one that they could waive. They said in effect there is no necessity to legislate; we will waive our privilege and take your petroleum. But the view subsequently taken by Counsel was that this is not enough, that it was a privilege conferred upon them by way of trust, and that the Port Commissioners, as representatives of the public, were bound to strip themselves as soon as possible of their liability as Warehousemen, and therefore they could not get out of the position affirmed by the Act. Acting on the assumption that they could take action without legislation, the Port Commissioners have spent Rs. 1,50,000, and they have committed themselves to an expenditure of Rs. 3,00,000 for extension of their warehouses, and since the 15th of January they have been taking in large quantities of petroleum, although, technically speaking, they are not entitled to do so under the law; and it is clear that their position must be legalised as soon as possible.

"The next set of sections begins with section 15, which introduces four new sections, 122A to 122D. These sections provide, first, that, with the consent of the Local Government, the Port Commissioners may, by notification in the Calcutta Gazette, declare any warehouse belonging to the Port Commissioners to be a bonded warehouse for the purposes of this Act. I understand that under the Customs Act, when such a notification has been made, all the conditions which arise with regard to bonded warehouses will apply to such warehouse. Section 122B empowers the Commissioners to store goods in such warehouses as long as they think fit, but in the case of petroleum it frees them absolutely from any liability for loss by fire, however arising, or for any deterioration or diminution in quantity by leakage or otherwise, unless caused by negligence of their servants. This was settled by agreement between the Port Commissioners and the representatives of the trade in petroleum. Section 122C authorises the Port Commissioners to give a bond for payment of the import duty due on goods stored in their bonded warehouses or for the due exportation of such goods, and when such security has been given, no further security shall be required by the Customs. Section 122D enables the Port Commissioners to issue warrants in a form laid down by the Act, which shall be negotiable by endorsement, and shall entitle the persons to whom they may have been endorsed to receive delivery of the goods. These sections contain provisions which I may say are absolutely necessary to carry out the agreement come to between the Chamber of Commerce and the Port Commissioners. The Commissioners, so far as they could undertake to do so, undertook to obtain legal warrant for the construction of bonded warehouses for the convenience of the trade, and the trade, I understand, counted upon this, and they are certainly, as far as I can judge from the course of the negotiations, entirely justified in looking to the Legislature to restore what was the ordinary practice in consequence of which the trade in petroleum grew up; and if there is any delay in passing this Bill through the Council, there will be great disturbance and considerable embarrassment to the trade.

"I might remind the Council that last year they took very speedy action to relieve the Port Commissioners from certain liabilities under which they lay in consequence of the state of the then existing law, and I think they are equally bound on the present occasion to pass any measure which may be necessary, having regard to the agreement which has been come to between the representatives of the petroleum trade and the Port Commissioners. Fortunately there is the less difficulty in passing this Bill, inasmuch as in regard to those portions of the Bill which may possibly be considered contentious, the interested parties are agreed, the best legal opinion has been taken, and the Bill has been actually drafted in accordance with that opinion."

The Hon'ble Mr. Smyth said:—"I beg to support the motion proposed by the Hon'ble Mr. Risley.

"I may mention that in June last year, the Chamber of Commerce appointed a Sub-Committee, representing the various interests connected with the kerosine-oil trade, to enquire into the working of the kerosine-oil depôt at Budge-Budge.

"For some considerable time it was felt by those connected with this trade that the working of the depôt at Budge-Budge was not wholly satisfactory. On several occassions ships and steamers loaded with kerosine-oil had to be delayed outside the limits of the Port, there being no accommodation for them at Budge-Budge. The mercantile community thought that the accommodation should be increased. The Port Commissioners showed that full advantage was not taken of the accommodation already provided. It was then decided by the Chamber of Commerce to appoint the Sub-Committee I have before mentioned. The Sub-Committee reported to the Chamber, who addressed the Port Commissioners on the state of affairs at the Budge-Budge depôt, pointing out that the arrangements for working the discharge, loading and storing of kerosine-oil were extremely unsatisfactory, and that a radical change should be made. And the Chamber pointed out that the only satisfactory solution of the difficulty, as far as they could see, was for the Port Commissioners to become responsible for the loading, unloading and delivery of the oil In other words, for the whole working of the depôt at Budge-Budge precisely in the same manner as they are responsible for the unloading of goods at the jetties. And they further urged that it was necessary for the requirements of the trade that the Budge-Budge depôt should be constituted a bonded warehouse.

"It is to enable the Port Commissioners to carry out the recommendations of the Chamber of Commerce that this Bill is now introduced into Council. The matter is an urgent one, as large shipments of oil are shortly expected in Calcutta. I would, therefore, cordially support the amendment of Act III of 1890."

The Hon'ble Mr. Womack said:—"I also wish briefly to support this motion. Speaking as a member of the Port Commission, I know that the provisions of the Bill before the Council are extremely desirable and extremely urgently needed. They have been very carefully considered both by a Sub-Committee and by the full body of the Commissioners, and the amendments have been all carefully drawn by the best legal advisers, so I trust that no time will be lost in passing the Bill into law."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. RISLEY also applied to the President to suspend the Rules of Business to enable him to introduce the Bill, and to move that it be read in Council.

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT having declared the Rules suspended—

The Hon'ble MR. RISLEY introduced the Bill and moved that it be read in Council.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Bill was read accordingly.

The Hon'ble MR. RISLEY also moved that the Bill be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Hon'ble MESSRS. LYALL, WOMACK and SMYTH, the Hon'ble RAI DURGA GATI BANERJEE and the Mover.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Council adjourned to Saturday, the 13th instant.

ESTIMATES OF THE OUTTURN OF RABI FOOD-CROPS AND OF CERTAIN IMPORTANT SPECIAL CROPS IN BENGAL FOR 1894-95.

THE following is published for general information.

REVENUE DEPT., The 19*th April* 1895.

C. E. BUCKLAND, Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

DEPARTMENT OF LAND RECORDS AND AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

Note on the outturn of Rabi food-grains and of Tobacco, Sugarcane Opium, Mulberry and Ganja in Bengal for 1894-95.

1. Explanatory.—The present return of the estimates of outturn of rabi food-crops and of certain important special crops embraces all the crops shown in the return published last year, and also boro or summer rice, which has been added to make the return complete for rabi food-crops.

2. Character of the season.—The latter part of the last monsoon season was characterised by unusually late and heavy rainfall which lasted till the end of the first week of November, being particularly heavy in Bihar, Chota Nagpur, and North Bengal. The late rainfall interfered with the timely preparation of land, and in many districts prevented the sowing of the whole of the usual rabi area. In parts of Eastern Bengal sowing was interfered with by the late continuance of the floods. From the end of the first week of November there was practically no rain until after the middle of January. The prospects of the crops were improved by the rain which fell generally during the third week of January in these Provinces, especially in Bihar, but sparingly in Orissa.

In February the rainfall was below the normal except in the Patna Division; and the Eastern Bengal districts had no rain. The light rain which fell in most districts in the second and third weeks of March improved the prospects of the crops a little.

3. Area sown with rabi crops.—The area sown with rabi food-grains this year is estimated at 9,206,300 acres against 9,616,600 acres estimated to have been cropped last year. The areas sown this year in Orissa are in excess of those of last year, while in other parts of the Province there appears to have been a falling off in consequence of heavy and late rainfall during the last monsoon.

4. Outturn of the rabi food-grains.—Out of the 45 districts from which returns have been received, only five* districts estimate the outturn of the rabi crops at 16 annas, 26 districts, including all the districts of the Patna and Bhagalpur Divisions (which together contain over 60 per cent. of the whole rabi producing area of these provinces), report crops varying from 12 to 15 annas, 13 districts from 8 to 11 annas, and one district, viz., Pabna, returns a 7-anna crop. The mean outturn of the rabi crops for these provinces may be estimated between 13 to 14 annas or over three-fourths of an average crop.

* Rangpur, Champaran, Muzaffarpur, Malda, and Angul and Khondmals.

In the preliminary report on the wheat crop of this year, published on the 30th January 1895, the character of the crop was estimated at about 15 annas. The present returns show a slight reduction in the previous estimate of outturn.

5. Special crops.—The special crops reported on are tobacco, sugarcane, opium, mulberry and ganja.

Tobacco.—The tobacco crop which is affected by the same climatic conditions as the rabi food-grains in general, is estimated in the attached return to yield an outturn of 13 annas.

Sugarcane.—This crop was slightly injured by heavy rainfall. It may be expected to yield about a 14-anna crop.

Opium.—The excessive rain which fell during October interfered with the timely preparation of land and the sowing operations. The outturn is estimated as above that of last year in Muzaffarpur, Darbhanga, and Monghyr, but as rather less than that of last year in other districts of Bihar.

Ganja.—The ganja crop in Rajshahi is estimated to yield an outturn of 16 annas. The good crop is attributed to favourable moisture in the soil.

Burdwan ...	1,726,080	1,263,800	Wheat	2,100	1,400	1,400	10½	11¼	In the Sadar subdivision the outturn of rabi crops in this year has not been good owing to scarcity of rain at the time of sowing. For heavy rainfall in October and November last, the outturn in the Kalna subdivision will be the same as in last year. In the Katwa subdivision, owing to heavy rains, both ploughing and sowing were late. The crops in the Raniganj subdivision appear to have been slightly affected by excessive rainfall at the ploughing time.	The Collector returned the normal area, last year's area and this year's areas under wheat as 11,231, 1,327 and 6,527 acres, respectively. The figures shown in columns 5, 6 and 7 have been taken in preference from the first wheat forecast, 1894-95.

Bankura ..	1,677,440	642,800	Wheat	6,500	4,900	5,900	12	14	There was a little increase in the area under cultivation of the rabi crops owing to a favourable state of the weather. Last year 'rabi millets' were included with 'other pulses.' They have been shown separately in this statement.

Midnapore ...	3,392,800	2,111,500	Wheat	700	700	700	14	15	In the Sadar subdivision, owing to seasonable rain, the outturn will be better than last year's, and is expected to approach the average. In the Ghatal subdivision the outturn will be less this year owing to excessive rainfall during the sowing time. In the Contai subdivision there is decrease in area and outturn, due to abnormal rainfall. In the Tamluk subdivision there is a short outturn, due to deficiency of rainfall.

24-Parganas ...	1,671,626	1,223,600	Wheat	3·0	300	300	12	16	The normal acreage shown under head 'gram' and increase in the area sown with 'other rabi pulses' in the present return differ from those shown in the return for the preceding year. Owing to the excessive rainfall towards the close of July and in the beginning of October and in November last, there was a good deal of water in the fields up to a late period. Hence the entire normal area under the head 'other rabi pulses' could not be cultivated. The outturn is more favourable this year than that of the last year owing to seasonable rainfall.

Nadia	1,788,160	1,303,000	Wheat	27,500	19,000	22,900	11	10	Excessive damp produced by heavy rainfall in September, October and in the beginning of November which prevented timely sowing. Want of rain in January and February affected much the growth of the young plants. There has been an increase, however, in the area sown this year over that of the preceding year, owing to the fact that several rabi crops sown broad-cast were damaged by the rains in the beginning of the season. As the cultivators could not resow these lands with the same crops, they sowed wheat, barley, &c., thereon. The area sown fell short of the normal area owing to the above climatic conditions.

Pabna	1,176,960	882,500	Wheat	23,000	23,000	23,000	8	16	There has not been any rainfall since sowing. If it rains even now, the outturn may be a little better than what is shown here. The Subdivisional Officer of Sirajganj reports that the late season and lack of rain have spoilt the prospects of barley. Boro dhan is chiefly sown on char land where it is a mere chance if the crop will come to anything at all; land sown in rabi millets is ploughed up in March if the sowings have not come up well, rabi pulses are commonly sown without any cultivation on the chance of rain. All these crops are thus entirely dependent on the winter rain which has failed this year. The gram crop is bearing very few pods, but the Subdivisional Officer has no other explanation to offer, though it is not so dependent on the rain.

Mymensingh...	4,052,480	2,405,700	Wheat	14,100	12,000	12,900	12	14	In the Sadar and Netrakona sub-divisions the normal area could not be cultivated, as the water in the fields did not subside owing to heavy rain during the latter part of October and first week of November 1894. In the Kishorganj sub-division, owing to the rise of flood water in the latter part of October 1894, cultivation was much less than in the previous year. The outturn is not satisfactory for the reasons stated above.

Faridpur ...	1,450,850	1,007,500	Wheat	2,000	2,000	1,600	8	8	The prospect of the rabi crops is not favourable this year. The sowing and ploughing were retarded owing to the flood continuing longer than usual and heavy rainfall in November last. Want of rain since sowing has also affected the crops. Sub-divisional Officer of Madaripur, however, estimates the outturn of pulses at 16 annas.

The rainfall in the latter part of January improved the prospects of wheat and barley, while it injured to a certain extent the gram and other rabi pulses which were in flower, and consequently the outturn of the latter crops is estimated to be below the average.

Burdwan ...	1,726,080	1,283,800	Tobacco ... Sugarcane ... Mulberry ...	600 21,800 6,000	300 21,800 6,000	500 21,500 6,000	12 9¾ 12	11¼ 11 11	In the Sadar subdivision the outturn of the crops has not been good this year owing to scarcity of rain at the time of sowing. In the Kalna subdivision the outturn will be the same as that of the last year, as there was heavy rainfall in October and November. In the Katwa subdivision ploughing and sowing were late owing to heavy rains. In the Raniganj subdivision the outturn was bad owing to excessive rainfall after sowing.
Birbhum ...	1,124,023	900,000	Sugarcane ... Mulberry ..	9,000 2,000	9,000 2,000	9,000 2,000	8 12	12 12	There was want of rain at the time of sugarcane planting, and consequently some injury was done to it. Heavy rain in August and want of rain at the time of maturity have affected the growth of sugarcane. Mulberry is harvested several times a year. This year, owing to heavy rain, the Sravan and Aswin bunds were not good. Chaitra bund may be a little better.
Bankura ...	1,677,440	642,800	Tobacco ... Sugarcane ... Mulberry ...	4,000 20,000 200	1,400 8,800 200	1,800 18,500 200	12 8 13	13¼ 12 14	The cutivation of sugarcane this year has increased a little owing to the favourable state of the weather. This has also increased the cultivation of all the other crops and improved their outturn.

Midnapore ...	3,292,800	2,111,500	Tobacco ... Sugarcane ... Mulberry ...	5,100 17,700 21,000	4,900 17,600 20,000	500 17,600 19,700	10 11 12	10¾ 11¼ 12	In the Ghatal subdivision the outturn is likely to be far below the average owing to excessive rain during the ploughing and sowing time. This is partly due to the revision of the normal area and partly to the fact that in some of the subdivisions tobacco and sugarcane have been grown this year for the first time. The 22*nd April* 1895.—The following is published for general information.

C. E. BUCKLAND.
Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

No. 7T.R., dated Darjeeling, the 22nd April 1895.

To—The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee, Member of the Bengal Legislative Council.

It will be within your recollection that in the course of a speech at the meeting of the Bengal Legislative Council on the 13th April, you referred to a report which had reached you to the effect that much extravagance had been shown in carrying on the survey-settlement of the estates of His Highness the Maharaja of Hill Tippera in the Tippera district, and as an instance of such extravagance you had been told that permanent survey marks had been bought for 9 rupees when they might have been obtained for 9 annas each.

Since the meeting of the Council, the Lieutenant-Governor has caused enquiries to be made on this subject, and he has been referred to paragraph 247 of the report of the Director of Bengal Surveys for the year ending 30th September 1893, of which a copy is enclosed for your information.

It will be seen from this paragraph that for the Northern portion of the estate 3,500 stone prisms were obtained at an average cost of Re. 1-1-4 each including carriage, and for the Central and Southern Divisions of the estates 16,000 pottery cylinders were obtained at an average cost of Re. 0-5-2 each. The Director made efforts, but in vain, to procure stones for this purpose from the adjoining hills; but the cost incurred is not, in the Lieutenant-Governor's opinion, open to the charge of extravagance.

2. This letter will be published in the Calcutta Gazette for general information.

247. In the Northern Division roughly dressed prism-shaped stone pillars were embedded at all the trijunctions and side stations, the dimensions of the pillars being 3′ × 9″ × 9″ × 9″ for trijunctions, and 2′ × 5″ × 5″ × 5″ for the other stations. Nine hundred and sixty-nine large and 2,531 small stone pillars were procured in August 1892, through the Collector, from the Bengal Stone Company. Of these 745 large and 2,154 small pillars have been embedded in the manner stated above; and the remainder, which are in excess of the number required, have been stored at the villages of Kasba and Nyanpur under the charge of the village chaukidars. The cost of these stone pillars including boat-hire, &c., is Rs. 3,794.

Permanent marks.

For the Central and Southern Divisions, 2,000 large and 14,000 smaller glazed pottery cylinders were procured from the Raniganj Pottery Works for marking the theodolite stations. The large cylinders, the dimensions of which are 3 feet in length and 8″ diameter, were used for marking the triple junctions; the smaller cylinders were used for marking the other stations, the dimensions being 2 feet in length and 2″ diameter. Every station was thus permanently marked. The total number of cylinders used is 11,211 large. 1,164 large and 3,625 small cylinders, which are in excess of the required number have been stored at Comilla. The cost of these cylinders inclusive of railway freight, boat-hire, &c., is Rs. 5,192.

Permanent marks.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE MONTH OF MARCH 1895.

THE chief features of note in the weather of the past month have been—

1. A general deficiency in pressure, the difference from the normal varying from a few thousandths of an inch in the south-west of Bengal to ·03 inch in the east of Assam.

2. Almost normal temperature. There was a small defect in the mean daily temperature, except in Bihar and North and East Bengal, where there was a slight excess. Day temperatures were generally in excess in Orissa and parts of South-West and East Bengal, while the nights were comparatively cool, except in the northern districts.

3. Owing to the relatively lower pressure in the eastern districts the westerly wind current has been well sustained, except towards the end of the month, when a low pressure area in the north-west of India caused a reversal, and easterly winds became more general.

The wind system both as to direction and force has been very similar to that of last year, when the rainfall for the month of March was much below the usual amount.

4. The rainfall has been very scanty in all districts, even in East Bengal, which last year received very heavy falls, more especially in the hill districts.

5. Though thunderstorms have been of frequent occurrence, especially towards the end of the month, the rainfall attending them has been very light and frequently absent altogether. The cause of this is probably to be found in the relative strength of the sea winds, which have been more intermittent this year than usual, and the easterly winds from Assam which appear to have been weakened by the low pressure which obtained in the eastern districts during the month.

At the beginning of the month weather was generally of the kind experienced at the end of the north-east monsoon period. This was largely due to relatively high pressure in Bengal and low pressure in Burmah. A fall of pressure set in on the 3rd over Bengal and continued steadily for several days, bringing about a reversal of the conditions on the previous days. The northerly winds became south-westerly and temperature increased till there was a large excess in all districts. The area of relatively high temperature at first included only the northern districts, but it gradually extended southwards over the whole province, and high temperatures were reported from Orissa, Chota Nagpur, and South-West Bengal by the end of the first week. From being 5° below the normal readings had increased to as much, and in places to 7°, above the normal. These changes were due to a slight disturbance which crossed the province from the west.

A second disturbance followed in a few days, but its influence was felt more in the northern districts, where light rain fell, and the temperature was largely reduced. One of the most marked features of the weather during these days, that is in the second week, was the low pressure which continued for some time, but became most marked betweeen the 14th and 16th. The greatest defect was in the northern districts, and the arrangement caused the steady south-westerly or westerly air movement in all districts except at some of the extreme northern stations, where wind directions were at times north-easterly. While these south-westerly winds prevailed, temperature rose daily in the western districts and excess in places was as much as 9°.

Large changes soon followed in consequence of the approach of two depressions from the west—the first about the 17th and 18th and the second after two or three days. The latter crossed the north of the Bay and gave rise to a low pressure area in Burmah and northerly winds in these parts for some days. On the 17th and 18th numerous thunderstorms occurred in Lower Bengal, and caused a large reduction of temperature, but very little rain. At some places light showers fell, but in many others over which the storms passed there was no rainfall. After the passage of the depression there was a large rise of pressure in Chota Nagpur, and the rise continued moderately for some days, resulting in high pressure in Bengal, as compared with the south of the Bay, and a northerly or north-westerly wind circulation in the north-west angle of the Bay. The shallow low pressure in the north of the Bay and in Burmah continued till the 22nd, and from the 20th till the 22nd thunderstorms again occurred in all districts, but chiefly in the west on the 20th, and in the central and eastern districts on the 21st. As in the previous case these thunderstorms were attended by very light rainfall, but the fall of temperature was very large. The defect in mean temperature in Chota Nagpur on the 20th was 8°; on the 21st it was 10° over the greater part of the south of the province, while in North Bengal it was 11°.

Still another shallow depression affected the weather in Bengal about the 26th and 27th passing across the central districts and Assam. Temperature and humidity increased, and the sky was overcast at many stations, while light rainfall was fairly general. The extreme northern stations in East and North Bengal and the Assam stations continued to be affected by the depression on the 27th, and Gnatong reported a heavy snow-storm. Over the remainder of the province, however, fine settled weather had commenced accompanied by a large decrease of humidity and comparatively low temperature. Till the end of the month fine settled weather prevailed.

Pressure.—At the beginning of the month pressure was above the normal, but after the first day or two a fall commenced which, continuing for some time, resulted in a rather large defect. This defect prevailed during the greater part of the first-half of the month, after which readings were above the normal by moderate amounts till the end of the third week. Towards the end of the month the distribution was nearly normal and changes generally small. The means for the month are slightly above the normal in the south of Chota Nagpur, but in all other districts there is defect, varying from ·004″ in the west of Bihar and South-West Bengal to ·03″ at Sibsagar.

Temperature.—In the early part of March temperature was above the normal over a great part of the province. There were considerable irregularities, however, not only in the various districts, but also in the night readings as compared with the day. Thus the mean maximum temperature for the first week was above the normal in all districts, but the mean minimum was in excess only in the northern districts, the nights being comparatively cool in the south of the province. In the second week there were similar peculiarities. The local disturbances which were fairly numerous during the latter half of the month caused large changes of temperature, especially on the 20th and 21st. During the third week the total range in Bihar was 51°, and in South-West Bengal it was 47·6°. Towards the end of the month changes were smaller, but the average temperature remained generally below the normal. The means for the month are above the normal in North Bengal, East Bengal and Bihar, and below in the other districts.

The following table shows the variation of temperature from the normal, week by week, for the month at nine typical stations in different districts of the province:—

Rainfall.—During the first part of the month very little rain fell. The thunderstorms which occurred during the latter half caused local falls generally of very small amount. Though those falls were of not unfrequent occurrence, the total is much below the average for the month in all districts. The fall in East Bengal is 1·1 inches, as compared with 2·86 inches. In North Bengal and Chota Nagpur it is ·6 inch, and in the other districts less than half an inch.

Explanation.—Summary.—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical average or means of the reading during the same period for the last ten years. The variations are negative when the mean of the week is less than the corresponding normal mean, and positive when greater.

The humidity of the atmosphere is expressed at percentage, saturated air being represented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. The numbers denoting cloud amount represents the part of the sky covered, the whole sky being denoted by 10. Under the head District observations of rainfall the normal was, is the numerical means or average of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the subdivisional stations for the period in question during the past ten years. The means of the district are the numerical average of the rainfall returned received in the district, i.e., from total rainfall at the subdivisional stations in the district sending in returns divided by the number of stations. A rainy day is one on which at least a tenth of an inch fell.

Explanation.—... indicates that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received, the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are wanting, the corresponding spaces in the total rainfall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is when at least 0·10 inch of rain has fallen.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATURDAY, THE 20TH OF APRIL 1895.

THE weather conditions during the week under review have been unusual both because of the large differences from the normal noticeable in pressure, temperature, &c., and also because of the steadiness with which these abnormal features have prevailed from day to day throughout the week. In the first place the pressure distribution has been unusually uniform, and it is, no doubt, because of this arrangement that the other elements have been so largely affected. The easterly winds, which have been very general, were due to the high pressure in the north-eastern districts, and the numberless thunderstorms which have occurred from time to time throughout the week, but chiefly in the southern half of the province, must have been a more indirect result of the same cause. Though the rainfall has been, as is usual in such cases, very irregular, and frequently not heavy, the temperature has been exceptionally low in all districts, except at times in the extreme north and east of the province.

The changes of pressure have been of very little importance, as they have led to only slight modification of the abnormal distribution. A brisk rise on the 14th, the first day of the week, added considerably to the large excess, which prevailed at the end of the previous week, and the difference from the normal varied from a tenth of an inch in Chota Nagpur to nearly a quarter of an inch in North Bengal. Isobars lay almost north and south, and a strong easterly current prevailed except in Orissa, Chota Nagpur and part of South-West Bengal, where winds were south-west. It was probably due to the interference of these wind systems that thunderstorms caused general rainfall in South-West Bengal, Chota Nagpur and Orissa on these days. In Bihar and East Bengal rainfall was almost entirely absent till towards the end of the week. On the 15th pressure increased slowly in Bihar, Chota Nagpur and Orissa, and generally fell slightly over the rest of the province and the Bay. The easterly winds continued and extended further west, so that the westerly winds were reported from the extreme western stations only. Defect in temperature varied from 2° in the north to 10° at Chaibassa. A brisk to moderate fall of pressure followed on the 16th, but as it was general over the whole area, the distribution remained unaltered, as well as the wind circulation and temperature. Similar small and irregular changes occurred on the 17th. On the 18th, however, a moderate fall of pressure in East and Central Bengal, and a moderate rise in the west of the province, gave very uniform readings over the province and the Bay. The wind circulation, though feeble, was westerly over the southern half of Bengal and local storms were less frequent, while temerature rose, but not so much as to remove the large defect in Chota Nagpur and South-West Bengal. The rise of pressure in Bengal on the 19th, as compared with that over the Bay, gave higher readings at the northern stations, and a north-easterly wind circulation prevailed. Rainfall was more general in the northern districts and temperature again fell, defect varying from 2° in the east to nearly 9° in Chota Nagpur. Similar conditions prevailed on Saturday the 20th, except that the rainfall was more general in the south-western districts.

Pressure has been liable to unimportant oscillations, and the large excess which prevailed at the beginning of the week continued throughout. The means for the week are therefore unusually high, and excess varies from ·1 inch in Chota Nagpur to ·2 inch in the north of the province.

Temperature has been very low over the whole province throughout the week, but especially in the south-western districts. The mean defect in Chota Nagpur is 6°·9, in South-West Bengal 5°·8, and in Orissa 5°·5. In North Bengal and Bihar it is over 4° and in East Bengal 2°·1.

The actual temperatures registered during the week and their variations from the normal temperature for the season are seen in the table below, where the average maximum, minimum and mean temperatures for the week at nine typical stations in different districts of the province are compared with the normal values for the same period. It will be seen that though night temperatures are below the normal at all these stations except Purnea, the difference in the day readings has been much greater, especially at Burdwan and Patna.

Rainfall.—Local showers have been frequent in all districts except East Bengal and part of Bihar. These showers have, as is usual in the case of thundershowers, been very irregular in amount, but the average falls for the various districts are all above the normal except that for East Bengal, where only a third of the usual amount fell. Orissa received 1·75 inches, Chota Nagpur 1·32 inches, South-West and North Bengal nearly ·8 inch, Bihar ·41 inch, and East Bengal ·32 inch.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the six meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 20th of April 1895 :—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h. and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT,—(LAND REVENUE).

NOTIFICATION—No. 29T.R.

The 24*th April* 1895.—In exercise of the powers conferred by section 55 of the Land Acquisition Act, I of 1894, and with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, the Lieutenant-Governor is pleased to make the following rules in supersession of the rules issued under section 59 of Act X of 1870 and published under notification, dated the 4th November 1889, at pages 898-900, Part I, of the Calcutta Gazette of the 6th idem.

RULES UNDER THE LAND ACQUISITION ACT, I OF 1894.

1. When any revenue-paying land is acquired under the Land Acquisition Act (I of 1894), the proprietor shall, except as provided in rule 6, be relieved of liability to pay revenue to the extent of the Government demand upon the said land, and such relief shall have effect from the date on which the Collector may take possession of the land on account of Government.

2. In such cases the Collector shall, before making an award, ascertain, in accordance with the two next following rules, and record the amount of Government revenue which is to be taken as payable in respect of the acquired portion, and shall, in the event of a reference being made to a Court, furnish the Court, at the time of making the reference, with particulars of the amount of the share so ascertained and recorded.

3. If the land to be acquired be an entire estate or tenure assessed with a specific amount of revenue, the whole of such amount shall be remitted.

4. If the land be not liable for a specific amount of revenue, but be a portion of an estate or tenure which is liable for a specific amount, the proportion of Government revenue to be deemed payable in respect of the land taken shall be ascertained under the following rules :—

1st.—When an estate has, within twenty years next preceding the date of the commencement of proceedings for the acquisition of any land situate therein, been subjected to a detailed settlement, or has formed portion of an estate brought under partition under the Estates' Partition Act, VIII (B.C.) of 1876, made after inquiry into and record of the assets of the estate, the Government revenue to be deemed payable in respect of the said land shall bear to the assets of the said land the same proportion as the Government revenue of the whole estate bears to the assets of the whole estate, as shown in the settlement or partition proceedings.

2nd.—When there has been no such settlement or partition as aforesaid, then, if the area of the estate is known with accuracy the amount of Government revenue to be deemed payable in respect of the portion of the land taken shall bear to the Government revenue of the whole estate the same proportion as the area of the said portion bears to the area of the whole estate.

3rd.—When the Government revenue deemed payable in respect of the land taken cannot be determined by either of the above rules, one-fourth of the net rent (i.e., the gross rental less a deduction of 10 per cent. for the expenses of collection) of the said land shall be taken to be the amount of Government revenue thereon chargeable.

5. In determining the amount of compensation to be awarded, the Collector shall take into consideration the fact that the land acquired is subject to the burden of the payment of Government revenue.

6. In the event of the proprietor declining to accept an abatement of revenue, such circumstance shall not entitle him to any compensation over and above the amount fixed for the award under section 23 of the Act on the original basis of calculation. In cases, however, in which the area of the portion of land acquired does not exceed one-twentieth part of the area of the estate, it shall be competent to the Revenue authorities, if the proprietor of the estate so desire, to pay to the proprietor the computed value of the revenue deemed payable in respect of such portion on the condition of his continuing to pay the revenue of the entire estate without abatement: provided that, in computing the value of the revenue so assigned, the basis of calculation shall not exceed the number of years' purchase (if known) upon which the market value of the proprietor's profits, i.e., the amount of compensation to be awarded for the land, has been determined. Thus, if the market value of the said profits has been computed at twelve years' purchase, the capitalized value of the revenue deemed payable in respect of the portion of land acquired shall be calculated at not more than twelve years' purchase of the amount of revenue in question.

7. When there is any question whether the land to be acquired is part of a revenue-paying estate, or is revenue-free, the Collector shall decide the matter before making his award, leaving it to the claimants to apply for a reference to the Court if they object to his decision. In case of a reference being applied for, the Collector shall, if he has decided that the land is revenue-free, determine the amount of revenue which would be payable for it in the event of its being held to belong to the revenue-paying estate of which it is alleged to form a part.

8. To enable him to calculate accurately the additional compensation to be given under section 23 (2) of the Act, and to keep up fully and clearly his registers of all lands occupied and compensation paid for them, the Collector shall invariably record separately his finding under the first head of section 23 (1) of the Act, which concerns the market value of the land.

9. The procedure laid down as to the payment of the compensation money in cases of references under section 18 shall apply also to references under section 30 or section 35. The compensation-money, or, if any of the parties are willing to accept payment of their shares and payment to them is admissible, the portion of it which is in dispute and cannot be paid away shall be deposited in Court when the reference is made.

10. In giving notice of the award under section 12 (2) and tendering payment under section 31 (1) to such of the persons interested as were not present personally or by their representatives when the award was made, the Collector shall require them to appear personally or by representatives by a certain date, to receive payment of the compensation awarded to them, intimating also that no interest will be allowed to them if they fail to appear. If they do not appear, and do not apply for a reference to the Civil Court under section 18, the Collector shall, after such further endeavour to secure their attendance as may seem desirable, cause the amounts due to be paid into the Treasury on revenue deposit, and vouched for in the form prescribed by rule 5 on page 211 of the Civil Account Code, Volume I, 5th edition. When the payees ultimately claim payment of sums placed on deposit, the amounts will be paid to them in the same manner as ordinary revenue deposits, under the authority of the Collector. Whenever payment is claimed through a representative, whether before or after deposit of the amount awarded, such representative must show legal authority for receiving the compensation on behalf of his principal.

C. E. BUCKLAND,

NOTIFICATION—No. 2250L.R.

The 30th April 1895.—In supersession of the rules for cultivation leases of small lots of waste land in the district of Chittagong, published with this Government's notification dated the 7th May 1880, in the Calcutta Gazette of the 12th idem, and printed at pages 27-30 of the Board's Waste Lands Manual, 1888, the Lieutenant-Governor, with the previous sanction of His Excellency the Governor-General in Council, is pleased to direct the publication of the following revised rules for general information.

C. E. BUCKLAND,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

1. In leasing waste lands in a deltaic tract, care should be taken to lease areas sufficiently large and compact to admit of economical embanking.

2. In order to avoid interference with the operation of the Forest Department, care should be taken that no large unculturable tract, such as forest-clad hills, and no lands entirely surrounded by hills, and no lands included in the areas proposed by the Collector for enforestation, should be included in such leases.

3. Where a District Board road runs through or alongside the tract for which settlement is applied for, no land lying within a distance of 60 feet from either edge of such road should be settled.

4. Selection of settlement-holders.—Care should be taken that the persons admitted to settlement are substantial men. Residents near the waste lands leased should be preferred to outsiders. Other things being equal, the earliest of two or more applicants for the same area should have the preference. When several persons of equal or nearly equal merit have applied for the same area, it may be put up to auction and settled with the one who offers the highest lump sum for settlement. When the area to be leased requires embanking on an extensive scale, it may sometimes be advisable to give a joint lease to a number of substantial persons, who will be jointly and severally responsible for the rent assessed, and can apportion the lands amongst themselves as convenient.

5. Term of settlement.—The settlement should ordinarily be granted for a term which will expire at the same time as the Noabad taluki settlement of the thana in which the lands leased are situate.

6. Rent assessed.—Each case must be treated on its own merits, taking into consideration the initial expense of bringing the lands under cultivation, the quality of the lands, &c., but the following principles are laid down for guidance :—

(a) If the lands are not cultivable at the time the lease is granted, they should ordinarily be leased rent-free for such a term of years, not exceeding five, as will, in the opinion of the Settlement Officer, be required to bring one-quarter of the area under cultivation.

(b) A rate should be fixed, which should be regarded as the full rate demandable when the lands are brought under cultivation.

(c) The conditions of the lease should be such that the full rate should come into force from the date when it is considered probable that the entire area will have been brought under cultivation.

(d) Settlements at progressive rates may be given, but there should in no case be more than two gradations in the increase of rents. The gradations should be so fixed that the progressive rates should be in proportion to the probable progress in cultivation. For instance, a lease is to be given of 100 drones, of which the full rate, if the lands were under cultivation, would be Rs. 24 a drone. It is estimated that it will take five years to bring 25 drones or one-quarter [Rule (a)] under cultivation. It is also estimated that, after another period of five years, 50 drones will be under cultivation, and the whole area after a third period of five years. In such a case no rents should be fixed for the first term of five years, quarter rates or Rs. 6 should be assessed on the whole area after the first five years, half rates or Rs. 12 after the second period of five years, and full rates or Rs. 24 after the third period.

(e) In calculating the full rate provided for in (b), care should be taken to allow for any such recurring charge as the repairs of embankments.

(f) No new jote with a rent of less than Re. 1 should be brought upon the tauzi. The rent should ordinarily be fixed in multiples of four annas, never in multiples of less than two annas.

7. Procedure.—The Assistant Settlement Officer should take a kabuliyat in the form appended to these rules from the selected settlement-holders, and forward the record to the Settlement Officer for his sanction.

8. When the settlement has been sanctioned by the Settlement Officer, the record will be forwarded to the khas tahsildars concerned for realization of rent.

9. If, with regard to any application, a survey is necessary, the applicant shall deposit, to meet the expense of such survey, a sum not exceeding four annas per acre of the estimated area. But no such deposit is to be taken until the Settlement Officer has decided that the lands in question are such as can be settled. If the cost of survey exceeds 4 annas per acre, the balance shall be paid by the applicant before he receives the kabuliyat.

10. If the boundaries of the lands settled are not clearly defined by natural features, they are to be demarcated by boundary marks, the nature and number of which shall be determined by the Settlement Officer, against whose orders there shall be no appeal, and the lessee shall engage to erect and maintain such boundary marks at his own expense, failing which the Settlement Officer may do so, and realize the cost incurred from the lessee under the Certificate Act. This condition is to be included in the lessee's lease and kabuliyat.

11. After the conclusion of the present settlement operations, these rules will be followed in dealing with any application for the settlement of waste lands, and in that case, wherever in the above rules the words "Settlement Officer" or "Assistant Settlement Officer" occur, it will be understood that the Collector of the district, or the local khas tahsildars respectively, are referred to.

12. For all jotes whose rent does not exceed Rs. 10, one kist will be fixed payable on the 25th January. The rent of jotes paying over Rs. 10 will be made payable in two kists, viz., 6 annas on the 25th May, and 10 annas on the 25th January.

13. Any land covered by the lease which may at any time be required for a public purpose, may be taken up by Government free of cost, a reduction being made in the rent payable under the lease proportional to the area taken up by the Government; but the value of any improvement or property therein shall be paid to the lessee, and shall be assessed under the provisions of the law in force for the time being for the acquisition of land for public purposes.

14. The Government reserves to itself the right to all minerals on the lands which may be leased, together with such rights of way and other reasonable facilities as may be requisite for working, getting, and carrying away such minerals.

Revised form of kabuliyat for occupancy-raiyats and talukdars.

I enter into a temporary talukı/raiyati settlement (as the case may be) at progressive rates with permanent right of renewal for the land known as in the Khas Mahal, thana and lying within boundaries as shown in the map filed in the settlement records measuring, more or less, kanis. I take the lease and give this kabuliyat for the term of years from to , and declare that the said engagement is binding not only on myself, but also on my heirs, representatives, and assigns precisely as if it had been executed by them.

The conditions of this preliminary lease are :—

If I fail to pay the full amount of an instalment or a part thereof, such arrears shall be recoverable under any law for the time being in force for recovery of arrears of revenue.

(4) That I shall not raise any objection to the payment of Government revenue on the score of inundation, drought, or any other providential visitation, neither will such objection be granted

(5) I shall not fell any of the following timbers growing on the lands of my settlement without the special permission of the Collector, nor shall I allow any other person to do so; and I have no power to sell them. Such trees are exclusively Government property:—

1. Jarool.
2. Tulsur.
3. Toon.
4. Shagoon.
5. Gurjun.
6. Chapalis.
7. Chowangiri.
8. Chagaroshi.
9. Gamar.

(6) That the right of using all streams and channels in any way navigable shall be reserved to the public, as also the use of a tow-path not less than 25 feet in width on each side of every such stream and channel. No right of fishery, and no right to dam up or otherwise obstruct the passage of any navigable channel, is given by this lease.

(7) That all mineral products above and below the surface, and the full rights of the State in mines and minerals, and right of access and other reasonable convenience for working them on behalf of Government, are reserved.

(8) That beyond the fixed Government revenue and the reservation mentioned above, the Government shall have no claim to any profit which may accrue from the land included in this taluk/jote (as the case may be) during the currency of my term of settlement.

(9) That any time after expiration of this present term of years, and similarly after expiration of each future term, the taluk/jote (as the case may be) shall be open to survey and renewal of settlement for such period as the Government shall think fit at fair and equitable rates in accordance with the law at that time in force, and I shall be entitled to renewed settlement forever on the same conditions as are stipulated herein, omitting clause 1 of this lease, and subject only to such changed rent as may be fixed upon the taluk according to law.

(10) Any land covered by the lease which may at any time be required for a public purpose may be taken up by Government free of cost, a deduction being made in the amount of assessment payable under the lease proportionate to the area so taken up, and compensation being made for the value of any improvement or property thereon under the provisions of the law in force for the time being for the acquisition of land for public purposes.

(11) The title conveyed by this lease is heritable and transferable, provided, however, that the Government will in no way be bound to recognize any division of the rent payable on the taluk/jote (as the case may be), nor of the several interest of joint-owners of the tenure or holding (as the case may be), and provided that every succession or transfer shall be registered in the office where the rent is payable within six months of its taking place under section 42, Act VII (B.C.) of 1876, or any other law for the time being in force for the registry of mutation of dependent tenures.

(12) I shall have power to lease out the land and to make any arrangements I think best for its cultivation, provided that no lease granted or tenancy or occupancy permitted by me shall be binding upon Government after the expiry of my current term of settlement nor otherwise than as a raiyat's holding.

(13) I shall be entitled to excavate tanks for the convenience of raiyats, but the site and dimensions of such tanks shall be fixed by the Collector, whose permission to such an excavation shall be indispensable.

(14) I will do everything for the good cultivation of the taluk/jote (as the case may be), and will act fairly in accordance with the conditions of my lease.

(15) I will erect, maintain and take care of all the boundaries and boundary marks at my own expense, and will not allow any mischief to be done to the lands, nor to the interests of my landlord, that is Government; and on failure on my part to carry out this condition, the Settlement Officer may do so and realize the cost thereof from me as an arrear of revenue.

(16) If any of the conditions of my lease be broken, either wilfully or by neglect, my taluk/jote (as the case may be) will be liable to be forfeited, or else I will submit to any other penalties which the Collector may impose in lieu of such forfeiture.

Abstract of the Proceedings of the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, assembled for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations under the provisions of the Indian Councils Acts, 1861 and 1892.

The Council met at the Council Chamber on Saturday, the 13th April, 1895.

Present:

The HON'BLE SIR CHARLES ALFRED ELLIOTT, K.C.S.I., Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, presiding.
The HON'BLE SIR GRIFFITH EVANS, K.C.I.E., Offg. Advocate-General.

The HON'BLE J. G. WOMACK.
The HON'BLE MAULVI MUHAMMAD YUSUF KHAN BAHADUR.
The HON'BLE C. E. SMYTH.

NEW MEMBER.

The Hon'ble SIR GRIFFITH EVANS took his seat in Council.

PROMOTION OF JOINT-MAGISTRATES TO DISTRICT JUDGESHIPS.

The Hon'ble MAULVI SERAJUL ISLAM KHAN BAHADUR asked:—

Whether it is a fact that, under the existing system, Joint-Magistrates of a few years' standing and with no experience of civil work, are promoted to the office of District Judges, and have to hear appeals against the decisions of Subordinate Judges of long standing and varied experience? Whether the working of the system is found satisfactory?

The Hon'ble MR. RISLEY, in the absence of the Hon'ble MR. COTTON, replied:—

"All the permanent Judges in Bengal are senior officers and vary in standing from fifteen to thirty-four years' service. But it is occasionally found necessary to appoint junior officers to officiate as District Judges during the absence of the permanent incumbent on leave or deputation, and acting Judgeships for temporary periods are therefore held in some cases by officers of only eight or nine years' service who have not yet made their choice between the Judicial and Executive branches. The Lieutenant-Governor is always careful to select officers as senior as possible to act as Judges, and proposals which have been made to strengthen the hands of Government in this direction, by postponing the date at which the selection of the Judicial or Executive line is made, are now under consideration."

THE LAND RECORDS MAINTENANCE BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. BUCKLAND moved that the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to provide for the maintenance of the Records of Rights in Bengal and for the recovery of the cost of Cadastral Surveys and Settlements be taken into consideration in order to the settlement of the clauses of the Bill. He said:—

"I intimated at the last meeting of the Council that I would reserve the observations which I had to make till the present occasion, so that hon'ble members might have time to read the Report of the Select Committee and make themselves better acquainted with the provisions of the Bill. It therefore now devolves upon me to explain briefly what is stated in the Committee's report. But before doing so, I wish to offer some remarks on the speech of the Hon'ble THE MAHARAJA OF DARBHANGA at the meeting of the Council, which was held on the 9th of March last, and which was published for the first time in the Calcutta Gazette of the 10th instant. When his remarks were made in Council on the 9th of March, I replied at the time that I was not able to hear all that the hon'ble member said, and that I would reserve to a future occasion such answers as I might have to give to what was then said. The objections which were taken by the hon'ble member to the Bill, have, as he will find, been met in several very important particulars. The Hon'ble THE MAHARAJA complained that there were two omissions in the early portion of the Bill to which he felt he should call attention. The first of those omissions was that there was no provision for the procedure to be followed by the Registrar of Mutations. I can say now that we have provided amply sufficient procedure for the Registrar of Mutations to follow. We have in doing so adopted mainly the provisions of the Indian Registration Act III of 1877. The next omission to which the Hon'ble THE MAHARAJA drew attention was the omission of any provision for abolishing patwaris as they now exist under Regulation XII of 1817. That was no doubt a very fair criticism for the Hon'ble THE MAHARAJA to offer on the Bill. At that moment our tongues were tied and we could say nothing upon this point, but since then, as is known to the Council, there have been published in the Calcutta Gazette of the 27th March last, some forty pages of printed correspondence between this Government and the Government of India with regard to the repeal of Regulation XII of 1817, which is the law relating to patwaris. Any one who has read the papers which are contained in that correspondence will see at a glance that any hopes held out by the Lieutenant-Governor to the landed interests in Bihar that the patwaris would be abolished have, so far as this Government is concerned, been amply redeemed by the efforts we have made to get this Regulation repealed. The patwari has been there described in various terms. He has been termed a pestilent fellow, a political pawn, and a potential nucleus of a village community. His merits and his shortcomings have been set out and regarded from every point of view. He has perhaps not been aware of all that was being written about him. If he had been, he would, I think, have been astonished to find that he had become a person of so much importance. It would not be becoming on my part on this occasion to offer one word of comment on this correspondence. A decision has been arrived at by the Government of India on a full consideration of all that has been said for or against the patwari, and I take it that it is becoming to this Government, as it is their duty, to bow loyally to that decision. But this is a sufficient explanation, I venture to think, of the omission to which the Hon'ble THE MAHARAJA drew attention in his speech on the 9th March. The hon'ble member also on that occasion suggested that the Rules made under the Act, before being put into force, should be published in the Calcutta Gazette for a period of at least three months. We have endeavoured to meet his wishes by providing in the present revised Bill that the Rules published under the Act should, in accordance with section 190 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, be published for one month before they are confirmed. The hon'ble member also drew our attention to section 16 of the original Bill in which we provided for a penalty on persons who fail to do their duty by giving notice of transfers or successions, and said that he thought that liability to such penalty should be safeguarded by some such words as voluntarily or negligently. It will be found that the words 'voluntarily or negligently' have been introduced into section 24 of the Bill as now revised. The Hon'ble THE MAHARAJA also drew attention to section 21 of the original Bill, an important section, which provided for payment of the cess by tenure-holders and raiyats and for its recovery through zamindars. The objections taken by my hon'ble friend were primarily that it was a distinct violation of the conditions of the Permanent Settlement. I venture to think that that is an objection which has long since been disposed of, but we have more than met the hon'ble member's wishes by striking out all reference to a cess from the Bill. As I said in Council on a previous occasion, there is a bill to be paid, and all that has to be done is to settle the simplest way of paying it. There is no occasion now to call it a cess, because we have, in deference to the wishes of the proprietary interest in the land which my hon'ble friend so ably represents, struck out all the provisions of the original Bill for collecting the charges through the zamindars. These are the main criticisms which the Hon'ble THE MAHARAJA levelled at the Bill at the meeting of Council to which I have referred, and I think I may claim that steps have been taken to meet his wishes to a great extent.

"With these preliminary remarks I will now turn to the Report of the Select Committee. We purposely drafted the Report fully and amply, and I think we have dealt with nearly every section of any importance; it will not therefore be necessary for me to take up the time of the Council by going through all the sections of the Bill. The main changes which have been made in the Bill, if I may so say, consist in making certain omissions. We have, for instance, omitted sections 4 and 5 of the original Bill, which provided additional facilities for the operation of the Land Registration Act. The idea of Government was, as advantage was not taken of the benefits of the Land Registration Act as generally and completely as might have been, to afford facilities for the better carrying out of that Act by the multiplication of small registration offices; but it has been on the whole thought better to drop those provisions, and the result therefore is that this Bill now assumes the form of providing for the maintenance of the record of tenant rights and not of proprietary rights also.

"We have also omitted section 8 of the original Bill which provided for proprietors of land being called upon to state whether they omitted or refused to admit transfers which it was proposed to register. That section has been omitted in deference to the views of landlords whose interests my hon'ble friend the MAHARAJA of DARBHANGA represents.

"We have also struck out section 9 of the original Bill, which provided for the presumptive force to be given to mutations in rent suits. It has been thought better to leave the courts to decide what force entries in these registers should have. It would of course be very difficult to say beforehand what force they should have. That they will have some force in evidence is certain, having regard to section 35 of the Evidence Act, as they will be entries in a public register and therefore they will be relevant facts.

"We have also struck out the old section 13. I said so much on the last occasion on this point that I need only mention that that was the section which provided that the Civil Courts should forward to the Sub-Registrars memoranda of decisions arrived at by the courts affecting rights in land.

"These are the chief changes which we have effected by way of omissions.

"We have also introduced some changes of importance in the Bill which I will briefly recapitulate. From paragraph 7 of the Report of the Select Committee it will be seen that we have provided that notices of transfers may be received after the expiry of four months. Notice would not be absolutely shut out by that period. The proposal now is that, if a notice of transfer is not given within four months, then a somewhat higher fee must be paid, and the person giving the notice will be liable to a penalty; but here again we propose that he shall be saved from being penalised if he comes forward and gives notice of the transfer at any time before proceedings are instituted against him. We have also provided that a notice given by any one person releases all other persons from giving notice of the same transfer or succession, and that registration under the Indian Registration Act of an instrument transferring a tenant right releases all persons from giving to the Registrar of Mutations separate notice of the same transfer. I think that this will be appreciated as a very reasonable concession to the public convenience.

"We have also in section 15 of the Bill now before us provided, as far as one can provide, for continuity in the registration of mutations. The marginal note to this section is:—'Procedure when transferor's name not in record of rights.' The idea is that we should do our best, by notice in the village and by beat of drum, to get hold of the alleged transferor, and if nobody comes forward to deny that the alleged transferor or deceased person through whom succession is claimed was at the time of the alleged transfer in possession, then the name of the alleged transferor will be inserted in the register of mutations. By this means we hope, as far as possible, to maintain continuity of registration. It will be a very difficult thing to do, and possibly there may be blanks in the register, but we have endeavoured to do all we can in the matter.

"We have also dealt in section 23 of the present Bill with what have been called the automatic sanctions of the measure. In dealing with these sanctions we have endeavoured to make it as easy for both parties as we can, and by an amendment, of which notice has not been given, we propose to make the penalty less severe to persons failing to do their duty under the section; or rather we propose to give more opportunities for getting off the penalty. We have provided that a person who would otherwise lie under a disability is to be freed from the disability if he can show that he has given the notice. We do not now make it necessary for a party to prove that the transfer has actually been registered; we exculpate him if he has given notice and done all that was in his power to do. We have also at the end of section 23 provided that the court in which any suit is filed shall give the defendant sufficient time to enable him to give such notice. In fact, as the section now stands, and as I propose to further amend it, sufficient opportunities will be provided for any person who is at all anxious to do his duty under the Act to escape without being penalised. But we maintain, and we must maintain, that there must be some pressure on the parties to do what is required, and as much concession is being made as is compatible with the maintenance of some pressure on landlords and tenants respectively to do their duty under the Act.

"I do not propose to detain the Council by running over the sections which now form Part II of the Bill relating to the procedure which has been adopted, as will be seen from the marginal references given in the Bill, from the Indian Registration Act. I will therefore pass on to Part III, the Part which provides for the recovery of the expenses of survey and of the preparation of a record of rights. As I said just now, all reference to a cess has been removed, and this Part of the Bill really assumes now the form of an amplification of section 114 of the Bengal Tenancy Act. We do not propose to strike out that section or to repeal it. What is proposed is that we should take power to adopt an alternative procedure—a procedure not alternative in its main principles, but alternative so far in that it supplies details which have been found in the actual experience of the working of the section to be wanting. For instance, in section 28 we propose to take power to recover not only from proprietors, landlords and tenants the cost of survey and settlement, but also from rent-free owners and occupiers. It is obvious that they will also derive benefit from survey and settlement proceedings, and it is but fair that they should pay their quota of the expense.

"In section 29 also we have provided for a small point in which some difficulty has been experienced. It has sometimes been held that when a local area, say a district, has been notified for survey and settlement proceedings, the recovery of the charges of such proceedings can only be effected over the same area as was originally notified. We propose therefore to take power to recover the charges of survey and settlement over any part of that notified area in which the survey-settlement proceedings have arrived at a stage to admit of recovery being made. The intention is, of course, that such recovery shall not be made over a very small area such as a field or two, but over some large areas, such as a thana or sub-division, as may be found most convenient.

"The last section to which I shall have to allude now is section 32, in which we propose to take power to recover from the successors in interest of those who were living at the time the survey-settlement proceedings were being carried out. The question has been raised whether, if the persons who were alive at the time when the proceedings were being carried out are not alive or are not forthcoming when the charges for the survey-settlement proceedings have to be paid, their successors in interest should be liable for those charges. We propose now to provide that they should be, so that persons having interests in the land should know that if the charges for survey-settlement proceedings have not been paid by their predecessors, they will have to pay them.

"There is hardly any other change of importance to which I need allude, except perhaps the appellate provisions in section 34. We have provided for an appeal from every order of a Registrar of Mutations affecting any entry in the Register of Mutations, within one month from the date thereof, to the Collector of the district, and that the latter's decision on such appeal shall be final. We have thought over this provision very carefully in Select Committee, and we considered that, having regard to the smallness for the most part of the operations with which this Act will deal, it will be quite sufficient to provide for one appeal to the Collector of the district. I presume that it would always be open to any person aggrieved by such decision on appeal to seek relief in the civil court. It is not necessary for us to say so.

"I do not propose to detain the Council any longer, but before sitting down I should like to thank my hon'ble colleagues in the Select Committee for all the trouble they took and the great assistance they afforded in arriving at the conclusions embodied in the revised Bill. The Committee sat nine times, and I think I may say that every word, every syllable, and every letter in the Bill was carefully considered.

"With these remarks I beg to move the Motion that stands in my name."

The Hon'ble THE MAHARAJA OF DARBHANGA said:—"I take this opportunity to thank the Government and the members of the Select Committee for the very conciliatory way in which they have treated the suggestions made by the various Associations representing the landholders of Bengal. There is, however, one question of principle which I think has as yet been overlooked but which I mentioned in my speech on a former occasion. Not only the land, lords, but many of the representative associations of the raiyats as well, including the Indian Association, have submitted that cadastral surveys ought to be undertaken only in special cases of agrarian disputes, or in those cases where the zamindars or the raiyats specially ask for it. I do not wish to question in any way the right of the Government to have a Cadastral Survey even in those cases in which the raiyats or zamindars do not need it for their own purposes, but in all those cases I have always maintained that the expense of making the survey ought to be borne entirely by the Government as was done in the Benares Division. When it comes to the question of the bill being paid, it is only just and equitable that the classes of persons, who have to pay that bill, should first be asked as to their willingness to pay the bill. No doubt the Government was actuated by the best of motives in ordering the Cadastral Survey of Bihar, but it is a question of difference of opinion, and in a matter of this sort I think the persons most interested, that is to say, the raiyats and zamindars, ought to be in a position to know their own interests far better than the Government. Although it may be that there are in many cases some benefits to be derived from a Cadastral Survey, it may be found that the price to be paid for those benefits is much larger than what the parties interested care to pay, and in such cases I think it is extremely unjust to make those parties liable for the payment of the bill of costs. I would therefore have liked to see some provision inserted in the Bill to the effect that where the majority of the raiyats of a village object to the survey, where they think that the expense and vexation that a survey is likely to entail far outweigh the benefits they are likely to obtain; in such cases I think that certainly the raiyats should be exempted from the payment of the expense. The non-introduction of any provision of this sort seems to me the best proof of the fact that there are many cases in which the raiyats themselves might object to a survey.

"These are the only remarks I wish to make on the speech which has just been delivered by my hon'ble friend, the mover of the Bill. All the other points contained in my former speech have been met by the alterations which have been made in the Bill by the Select Committee, but the portion of the speech which refers to this point has not been touched. I therefore take this opportunity to enter my most strong protest against this policy of meddlesome Philanthropy which no doubt has been actuated by good motives, but which in many cases, instead of doing any good to the raiyats might do them much harm. I am not speaking here as the representatives of the landlords, but I speak after having consulted such men as the Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE and others, who are supposed to be representatives of the raiyats."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. BUCKLAND also moved that the clauses of the Bill be considered in the form recommended by the Select Committee.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MAHARAJA SIR LUCHMESSUR SINGH BAHADUR OF DARBHANGA moved that, after section 1, the following section be inserted:—

'On the commencement of this Act in any district or part of a district so much of Regulation XII of 1817 as has not been repealed shall be repealed in such district or part of a district.'

He said:—"My object in moving this amendment is that after the Cadastral Survey of a district or part of a district has been completed, the work of the patwari practically ceases as far as his submission to Government of any statistical papers are concerned, because, with such an elaborate system of registration of the record of rights, I think all the papers the Government are likely to need will be forthcoming from the office of the Rural Registrars. Over and above this, when the Cadastral Survey of Bihar was first undertaken, a very important section of the community which was represented by the Bihar Planters' Association agreed to the Cadastral Survey on the distinct understanding that the patwari was to be abolished and that they would get certain facilities for the recovery of rents. Although we are very thankful to the Bengal Government for having done their very best to have the patwari abolished, still I humbly submit that unless the patwari is abolished, there will be a sort of feeling among certain classes of the community—it might be an ill-founded feeling—that the Government had broken its promise. I am not one of those who would for a moment believe that, but still I think that the feeling is likely to be created. I think therefore that the best thing that can be done under the circumstance is, if possible, to abolish the patwari altogether. Then as regards the information that zamindars are often called upon to furnish to the Government in the shape of Road Cess Returns, we find very often that we have to work through these patwaris, and we have no other alternative but to make these patwaris do our work; and very often these patwaris for their own purposes, and knowing very well that zamindars have no power either to dismiss or to punish them in any way, purposely delay in submitting these road cess returns, and in such cases it is not the patwari who is punished but the zamindar who is fined for the delay; whereas really the delay is not caused by the zamindar but by the patwari. However, if the Government still thinks that the zamindar should be made liable for the submission of Road Cess Returns, it is only fair that they should give him the power to dismiss the patwari through whom he has to work, or to punish him for his contumacy."

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said:—"I am obliged to announce to the Council that I cannot allow this amendment to be put. The Council is bound by the Rules which are laid down by the Government of India with regard to the scope or limitation of any Bill which is brought before it or is discussed in it. A clause to abolish this Patwari Regulation was embodied in the Draft Bill which was sent up by the Government of Bengal to the Government of India, but it was struck out by the orders of His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General of India in Council. It is impossible therefore for the Government to re-introduce a section which has been struck out by the Government of India, and what the Government cannot do a private Member of this Council cannot do. Recognising the great authority of the Hon'ble THE MAHARAJA OF DARBHANGA, both on account of his personal character and the interests which he represents, I thought it right not to interfere until he had finished his speech, but I am obliged to say that I cannot permit any further discussion of the question, and I cannot allow the amendment to be put.

"The same remarks apply to the amendment No. 19 in the List of Business which stands in the name of the Hon'ble MR. GHOSE with the object of providing a summary procedure for the recovery of arrears of rent. It is well known to hon'ble members and to the Council how entirely I sympathize with the proposal that he has made. But it would be an alteration in the substantive provisions of the Bill which we have received the sanction of the Government of India to introduce, and it is beyond the power of this Government to introduce a substantive change of this kind while the Bill is under discussion. I shall solicit the assistance of my hon'ble friend in preparing a draft of future legislation to carry out the object which both he and I have in view, but I am obliged to say that I cannot allow these amendments to be put to the Council on the present occasion."

The Hon'ble MR. GHOSE moved that section 5 of the Bill be omitted. He said:—

"I do not think it is either necessary or desirable for the purposes of this Bill to retain section 5. It has been pointed out by every public body which has been consulted in reference to this Bill, including the British Indian Association, the Property Defence Association, and last, but not least, the Chamber of Commerce, that under the Road Cess Act landlords are required to furnish periodical returns showing the names of holders of estates and tenures, and also of raiyats and giving various other particulars. It is difficult to see what useful object is to be obtained by insisting upon the submission of certain additional returns under this Bill. I am bound to say that the other day, when I had the advantage of a conversation on this subject with the learned Officiating Advocate-General, he was good enough to point out that there is one particular item of information which was not contained in the returns under the Road Cess Act, and that is the number and description of the particular plots and fields which may be in the possession of various tenants. I submit that even if this additional information is obtained, in my humble opinion it will be of very little use to the Government, and I say, with reference to the observations of the hon'ble member in charge of the Bill with regard to the presumption of relevancy, that in most parts of Bengal transfers of tenant rights inter vivos have no legal validity whatever without the assent of the landlord; and therefore when you have this additional information you will find that, except in the very few cases in which the landlord has acknowledged the transfer for a consideration, and may have made the necessary mutation of names in his own books, his returns will not show these transfers at all. In the majority of cases the names of the old tenants will continue to be retained in spite of any transfer which may have taken place; therefore you will have these zamindari returns mostly in conflict with the official register of mutations, and it is difficult to see how such returns will be of any use. But in spite of this, if the Government still think this information will be of any use, I submit that the better course will be, instead of insisting upon two sets of returns under two different enactments, to facilitate matters the additional information required may be included within the returns furnished under the Road Cess Act, and for that purpose the form given in the first schedule of that Act may be amended. By adopting this course landlords will be saved a great deal of trouble and worry and expense, and instead of their submitting two different sets of returns, one return will suffice. With that view and to spare all unnecessary hardship, I move that section 5 of the Bill be omitted."

The Hon'ble MR. BUCKLAND said:—"The Government are not prepared to accept the hon'ble member's amendment. The point of the hon'ble member's remarks, if I rightly apprehend them, is that all that is necessary will be supplied by an amendment of the Road Cess Act. I do not know whether the hon'ble member is aware that under the Road Cess Act Returns are not made annually, as we may desire to have them made under the Maintenance of Records Bill. Ordinarily, valuations and re-valuations of districts do not take place until after periods of five years, and it may be longer, and it is considered much better that this Act should be self-contained rather than that another Act should be amended so as to work into the purposes of this Act. There is nothing at all novel in the principle of this section. Ever since the passing of the Patwari Regulations of 1817, it has been within the power of the Government to get very similar information from zamindars. A provision very much to the same effect as section 5 of this Bill found a place in the draft Bill appended to SIR ANTONY MACDONNELL's Minute of the 25th of September 1893, and a provision similar to this was recommended by the Calcutta Conference of experts in settlement matters, which assembled in the cold weather of 1893-94. I may also point out, as perhaps the Council are not aware of the fact, that in other Provinces power has been taken by the Government to procure similar information from the owners and occupiers of lands. I hold in my hand a selection from the Revenue Laws of the North-Western Provinces, the Central Provinces, Oudh and the Punjab; and I find that by section 9 of Act XIII of 1882, the North-Western Provinces and Oudh Kanungos and Patwaris Act, provision has been made for such information to be furnished by the owners and occupiers of land. I will read an extract of this section to the Council:—

'For the purpose of preparing the registers or accounts prescribed by the said Oudh Land Revenue Act, 1876, or by any rule made thereunder, every owner or occupier of land in any Patwari's Circle, and the agent of every such owner or occupier, shall furnish to the patwari of such circle, the kanungo or such person as the Deputy Commissioner may appoint in this behalf, such information, at such times, as the Chief Commissioner may from time to time by rule prescribe.'

"Again, similar provision is to be found in section 128 of the Central Provinces Land Revenue Act XIII of 1881, and also in section 40 of the Punjab Land Revenue Act XVII of 1887. What we want to obtain (and I think it will be very beneficial to landlords to have on record their view of the state of affairs in their estates as it appears in their own papers), is to have mutations of the record of rights, as they are known to and acknowledged by proprietors, brought into comparison with the transfers brought to our notice by tenants. I know it has been said, and it was said in Select Committee, that it will be impossible for the statements furnished by proprietors to afford any check on the lists of transfers of which notice has been given by tenants. It may be so or it may not be so; but we think we should get from both sides all the transfers that are effected and acknowledged: and that is the ideal at which the Bill aims. At any rate it is out of the question to amend the Road Cess Act for this purpose and to postpone the filing of these statements for five years or more when we shall want them to be furnished annually. It is therefore my duty to oppose this amendment."

The Hon'ble MAULVI MUHAMMAD YUSUF, KHAN BAHADUR, said:—"In the observations which have been made by the hon'ble mover of the amendment in support of this amendment, I agree to a very considerable extent. The Council will remember that the question raised by this amendment is one of the questions which were largely discussed at the time when the Bill was referred to the Select Committee. On that occasion I ventured to make a full statement of my objections to this section, or rather to the corresponding section in the original. I still entertain the opinion that the section under discussion is out of place in a Bill, the ostensible object of which is to maintain the record prepared under the operation of Chapter X of the Bengal Tenancy Act. That record deals with the details and particulars relating to the tenant's rights. This section is therefore foreign to the principal subject of the Bill. But quite apart from that view, the section is open to objections of a more serious nature. This section is calculated to force the hand of the zamindar in a most unsatisfactory manner. There is some little difficulty in ascertaining the precise law relating to the transfer of a right of occupancy, but I think I stand upon safe ground when I say that, unless there is a custom to the contrary, the transfer of a right of occupancy by the tenant is not valid unless such transfer is effected with the consent of the landlord. Now, if a landlord has to make a return, and you ask him to state who are the present tenants, and whether occupancy rights have been transferred or not, what is the landlord to say? Is he to state in his return, for instance, with reference to a particular tenure which has changed hands, that the old tenant is still his tenant, or is he to state the name of the transferee, or is he to state nothing and keep quiet under that head. If he is to state the name of the old tenant, he makes a false return; if he notices the fact of transfer and states the name of the transferee, then he will be looked upon as having consented to the transfer; if he is to notice the transfer with a note of his objection to the transfer, he will still be held to have treated the transferee as at least in present possession under the transfer, and he will prejudice himself in regard to his rights in various ways; if he says nothing under that head in his return, he will not have complied with the requisition. This objection is sufficiently serious to render it inexpedient that a section like the present should be introduced in a Bill which does not profess to deal directly with the relative rights of the landlord and tenant, but which deals with the register as framed under section 114 of the Bengal Tenancy Act. Of course this objection will not arise if you ask the zamindar to make a return relating to tenant's right in accordance with his own register; but that is probably not what is intended by the Government.

"Again, it is quite clear that other existing enactments contain sufficient provision to enable the Government to obtain every information from the zamindar, and under the machinery of those enactments all necessary information is available, and no possible good is likely to result in multiplying modes of getting information.

"But there is still another objection of a still more serious character. There will be enormous practical difficulty in carrying out this section. The section provides that the zamindar is bound to make a return on the issue of a notification in the Calcutta Gazette. The issue of a notification in the Calcutta Gazette constitutes all the notice he has of the intentions of the Government that he is called upon to make a return; and if he omits to make a return, certain penal consequences arise. Now, I ask, how many of the ordinary landlords in the mufassal subscribe to or read the Calcutta Gazette: their number is exceedingly small, and the large majority of them are even unaware of the existence of the Calcutta Gazette. The notice therefore is wholly insufficient. In other existing enactments in the matter of returns, greater facilities are afforded to the zamindars for informing themselves in regard to the intentions of the Government. In the Road Cess Act, section 14, a proclamation is contemplated, and when a revaluation takes place, the matter is not left to the mere issue of a notification in the Calcutta Gazette, but the information is brought nearer home to the zamindars by the issue of a proclamation which is the next best mode of conveying information, the best mode being a special notice issued to every individual zamindar. I submit that this section should be omitted altogether from this Bill, or if it is retained, then some better mode of giving notice should be prescribed, or at all events the question of notice should be considered in connection with the provision relating to a penalty for omission to make a return. I may state that I had an amendment upon this section and also several other sections of this Bill, but I am precluded from bringing forward my amendments in consequence of some little delay in giving notice of those amendments."

The Hon'ble MR. BEIGHTON said:—"With regard to the present amendment and the numerous others which will be placed before us, I desire to remind hon'ble members of this Council of the valuable remarks which fell from the PRESIDENT on the last occasion on which His Honour presided, with regard to the mode in which the Council should deal with the labours of Select Committees, the measure of confidence which the Council should extend to the results of their deliberations, and the reliance that should be placed in the conscientious and painstaking efforts that have brought about these results.

"Perhaps, as a member of the Select Committee, I ought to have left it to some other member of Council to make these observations, but I have no wish to eulogise the outcome of our labours beyond repeating what has fallen from the hon'ble member in charge of the Bill that there is no portion of the Bill which has not received most anxious attention, and no suggestion in the voluminous papers referred to us which has not received full consideration. I desire therefore to associate myself with the remarks made by your Honour on the occasion to which I referred, and further to emphasize very strongly that there could be no Bill to which they are more strictly applicable than the present one. There is no great question of principle involved in this Bill. We have merely endeavoured by a series of details closely interwoven with each other to provide a system which will work automatically for securing a record of transfers of tenant right. The Bill is like a complicated piece of machinery of which the working is stopped if a single pivot be moved. If we deprive ourselves of the additional means of testing the accuracy of the tenants' notices of transfer which is provided by the statements to be submitted by landlords under section 5, we seriously jeopardise the success of the measure. It is essential that we should obtain data from both sources of information. Criticisms have been made by both the hon'ble members who have spoken as to the effect of those statements in embarrassing landlords who wish to protect themselves against the creation of unauthorized rights of occupancy by their tenants. I wish to state most emphatically that the rights of landlords will not in the least degree be affected either by section 5 or any other section of the Bill. Section 5 in no way requires landlords to include in their statements anything except a 'change' in their tenants' rights, and if they do not recognise the validity of a transfer they need not report it. At the same time, if I heard correctly what was said by the hon'ble mover of the amendment, he appears to think that no transfers are valid anywhere unless made with the consent of the landlord. This is hardly correct; for in some parts of the country transfers are valid as being authorised by the custom of that portion of the Province of which the district of Rangpur is an example. The landlord has, however, as I said above, every right to resist encroachments of this kind, and the Bill leaves his rights unimpaired.

"With regard to the mode of publication otherwise than in the Gazette, a suggestion which fell from the Hon'ble MAULVI MUHAMMAD YUSUF, I must confess that, speaking for myself, I regret that the proposal did not reach us sooner, but upon the whole I think we ought to retain section 5 as it stands in the Bill."

The Hon'ble SIR GRIFFITH EVANS said:—"I have one or two observations to offer on the question now under consideration. I do not take the same view of it which the Hon'ble MAULVI MUHAMMAD YUSUF has done. I put it to the Council that it will really be to the benefit of the landlord that this reference should be made to him. The return he makes will be a public record, and will be considered to be a statement made under compulsion of law, and will be admissible as evidence of relevant facts. It may be that there will be a large number of transfers of occupancy rights recorded, although the zamindar may truthfully say that no changes have taken place in his tenants' rights, because in parts of the country where transfers are not possible without the assent of the zamindar, he would have a right to say that no changes have taken place in his raiyats' rights, notwithstanding that there may have been all sorts of invalid documents made. Therefore, the result would be, as far as the landlord is concerned, that there may be from time to time a large number of transfers registered, which are invalid as not being allowed by custom. Transfers without the consent of the landlord are invalid unless validated by the custom of the place; therefore, in such cases there would, under this section, be the protest of the landlord as evidenced by such transfers not being entered in the statements filed by him under this section. We know that as a rule landlords consent to transfers being made where the transferees are proper persons, and if they are willing to take upon themselves the payment of all arrears due by the transferor, and the landlord does not as a rule take any fee except a sort of registration fee. Wherever this state of things prevail, that is to say, wherever a right of occupancy is not transferable without the consent of the landlord, there the landlord has every right to see that transfers are only made to really bonâ fide raiyats. If I were a landlord myself I should take all the care I could to see that a mahajan did not come in, and I should, in any case, take care that a tenant who is likely to harass me in many ways should not come in. Moreover, it is very desirable for the Government to know what is the real position and how the Act works, but if transfers are registered by only one of the interested parties, there will be nothing to contradict the register of mutations. The provisions of section 5 of the Bill will enable the landlord to contradict every one of these attempted transfers which he is unwilling to recognise: he need not take any notice, but in effect he will simply say—I do not acknowledge these transfers. Therefore, to my way of thinking, the furnishing of those statements by landlords will be better for the interests of the landlords, and it will undoubtedly better enable the Government to see how the Act works."

The Hon'ble MAULVI SERAJUL ISLAM, KHAN BAHADUR, said:—"I have one observation to make. I think the apprehensions entertained by the learned mover of the amendment may be removed if he will only refer to the provisions of sections 8 and 9 of the original Bill. Section 9 of that Bill provided for service of notice of transfer on the landlord, and section 8 required that the Sub-Registrar should notify to the landlord the fact of such transfer having been recorded, and it was further provided that the entry should be presumed to have been correctly made until the contrary is proved. This matter was well considered in Select Committee, and, after much deliberation and consideration, those two sections were omitted, the result being that there was now no longer any provision for notice being served on the zamindar, and no entry in the register of mutations would be evidence against the zamindar that such transfer had been made; and in place of sections 8 and 9, section 5 has been introduced, which is merely an enabling section to help the Government in checking entries in the registers, but it would not be binding upon the zamindar to acknowledge any transfer. Therefore the apprehensions which are entertained by the hon'ble member are misplaced and have no foundation."

The Hon'ble MR. GHOSE in reply said:—"I only desire to correct a misapprehension into which the Hon'ble THE LEGAL REMEMBRANCER fell as regards my observation as to the invalidity of transfers of tenants' rights. There are of course parts of Bengal in which by custom such transfers are made. Having made that correction and having regard to the opinions which have been expressed by several hon'ble members, I would ask the permission of the President to withdraw this amendment."

The Motion was, by leave, withdrawn.

The Hon'ble MAHARAJA SIR LUCHMESSUR SINGH, BAHADUR, OF DARBHANGA, by leave of the Council, withdrew the motion of which he had given notice that section 5 of the Bill be omitted.

The Hon'ble Mr. GHOSE moved that in line 4 of section 6, after the words "on any part thereof" the words "bearing a separate number in the records of rights" be inserted. He said—

"This is a small matter, but nevertheless it is a matter of some importance. This Bill is intended more or less for the benefit of raiyats, but I venture to think that if you insist on every fractional transfer which may take place being registered, you will, instead of benefiting the class you want to benefit, throw a burden upon the people which they are ill capable of bearing. It is quite right and proper that where a raiyat holds two or three plots of land bearing different numbers in the record of rights, if he parts with plot 1 or with plot 2 or with plot 3, it is quite right and proper that he should give notice of such transfer, and that the change should be noted in the Register of Mutations. But I can well conceive a case of a poor tenant parting with one bigha or with half a bigha of land out of a particular parcel, and it will be hard if in cases of such small fractional transfers he is obliged to go through all these formalities. Besides, what would be the result? I do not know if, when another tenant comes into a portion of a plot, his name is to find a place in the register or how it is to work. This is the commencement of a new reform connected with land registration, and I think we ought to be satisfied with having entire plots registered. That, I think, is as far as it is desirable to go."

The Hon'ble MR. BUCKLAND said:—"The result of this amendment, if it is accepted by the Council, will be that it will be necessary to give notice only of transfers of land which bear separate numbers in the Record of Rights. I think that perhaps the hon'ble member does not quite know what a survey number is. I am not sure that anything which fell from him would lead me to suppose that he is aware of the technical definition of a survey number. I ought therefore to enlighten the Council as to what is the meaning of this term. It corresponds with a field number and is thus defined in page 7 of the Director of Bengal Survey's Report for 1893-94:—

'A field or survey number is an area of which the ownership is separate and the occupant is separate. Each parcel of land lying in one spot, in the occupation of one person or of several persons holding jointly, so held under one title, provided it is all of one soil and is all rented at a uniform rate, shall have a separate number.'

"I may also inform the hon'ble member that, by the adoption of this definition, in practical working, fresh survey numbers are given to every small parcel of land which corresponds to the definition of a holding. I will not go through all the instructions upon the point, but I will refer to the survey handbook by Colonel Barron, which I hold in my hand, containing instructions for cadastral survey parties. One of the Rules provides that the several portions of one enclosure should be mapped and numbered separately, when there has been a legal partition and the partition papers show the location and direction of the shares: this is also required when a portion of an enclosure is held by a sub-tenant: also, when a garden is held rent-free by a tenant: also, when part of a field is fallow or grass, and part is cultivated: also, when on the side of a field, there is a piece of waste sufficiently large to be shown separately from it. I need not state them all; there are ten illustration cases given in which separate survey numbers are now attached to parcels of land which may be very small. As I mentioned at the meeting of the Council on the 9th March last, there are on an average 2½ of these plots, that is, separate survey numbers to an acre of land, which is equivalent to an average of 1,936 square yards for each survey number, or about 45 yards each way. It is very easy for the Council to imagine what very small plots of land are, under the existing rules and instructions of the Survey Department, treated as separate survey numbers; and it is therefore not very much to ask that whenever any raiyat thinks it necessary to sub-divide his, possibly very small, plot of land, the sub-division should be placed on record. These transactions will be of as much concern to these raiyats as very much larger plots of lands to other persons. The object of the Bill is not only to keep a record of large transfers, but to have also a record of all these smaller transfers which are of as much importance to the raiyats as larger transfers are to the zamindars. I therefore think it right to oppose this motion on behalf of the Government. I will also ask the Council to look at the question in another way. An average plot of land may be 50 yards by 40 yards, but there are also some very large plots of acres and acres in extent: is it to be held that, when one of these technically so-called survey numbers or plots is of large size, sub-divisions of it ought to be registered, but that in the case of the splitting up of small plots no record of the fractional transfers is necessary? Where is the line to be drawn? What we want is that all these transfers should be registered, and not only transfers of whole survey numbers. I must therefore oppose the amendment."

The Hon'ble MAULVI MUHAMMAD YUSUF, KHAN BAHADUR, said:—"I do not know what good this amendment will be productive of to the raiyats. If it is expedient to provide for the registration of transfers in connection with entire plots of land which bear entire survey numbers, surely reasons do also exist for the registration of portions of such plots."

The Hon'ble MR. BEIGHTON said:—"I have only one word to say supplementary to the remarks which fell from the hon'ble member in charge of the Bill. Section 7, clause (d), provides that 'the notice shall contain such further particulars as the Local Government may from time to time prescribe.' It will be quite possible for the Local Government to prescribe for the notice giving such a description as will secure the identification of particular portions of a plot which have been transferred. For instance, when a portion of a particular survey number has been transferred, 'such further particulars' may include the area of the portion of the plot so transferred, and also the situation of the portion transferred with reference to the points of the compass. So I think the confusion which the hon'ble member anticipates is not likely to arise." Moreover, unless the register of transfers is to include portions of plots, it will not be exhaustive, and the record of rights will be imperfect and therefore valueless."

The Hon'ble MAULVI SERAJUL ISLAM, KHAN BAHADUR, said:—"Although I was a member of the Select Committee I am inclined to support this amendment, and I do so on this ground. I do not think it will be convenient or expedient to register these petty transfers of portions of a plot of land. The holding of a raiyat may consist of several survey numbers, and if he transfers a portion of any lands which are included in any one of those survey numbers, it will be very inconvenient and very difficult not only to register the transfer, but at the same time it will be hard on the raiyat to go to the expense of registering it. It was said by the Hon'ble the Legal Remembrancer that under section 7 (d) a specification of the interest transferred must be given. By the term 'nature of the interest' in clause (b) I understand is meant whether it is a right of occupancy or a tenancy with occupancy rights at a fixed rent, but it does not mean the boundaries of the portion of the holding which has been sold. Therefore I submit that having regard to the great inconvenience and expense to which this provision would put the poor raiyats, the Government ought not to insist upon so much detail. It is, of course, very desirable to have the record complete and perfect, but it is not possible to make everything perfect. I think it will serve the purposes of the Government and of the public if only transfers of entire holdings be entered in the register, and I submit it will not be convenient to go beyond that."

The Hon'ble MR. R. C. DUTT said:—"As a member of the Select Committee to which the Bill was referred, I desire to say a very few words to explain the reasons which influenced me in keeping the section as it stands. The question which has been raised now was raised in Select Committee, and was very thoroughly discussed, and we came to the conclusion that it would be impossible to keep the record of rights complete unless we provided that transfers not only of tenures and holdings, but also of parts thereof, should be duly recorded. The object is to keep the Record of Rights complete and correct up to date, but if we accept this amendment, I do not see how that object can be attained. The hon'ble member in charge of the Bill has said that what is one plot now may, after transfer of a portion of it, become two plots, and therefore, unless we provide for the registration of such transfer, the record will not be correct up to date, and the object we have in view will be lost."

The Hon'ble MR. LYALL said:—"I had not intended to speak upon this amendment, but there is one point that I think it necessary to bring to the notice of the Council. I have very serious doubts whether the amendment, as it is worded, will carry out the intention of the hon'ble mover. If the hon'ble members will look back to section 2, they will see that by the term 'Record of Rights' shall be understood the Settlement Record of Tenant-rights, called the khatian, or such new edition of such record as may be prepared under Rules made under this Act. It is clear that the Hon'ble Mover does not mean a separate Record of Rights (khatian), but that he means a separate survey number. [The Hon'ble MR. GHOSE said:—"I meant 'survey number.'"] On the point at issue I am at one with the hon'ble members who expressed the views of the Select Committee."

The Motion was, by leave, withdrawn.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE moved that in line 8 of section 6 the words "or of intestate or testamentary succession" be omitted. He said:—

"In moving this amendment, and having regard to some observations which fell from the Hon'ble the Legal Remembrancer, I wish to say that I do not in the remotest degree wish to imply any reflection upon the labours of the Select Committee. I am grateful to the Select Committee for the way in which they have dealt with this Bill, and I am also grateful to the Government not indeed for having introduced the Bill, but for its conciliatory attitude in regard to this matter which made it possible for the Select Committee to revise the Bill in the way which they had done. But there are some matters of detail in which the Bill is susceptible of improvement. Under section 6 the transferor or the transferee is bound to give notice of the fact of the transfer to the Registrar of Mutations within four months of the date of such transfer. As far as the transferee by succession is concerned under section 15 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, he is required, in the case of a mukarrari tenure, to give notice of the transfer to the Collector. Thus a double duty is imposed upon him by this Bill. First, he has to give notice to the Collector, and secondly, he has to give notice to the Registrar of Mutations. It is a very serious matter to ask a raiyat to give up his work to dance attendance in our courts of law and to come in contact with all their demoralizing influences. Section 15 of the Bengal Tenancy Act provides that when a succession to a permanent tenure takes place, the person succeeding should give notice of such succession to the Collector. The section says:—

'When a succession to a permanent tenure takes place, the person succeeding shall give notice of the succession to the Collector in the prescribed form and shall pay to the Collector the prescribed fee for the service of the notice on the landlord, and the landlord's fee prescribed by section 12, and the Collector shall cause the landlord's fee to be paid to, and the notice to be served on, the landlord in the prescribed manner.'

"Therefore, so far as permanent tenures are concerned, provision is made for notice of transfer, and the object of my amendment is to obviate the necessity of giving a second notice in respect of the same transaction. Nothing could be easier than for the Collector to send a copy of the notice to the Registrar of Mutations."

The Hon'ble MR. BUCKLAND said:—"The hon'ble member has referred the Council to section 15 of the Tenancy Act, and has stated that that section provides for notice being given to the Collector of successions to Permanent Tenures. I have always understood the meaning of that section and its object to be to ensure, not only that notice should be given to the Collector, but that a fee should be paid to the landlord. That, I believe, was the main object of that particular section. It is not so necessary that the Collector should know about the succession. The object was that the fee should be taken and paid over to the landlord. But this does not touch the point at which we aim by section 6 of the Bill, which requires that notice of transfer of all tenures (not only Permanent Tenures) should be given. Therefore I do not see that any case has been made out for the amendment. The hon'ble member wants us not to do what is proposed, on the ground that it is provided for in section 15 of the Tenancy Act; but we say that that section has a very different object, and does not cover the whole field which we are trying to cover by our section. I shall therefore oppose this amendment and any amendment which aims at limiting the number of transfers we can possibly get into our net."

The Hon'ble MR. R. C. DUTT said :—" I have one word to say on this point I desire to oppose this amendment for the same reason which I mentioned just now. The hon'ble member in charge of the Bill has pointed out that the section of the Tenancy Act which the hon'ble mover of the amendment quoted, does not cover the whole field intended to be covered by section 6 of this Bill. The object of the Bill is to have a complete record of transfers of all holdings. The section quoted relates to the transfer of Permanent Tenures only. I believe that, as a fact, there are 50 or 100 transfers of ordinary holdings to one transfer of a Permanent Tenure; therefore section 15 of the Tenancy Act does not cover the object we have in view. We have therefore provided for the registration of all successions; otherwise the record would not be complete and correct, up to date."

The Hon'ble MR. BEIGHTON said :—" I am bound to say that both the hon'ble member in charge of the Bill and I feel that there is some force in what has been urged by the hon'ble mover of the amendment, and, with the permission of His Honour THE PRESIDENT, I will move an amendment which, as far as sections 12 and 15 of the Tenancy Act are concerned, will meet the object of his amendment. In section 20 of this Bill we have provided that the fees payable to the Collector under sections 15 and 18 of the Bengal Tenancy Act may be paid to the Registrar of Mutations when notice is given under section 6, and such payment shall be held to be payment to the Collector. I must confess that we omitted to notice that although we are legislating in a way that will prevent the payment of double fees, the wording of the section still leaves it obligatory on the tenant to give notice to two separate officials, and I think therefore we ought to add to section 20 the words 'and such notice to the Sub-Registrar shall be held to be a notice to the Collector under sections 15 and 18 of the Bengal Tenancy Act." If the Hon'ble mover of the amendment will accept my proposal and withdraw his amendment, I will undertake, with the permission of His Honour, to move to add these words at the end of section 20, which will, I think, meet the hon'ble members' views."

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE having accepted this suggestion and withdrawn his amendment—

The Hon'ble MR. GHOSE moved that in line 9 of section 6 the word "six" be substituted for the word "four" between the word "within" and the word "months." He said :—

"The idea is this, that as regards the mutation of names in proprietory rights, the time allowed is six months, and as regards this new measure calling upon the raiyats to register transfers of their rights, I think the same term ought to be given to them as is now allowed to landlords under the Act of 1876. Although this is not a matter of any great importance, it is a matter which has been noticed by every one of the Associations. The Bengal Chamber of Commerce say :—

'The Committee do not understand why in section 4 (which is now section 6) the reference is to section 23 of the Registration Act limiting the time for report to Sub-Registrars of the acquisition of proprietory right to four months, when such a report is equivalent to an application for mutation of names under section 42, of Act VII of 1876. They would represent that the time should not be reduced to four months, but that the precedent of the Act of 1876 is the more correct and more just to follow.'

"I submit that though transfers of proprietory rights are removed from this Bill, still it holds good as to tenant rights. Raiyats are engaged in the cultivation of their fields, and it must be sometimes hard upon them to do a thing which is altogether novel to them, and it will take them sometime before they get accustomed to it. I therefore think it will be more reasonable to allow the same period, namely six months, as is allowed to landlords for similar registration on their part."

The Hon'ble MR. BUCKLAND said:—"This amendment aims at making this section conform to the period of time prescribed in the Land Registration Act, whereas we have in drafting the section deliberately followed the procedure of the Indian Registration Act of 1887, which has been followed almost entirely throughout this Bill, whereas it has little or nothing to do with the Land Registration Act in the matter of procedure. Therefore, in the matter of giving notices of transfers we have been guided by the time allowed by the Indian Registration Act for the presentation of documents for registration. In Part IV of that Act, sections 23 and 25, the period allowed for the presentation of documents is four months from the date of the execution of the document or of its arrival in India, and if that period is thought sufficient for the large number of documents registered every year under that Act, it is surely enough for tenants to give notice at very short distances of transfers effected by them. We have thought this over very carefully, and have come to the conclusion that there is no reason for altering the term. I must therefore oppose the amendment."

The Hon'ble MAULVI MUHAMMAD YUSUF, KHAN BAHADUR, said:—"I submit that the analogy from the Registration Act does not hold good. The Registration Act aims at one thing, this Bill aims at another. Under the Registration Act four months run from the time of the execution of an instrument, whereas in this Bill time is to run from the date of possession; and under the last proviso of this section, if an instrument has been registered, there need be no notice given at all by the tenant, because that proviso releases parties from the obligation to give notice if an instrument has been registered. No notice is necessary under section 6 of this Bill if the instrument is registered: that section will only come into operation if an instrument has not been presented for registration. The question being thus set free from any analogy to the Registration Act, the analogy of the Land Registration Act should govern, and six months should be allowed from the date of possession for giving notice to the Registrar of Mutations."

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said:—"I wish to point to a mistake in the remarks which have been made in introducing this amendment. The Bengal Chamber of Commerce were quoted as objecting to the old section 4 of the Bill, but that section has gone out altogether and was not identical, as the hon'ble member thought, with new section 6. It was the section in which we proposed to deal with the transfer of proprietary rights. We do not propose to alter the law with regard to such transfers; we propose to make a new law with regard to transfers by tenants, and we give them four months to give notice of such transfers, and the reason for doing so is that four months is the time under the Indian Registration Act. All transfers under sections 15 and 18 must be carried out by deed, and must be presented for registration, and the raiyats know perfectly well that four months is the time for such registration. Surely it will be inconvenient if in a certain class of transfers the deeds have to be presented for registration within four months, and in another class of transfers of a very similar character notice can be given within the extended time of six months. It will be much more convenient if they have one period of four months for both classes of transfers."

The Hon'ble MR. GHOSE said:—"After the explanation which has been given by the Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT, I beg leave to withdraw the amendment."

The Motion was accordingly withdrawn.

The Hon'ble MR. BUCKLAND said:—"I ask permission to move two verbal amendments, the necessity for which has been brought to my notice by the Hon'ble the Advocate-General and the Hon'ble MAULVI MUHAMMAD YUSUF. They relate to certain matters of drafting which the legal members of the Council think necessary. In the revised Bill, in line 10 of sub-section (1) of section 8, after the word 'transfer,' where it first occurs in that line, I beg to move that the words 'or in the case of the death of both parties if their respective representatives admit the transfer' be inserted. The case of the death of either party is provided for in this section; the words I propose to insert will provide for the case of the death of both the parties. Then, again, after the word 'both' in the same line, I have to move that the words 'transferor or transferee or their respective representatives' be inserted. These are merely verbal amendments to carry out what has always been the intention of the section. Similarly, in line 3 of sub-section (2) of the same section, I move that the words 'or their respective representatives' be inserted after the word 'transferee.' These three little all amendments stand on the same footing, and are considered desirable to complete the sense and intention of the section."

The Hon'ble MAULVI MUHAMMAD YUSUF, KHAN BAHADUR, said:—"I am extremely thankful to the Government and to the hon'ble member in charge of the Bill for having accepted the suggestion I have made. I was late in giving notice of my amendments, and I therefore placed the list of my amendments by way of suggestions before the hon'ble member, and I am gratified to find that a large number of my suggestions has met with the approval of the Government."

The Motions were severally put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. BUCKLAND said:—"I have another motion of a similar character to make. I move that in line 13 of section 9, after the words 'one month' the words 'from the date of the last-mentioned notice' be inserted. It is desirable to add these words to show from what date the period of one month should run. And in line 13 of section 15, I move to insert the same words 'from the date of the last-mentioned notice' after the words 'one month.'"

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said:—"I will only add that we are indebted for these amendments to the careful examination of the Bill made by the Hon'ble MAULVI MUHAMMAD YUSUF, whose suggestions have been approved by our Legal Advisers."

The Motions were severally put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble BABU SUREDNRANATH BANERJEE moved that in the proviso to section 11 for the words "exempt by law" the words "exempt by notification issued by the Government and persons exempt by the custom of the country" be substituted. He said:—

"This is a very small amendment. It is in the nature of a verbal amendment, and does not involve any question of principle. Persons are exempted from attendance at Courts either by a notification specially issued by the Government on that behalf, or according to the custom of the country. Rajas and Maharajas and the like are exempted by notification issued by Government; zanana ladies are exempt by the custom of the country. The amendment seeks to state in clear and distinct terms the grounds of exemption."

The Hon'ble MR. BUCKLAND said:—"If the hon'ble member will look at the margin of section 11, he will find there a reference to section 33 of the Indian Registration Act, and if he will compare section 11 of our Bill with that section, he will find that we have adopted the exact wording of the Registration Act. We have adopted to a very considerable extent the procedure of the Registration Act, and we saw no reason to depart from it in this particular. I am not aware of any objection being taken to the working of that particular section of the Registration Act, and I see no reason to alter the wording. I must therefore oppose the amendment."

The Hon'ble SIR GRIFFITH EVANS said:—"The wording of this section as it has been adopted from the Indian Registration Act, is absolutely correct. The exemption from attendance at Courts is given not by the custom of the country, but by the Civil Procedure Code, sections 640 and 641. So the exemption is given by law. And in the case of individuals it is the same; special exemptions are made by Local Governments under sanction of the law. There is therefore no necessity for this amendment."

The Motion was, by leave, withdrawn.

The Hon'ble MR. BUCKLAND said:—"I have another amendment to propose of exactly the same nature as those which have already been made. I move that in line 4 of section 14, after the word 'transferee' the words 'or in the case of the death of either if his representative' be inserted."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. BUCKLAND said:—"I will now ask the Council to add a few words in section 15, which my hon'ble friend the Advocate-General has brought to my notice as being desirable. I move that in line 19 of section 15, after the words 'Registrar of Mutations shall' the words 'if the other provisions of the Act are complied with' be inserted. The object of this amendment is to make it clear that section 15 is not meant to override in any way the rest of the Act. It had escaped my notice that these words were necessary, but on the advice of the learned Advocate-General the Government is quite prepared to accept the amendment, and I trust it will also meet with the approval of the Council."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. BEIGHTON said:—"I have already explained to the Council the reasons for which I wish to move an addition to section 20 of the Bill in lieu of the amendment proposed by the Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE in section 6, and which he withdrew on my suggesting the amendment which I now move. It was a matter which escaped the notice of the Select Committee, but the omission was discovered almost simultaneously by the Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT and myself. I therefore now formally move that at the end of section 20 the following words be added:—

'and such notice to the Registrar of Mutations shall be held to be a notice to the Collector under sections 15 and 18 of the Bengal Tenancy Act.'

"I must ask the Council to notice that these sections deal only with permanent tenures and to tenures held at fixed rates, and do not cover the whole ground of section 6 of the Bill."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. BUCKLAND said:—"I will now ask the Council to look carefully to the proviso to section 24 of the Bill, which runs thus:—

'Provided that no person shall be fined under this section who at any time prior to the institution of proceedings thereunder has given notice under section 6.'

"I alluded to this proviso this morning as being intended to give a tenant who had omitted to give notice a means of escaping the penalty; he can come forward before the institution of proceedings and confess that he has not given notice. It has been brought to our notice that a proviso to a similar effect should be added to section 25, which is the section that penalises a landlord who, under section 5, is required to file a statement and does not do so. It has been brought to our notice that we ought to allow a landlord the same right of coming forward at any time before proceedings have been instituted against him, and by filing the statement escape the penalty. The Government are quite prepared to go to that length and to give landlords the same privilege of escaping penalty as is afforded in the proviso to section 24 to tenants. But, even more than that. We are quite prepared, in dealing with the proviso in section 24, to insert words which would give a tenant a further opportunity than is given in that proviso for escaping the penalty to which he is liable. We propose to introduce the words 'or in the discretion of the Collector at any time after such institution.' The proviso in section 24 gives tenants the opportunity of escaping a penalty by coming forward before the institution of proceedings. We propose to extend that power of escaping the penalty by inserting a few words which will at the discretion of the Collector allow a tenant to escape a penalty even after the institution of proceedings, and we are willing, in extending the proviso to that extent, to make it applicable to both sections. It seems to me that when we do that we make the pressure on the tenant, and in certain cases on the landlord, as light as it can be made compatible with the application of some pressure. I do not see how we can go further without whittling away the whole of the pressure, except such as is of an automatic character. Therefore I move that the proviso to section 24 be struck out, and that at the end of section 25 the following proviso be inserted:—

'Provided that no person shall be fined under this or the last preceding section who at any time prior to the institution of proceedings thereunder, or in the discretion of the Collector at any time after such institution of such proceedings, has filed the statement required by section 5 or given the notice required by section 6.'

"I am not prepared to relax the pressure upon the landlord or upon the tenant any more than this."

The Hon'ble Sir Griffith Evans said:—"The object of this amendment is shortly this: There are several amendments connected with these sections on the agenda, but I only refer to them for the purpose of explanation. One of those amendments relating to section 24, which relates to tenants, has for its object that no fine should be inflicted until notice to comply with the provisions of section 6 has been served upon the raiyats. But it should be remembered that it will be impossible to know whether the raiyat has complied with the provisions of that section or not, because in 99 cases out of 100 nobody knows except himself and his transferee whether he has made a transfer of his tenancy or not, until in the course of some proceedings connected with the tenancy it transpires that that has been done. Moreover, it will be exceedingly difficult in practice to serve landlords with these notices, and the same remark which applies with regard to landlords applies to small tenure-holders. It has been thought that we might also give a discretion to the Collector, when he institutes a prosecution, to dispense with the imposition of a fine when the statement has been filed or the notice given. Considering that the object of the fine is to put pressure upon the landlord or tenant, as the case may be, that what is wanted is in the case of the landlord to get the return, and in the case of the tenant what is wanted is for him to give the notice, there is no intention to inflict a fine when the object of the law has been complied with. It is necessary to put some pressure on raiyats beyond the automatic pressure. As has been pointed out, the disabilities under the automatic sections will be two-fold. First, we say to the landlord-raiyat, you shall not be allowed to sue for rent until you have given notice, so that the landlord-raiyat will not be able to recover or get a decree against his under-tenants. Next, we say to the ordinary occupancy raiyat you shall not give evidence of your right of occupancy until you have given notice; but there are many cases in which tenants would not be much affected by this pressure, because, after the khatian and record of rights, there will not be much room for doubt. No doubt in the case of occupancy raiyats, who are at variance with the landlord, and those who have under-tenants, the automatic pressure would apply to a certain extent, but in all other cases, which will probably be the majority, the pressure would not be felt. There was therefore no other pressure except the power of fining. But I am exceedingly anxious that we should not harass the raiyats, because our attempts to benefit them have not always succeeded. In this case we desire that it should be understood, and appear on the face of the law, that the intention is to provide a means of threatened pressure, and that it is not desirable that punishment should be enforced except where it is absolutely necessary, and to show those concerned that there is a means of enforcing compliance with the law, if they will not otherwise comply with it. We do not want to enforce the penalty, but we want to have the power to tell them—you must do this or you will be fined. And that is what

His Honour THE PRESIDENT meant when he said that the amendment proposed by the hon'ble member in charge of the Bill should be first considered, so that hon'ble members, who have given notice of other amendments, might consider whether they would not be satisfied with what is proposed to be done and withdraw their amendments. That was a matter which would come on afterwards. The motion now was the acceptance of the Hon'ble MR. BUCKLAND's amendment."

The Hon'ble MAULVI MUHAMMAD YUSUF, KHAN BAHADUR, said:—"In this instance also I am thankful to the Government for having accepted my suggestion, the reasons for which have been so fully stated by the hon'ble mover of the amendment. But there is one reason which also weighed with me, namely, that the object is to secure registration and not to secure a conviction for non-compliance with the provisions of the law. When the alternatives are registration or prosecution with certainty of conviction, tenants will no doubt accept registration, and thus this amendment will promote the object which this Bill has in view, viz., the registration of tenures."

The Hon'ble MR. GHOSE said:—"It seems to me that the amendment proposed by the hon'ble member in charge of the Bill is probably sufficient to meet the views of those hon'ble members who think the Bill is defective in this respect as far as section 24 is concerned. There may be some difficulty in knowing what transactions have taken place between raiyats, and as the learned Advocate-General observed they may only transpire in the course of some other proceedings long afterwards. But I venture to think that section 25 stands on a different footing. The only notice the landlord is supposed to receive is by a notification in the Calcutta Gazette which is referred to in section 5 of the Bill, and, as pointed out by the Hon'ble the Advocate-General, there are many landlords of various degrees, including small tenure-holders and others, who do not read the Calcutta Gazette very assidiously; therefore I think that in the case of zamindars who are required to submit returns of changes in their estates, some notice should be given to them personally, rather than that the law should provide that a notification in the Calcutta Gazette is sufficient for the purpose of imposing a penalty. In connection with this amendment I would ask the Government to consider whether, in the case of landlords, a mere notification in the Calcutta Gazette ought to be held to be sufficient for the purpose of imposing a penalty for non-compliance with an order of which the landlords would be wholly ignorant."

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE said:—"I am very grateful to the hon'ble member for introducing this amendment. It takes the matter a stage further; but I am not prepared to abandon the amendment of which I have given notice. I would appeal to him to look at the matter from the point of view I desire him to look at it. The Hon'ble the Advocate-General has asked how are we to know whether a tenant has made a transfer or not. I am not prepared to accept that argument, because, preparatory to the institution of proceedings, the Collector must know that notice has not been given. If the Collector institutes proceedings against the tenant, it must be on the basis of his knowledge that notice has not been given by the tenant. If he knows that the tenant has not given notice, would it not be the simplest thing for the Collector to serve notice on him to comply with the provisions of section 6, and then, if the tenant omitted to comply with the requisition, there would be time enough to prosecute him. With reference to landlords, so far as the provisions of the Local Self-Government Act are concerned, I understand that notice is given by beat of drum in the locality, but a similar concession is not shown to the landlord under the provisions of this Bill. This is a new measure, and it ought to be worked in such a manner as not to operate with severity on raiyats and landlords. I would therefore ask the hon'ble member to reconsider the matter from the point of view to which I have referred."

The Hon'ble MR. BEIGHTON said:—"The arguments of the Hon'ble MR. GHOSE and of the Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE would, it appear to me, if accepted by the Council, be absolutely destructive of the Bill. The whole principle of the Bill is that the initiative should be taken by the raiyat and not by the Collector. But the hon'ble members want that the only real penalty imposed by the Bill should not be put into force until notice to the raiyat has emanated from the Collector. In that case no raiyat will ever come forward to give notice of any mutation until he is aware that he is about to be fined for not doing so. Such a provision will, I think, absolutely stultify the whole object of the Bill, for it is only in an infinitesimal number of cases that the Collector can possibly become aware of the transfer of any holding or part of a holding. With regard to the observations which fell from the Hon'ble MR. GHOSE as to the ignorance of zamindars as to notifications which appear in the Calcutta Gazette, I must remind the hon'ble member that ignorance of the law is never held to be an excuse for non-compliance with its provisions, and it would be altogether subversive of any system of law if it were so held. But the hon'ble member knows as well as I do that in practice no injustice is really perpetrated. He must be familiar, for instance, with the vast number of penalties for technical breaches of the law which have been imposed by recent legislation in England under the Corrupt Practices Act for the election of members of Parliament and members of Municipal Corporations. It is impossible for any human being to be cognizant of all the complex details which modern ingenuity has devised in order to protect the purity of Local administration, and these are constantly being violated by candidates who have not the least idea they are doing anything wrong. But what is the result? The hon'ble member must have seen reports in English newspapers which show how leniently such cases are dealt with in the Courts. In such cases of innocent transgression, either the offender is exempted from any penalty or a merely nominal fine is imposed. Similarly, if any case of hardship should arise under this section, I have no doubt that the Magistrate would take into consideration the fact that it was virtually impossible that a petty landlord could have heard of the notification in the Calcutta Gazette, and would impose a nominal fine. I trust the hon'ble member will see that the motion which the hon'ble member in charge of the Bill now proposes is really quite sufficient to meet all that can be expected from the Government."

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said:—"I am sorry to perceive that the speech of the Hon'ble the Advocate-General has not had the effect which I expected it would, but perhaps the additional weight of the remarks which fell from the Hon'ble the Legal Remembrancer may have carried conviction. I was surprised to find on the agenda the amendment No. 8, to the effect that 'no person should be fined under section 24 except after notice served upon him to comply with the provisions of section 16,' because it is to my mind absolutely destructive of one of the important principles of the Bill. It will be perfectly fatal to the scheme if, in addition to the small automatic pressure provided by the preceding clause, no penalty is to accrue until the Collector has sent a notice warning the raiyat that he has failed to give notice of mutation. And with regard to zamindars, I would remind hon'ble members how numerous they are and how difficult it would be to issue notice to all of them. Time after time the Legislature has attempted to find means to reach them, but we know that the efforts of the Legislature have generally been a failure, and we should not succeed in having notice served upon everybody. I ask hon'ble members to accept this view and to trust to the discretion we place in the Collector. We are drawing special attention to the fact that defaulters are not expected to be fined in every case. I think, looking at it as reasonable men, we ought to be satisfied that the provision is one which in all probability will meet the case as far as any legislative procedure can meet the case of future events which never actually accord with our anticipations."

The Motions were put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE said:—"After what has fallen from Your Honour, it would have been a matter of very great gratification to me if I found it consistent with my duty to withdraw both the amendments of which

I have given notice, but I feel it incumbent on me to move first that the following further proviso be added to section 24:—

'Provided, further, that no person shall be fined under this section except after he has been served with a notice to comply with the provisions of section 6.'

"It has been observed by the Hon'ble THE LEGAL REMEMBRANCER that ignorance of law is no excuse, but in applying this principle to this country, you must take into consideration the condition of the people, and especially the position of the agricultural population. They live in little hamlets of their own—in a little world of their own—and in utter ignorance of what is taking place in the world outside and in this Council. They do not know what their legal obligations are, and it would be cruel to punish them for an offence which is the creation of law. What I contend for is that they should be allowed the opportunity of complying with the law before they are prosecuted, or, in other words, a notice should be served upon them, before they are prosecuted. I have heard it stated that we ought to put some sort of pressure upon them. I think this notice will serve as a sort of pressure, and in the course of time they will become aware of their duty under the law."

The Hon'ble MR. BUCKLAND said:—"After the lengthened argument which has taken place upon the motion which I put before the Council, there is really not much to say. I entirely object to the principle which this amendment tries to incorporate into the Bill, namely, that when a man has neglected his duty and has rendered himself liable to punishment, he has to be given notice before he can be punished. If that principle is to be adopted, we shall never get any notices of mutations except after the service of such notice. An attempt to introduce such a principle was made the other day in connection with another measure, and it was successfully resisted. I therefore hope we shall not accept this amendment, but retain what I consider ample provision for allowing innocent people to escape the penalty."

The Hon'ble SIR GRIFFITH EVANS said:—"I have one word more to say in connection with this matter. These raiyats, as we know, will not do anything new unless there is pressure. It is a matter of history what occurred when an attempt was made to enforce an exchange of pottahs and kabuliyats. The Regulation stood for fifty years uncomplied with and was then repealed. We know perfectly well and we sympathise with the strong feeling they have against any innovation. It is inconvenient for a raiyat to leave his work; it is inconvenient for him to go near any of these offices at all, and that for various reasons: he will not do it without real pressure being put upon him. It is clear that we are not able to serve separate notices upon millions of raiyats, and yet the proposal is made to tell the raiyats that if they are not affected by the automatic pressure provided in the Bill, there will be no pressure put upon them, and there is no reason for them to give notice of mutations; it will be time enough, they will be told, for you to go when you receive an order from the Collector announcing to you that a prosecution is about to be instituted against you. To accept this amendment will be as much as to say that this attempt to enforce registration of mutations is to be abandoned."

The Hon'ble MAULVI MUHAMMAD YUSUF, KHAN BAHADUR, said:—"After all that has been said and done in connection with this subject in Council to-day, I submit that this amendment ought to be rejected. What is reasonable and proper in connection with this amendment has already been provided in the amendment to section 24. The gist of the present amendment is that there should be notice before conviction; but that is already provided for in a much better form in the amendment which has been adopted in connection with section 24; so that the Collector is authorised, even after the institution of proceedings, to refrain from imposing a fine: the summons gives the tenant notice of his default: he can cure the default by complying with the law even after receiving the summons; if he does not care to cure his default, he must be fined. What further notice should be given to him before the imposition of a fine I fail to comprehend: in the summons with which he has been served, he has already got a notice that he has been in default. After having received the summons, knowing that he has to receive no further notice, the defaulter will not assume a defiant attitude, but on the other hand he will be repentant, and he will rather hasten to comply with the law than run the risk of a conviction in the prosecution. But if he knows that a further notice would be necessary before a fine is imposed in accordance with the amendment under consideration, then he may simply sit quiet and do nothing to cure his default. Without this amendment, he will try his best not to remain any longer in default: with the amendment he will persist in his default. Only two alternatives should be before the tenant, viz., action on his part to cure his default or conviction; this amendment unwisely gives him a third alternative."

The Hon'ble Mr. Lyall said:—"I venture to think that the appeal ad misericordiam has no real weight. All who know the mufassal well, as several hon'ble members present can claim to do, know how much the common people talk about Mokudummas, Courts, Thanas, Munsifis and the like. Your Honour has received repeated petitions upon any attempt to close a Munsifi or a Thana, and when a new registration office is opened, all the country round about know why it is opened; it will be talked about in the village, and will be a matter of common rumour. Therefore there can be no fear that the raiyats will not know why the new sub-registration offices are established and for what purpose they have to go to them."

The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee said:—"Having seen that the sense of the meeting is against the amendment, I beg leave to withdraw it."

The Motion was, by leave, withdrawn.

The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee moved that the following proviso be added to section 25:—

'Provided that no person shall be fined under this section except after he has been served with a notice to comply with the provisions of section five; the provisions of the Civil Procedure Code in respect of the service of notice shall apply to the service of notice in such a case.'

He said:—"Section 25 provides that a notification is to be issued in the Calcutta Gazette, and on the issue of such a notification zamindars have to give notice of every change of tenancy which occur in their estates, and if they fail they are to be prosecuted and punished. I think this is a hard measure to mete out to the zamindars. I should like to know how many zamindars read the Gazette. I should like to know how many who are not zamindars wade through the pages of the Gazette. An absentee landlord may be ignorant of a general notification issued in the columns of the Calcutta Gazette. He may thus be punished through no fault of his. If a personal notice were issued upon him, he would have no excuse. I have referred to the Local Self-Government Act under which zamindars have to submit certain returns, and in respect of those returns notice is given. At any rate some provision of the same kind ought, I submit, to be made in this Bill."

The Hon'ble Mr. Buckland said:—"The hon'ble member is very sanguine if he thinks that a mere notice to the zamindar will have the effect of making the Act more acceptable to him. Most likely the notice will be treated in the way that other notices are treated. I believe the arguments for and against this motion have been practically exhausted. I shall therefore only repeat that the Government is distinctly opposed to this notice being required."

The Hon'ble Mr. Ghose said:—"I desire to support this amendment. I have tried to make my position clear. I tried to make myself understood that while I thought the amendment of the hon'ble member for the Corporation in regard to section 24 is not really necessary, and while I was not prepared to go as far as he proposed with regard to notice being served upon a raiyat calling upon him to give notice of a transfer effected by him, I tried to distinguish between the two cases—the case of the raiyat who makes the transfer, and the case of the zamindar who is not a party to the transaction, but who nevertheless may be required by a notification in the Calcutta Gazette to make a return, and especially in the case of those zamindars who do not know English or whose amlah do not know English. The Hon'ble the Legal Remembrancer charged me with endeavouring to mislead the Council by pleading ignorance on the part of zamindars, and he reminded me that ignorance of the law is no excuse. I beg to assure him that nothing was further from my intention than to plead ignorance of the law on behalf of any one. But here we are not sitting in judgment over any zamindar; we are legislating; we are providing the machinery for the working of this Act; and as legislators we ought to take care that adequate provision is made for the purpose of bringing these new obligations to the knowledge of the zamindars before they are dealt with as offenders under this law; and I threw it out as a suggestion that a notification in the Calcutta Gazette is not sufficient in my judgment, and I think that some proceeding might be taken with little or no trouble to the Government, but with great advantage to those who will be liable to punishment for non-compliance with a requisition of which they had never heard. And, following the analogy of the Road Cess Act, I think nothing would be easier than by beat of drum to make a proclamation, so that the fact may be made known; and if, after being made acquainted with his new obligations under the law, a zamindar still persists in disregarding the obligation, I can see no objection to his being punished. But I thought then, and I think so still, that some more effectual notice than a mere notification in the Gazette might be given with great advantage. I challenge the legal advisers of the Government to point to a single instance in previous legislation on a similar subject requiring returns from zamindars, where a notification in the Calcutta Gazette has been deemed sufficient, and I shall be very much surprised if they are able to find any instance where it is not provided that new obligations of this character imposed upon zamindars should be brought to their knowledge by service of notice or by proclamation."

The Hon'ble Sir Griffith Evans said:—"There is a proviso to section 14 of the Road Cess Act which provides for the making of a proclamation which I think will cost the Government very little trouble, and which I think will meet the views of those who claim hardship to the zamindar getting no information except through the Calcutta Gazette. I propose to insert similar words as sub-section (2) of section 5."

The Motion was, by leave, withdrawn.

The Hon'ble Sir Griffith Evans then moved by leave of the Council to insert the following as sub-section (2) to section 5:—

'(2) The Collector of the district shall cause such notification to be published by affixing a copy thereof in some conspicuous place in the office of such Collector, in every Civil Court, in every police-station, and in the office of every Sub-divisional Officer within the district, and in any other manner which the Local Government may from time to time direct.'

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. Buckland said:—"I beg leave to move a verbal amendment in sections 24 and 25. In those sections, and in the proviso which was added to section 25 on my motion, the word 'Collector' is used, but in other parts of the Bill the expression 'Collector of the District' is used. My motion therefore is, that in sections 24 and 25 and in the proviso to section 25 the words 'Collector of the District' be substituted for the word 'Collector' wherever it occurs."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. Ghose by leave of the Council withdrew the Motion, of which he had given notice, that section 25 of the Bill be omitted.

The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee moved that in line 6 of section 29, the words beginning with "and the amounts" to the end of the section be omitted, and that the following be substituted in their place:—

'and allot the cost of such survey in the following proportions:—

'One-fourth to be borne by the Government, five-sixteenths by the raiyats, including tenants, rent-free owners and occupiers, and seven-sixteenths by the zamindars; and the Local Government may specify the date from which the expenses aforesaid shall be recovered, and also the rate per acre based upon the aforesaid proportions to be paid by the said proprietors, landlords, tentants and rent-free owners and occupiers."

The Hon'ble Mr. Lyall rose to order. He said:—"I beg to ask the Hon'ble the President whether, under the provisions of section 19 of the Indian Councils Act, this Motion can be made 'without the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council?'"

The Hon'ble the President said:—"I think that the provision to which the Hon'ble Mr. Lyall has referred does not apply to the Motion before the Council, and that the amendment is one which it is in the power of the hon'ble member to propose."

The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee continued:—"It was made a matter of complaint when the Bill was referred to the Select Committee that an allotment of the costs was not specifically made. The Secretary of State has ordered that $\frac{1}{4}$th of the cost of the Bihar survey should be borne by the Government, $\frac{5}{16}$ths by the raiyats, and $\frac{7}{16}$ths by the zamindars. The object of this amendment is to state specifically the proportion of the cost which each party should bear, and in proposing this amendment I have followed the recommendations of the Secretary of State. It is a matter of the greatest importance that the question of the proportions in which the cost of the survey and settlement should be paid should not be left undefined. These are my reasons for bringing forward this amendment."

The Hon'ble Mr. Buckland said:—"The argument of the hon'ble member would have some validity if this were an Act applicable to the Bihar Survey and Settlement only and not to any other survey and settlement. The Secretary of State's Despatch, in which he laid down the proportions to be borne by the several parties concerned, is perfectly well known, but that Despatch relates only to the case of the Bihar Survey, and it is not likely that the injunctions contained in that Despatch will be disobeyed; therefore, in so far as this amendment refers to the Bihar Survey, we can give the hon'ble member an assurance that the apportionment laid down in the Secretary of State's Despatch will be observed. But it is quite impossible to say now that that proportion will be maintained in the case of every other survey, and it is unreasonable to make such a request. The effect of adopting this amendment would be that in every survey and settlement which may be hereafter made, the Government should undertake to pay a quarter of the bill. That would be quite unprecedented, and therefore the motion as it stands must, I think, be decisively opposed; as far as the Bihar Survey is concerned, it is not likely that the Secretary of State's orders will be overlooked."

The Hon'ble Mr. Ghose said:—"I think it will save time if I were to support my hon'ble friend's amendment. I think it only right that the proportions to be borne by the three parties should be embodied in the law, and that it should not be left entirely vague and indeterminate as to what proportion should be borne by the State, or whether any proportion should be borne by the Government, and what proportion should be borne by the raiyats and by the zamindars respectively. There is absolute unanimity of opinion on this subject in the reports received from all the public bodies who have been consulted on the subject of this Bill. I will read to the Council a short extract from the letter of the Bengal Chamber of Commerce on this point. They say:—

'The proportion in which survey expenditure incurred in any district is to be divided between the State, landlords and tenants is spoken of, but is not made clear. It is only provided that the distribution of the Cess shall be made under certain rules to be framed, as the Committee would recommend, by the Local Government, but the proportion is not stated. The Committee comment upon this omission. The proportion has been fixed in Bihar and has received the sanction of the Secretary of State, and they can perceive no objection to its being repeated in this section.'

"That is exactly what my friend's amendment proposes to do, instead of leaving it to Your Honour's successor on the recommendation of the Collector of the district, who may recommend that the whole be thrown on the zamindar, or if he is a pro zamindar, he may recommend that the whole expense be borne by the raiyat; or he may recommend that no portion of the expense should be borne by the Government. I submit that the recommendation of so high an authority as the Bengal Chamber of Commerce ought to be adopted."

The Hon'ble MR. BEIGHTON said:—"The hon'ble member has failed to notice that in the interests both of the raiyats and the zamindars it is better that the proportions in which the expense should be borne should not be stereotyped in the Bill. It often happens that a survey is necessary on behalf of one of the parties only. A survey, for instance, may be ordered by the Collector in a case where there is a combination among tenants not to pay rent. Is it fair in such a case that the landlord should be saddled with even one-fourth of the cost? Or take a case where a landlord has applied for a survey because the accounts of his property are in a state of confusion. Is it fair that in such cases as these one party or the other should pay the precise proportion of cost which has been decided in the case of the Bihar Survey? I think it would not be at all to the interest of either raiyats or zamindars that the proportions of cost to be borne by them respectively should be irrevocably fixed, whatever may be the circumstances of each case. Then again let me draw the attention of the Council to the case provided for in section 101 (1) (b) of the Bengal Tenancy Act where the Local Government may order a survey in order to avert a serious dispute between the tenants and their landlords. Does the hon'ble member seriously contend that in such a case as this, without any reference to the merits of the case or the party at default, the zamindar is to pay 7 annas, the tenant 5 and the Government 4 annas? One would imagine there was some particular virtue in the combination 7, 5 and 4 which the hon'ble member wishes to perpetuate. I cannot but hope that the Council will see that it is essential to leave it to the Government to decide under the circumstances of each particular case how in fairness to all parties the expense ought to be borne."

The Hon'ble SIR GRIFFITH EVANS said:—"Leave, I take it, has been obtained from the Government of India to bring in this Bill, because it affects to a certain extent the Bengal Tenancy Act, which was passed by the Governor General in Council. Section 114 of that Act provides that expenses incurred in carrying out the provisions of this Chapter in any local area, or such part of those expenses as the Local Government may direct, shall be defrayed by the landlords and tenants of land in that local area in such proportions as the Local Government, having regard to all the circumstances of each case, may determine.

"That is the rule laid down by the Bengal Tenancy Act, and it is matter for consideration whether, the Government of India not having given leave for a new departure of the kind here proposed, which would practically operate as a repeal of section 114 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, the result would not be to jeopardise the whole Bill altogether. I cannot say that the passing of this amendment is not within the competency of the Council, but I think it is hardly open to us at this stage, after it was submitted to the Government of India in a particular form, to make a new departure in the way now proposed."

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE in reply said:—"It would savour almost of impertinence if I were to argue a point of law with the learned Advocate-General and the learned Legal Remembrancer, but I beg leave respectfully to submit that we cannot enact any law calculated to supersede the provisions of the Bengal Tenancy Act. We have not the competency, even though we had the inclination, to do so. All that I contend for is that all cadastral surveys must be governed by the provisions of this Act; therefore the remarks of the learned Advocate-General, so far as I can see, are irrelevant to the issue before us. I say this with great deference, but I am bound to put this view before the Council."

The Hon'ble SIR GRIFFITH EVANS explained:—"The expenses which will be incurred under this Act are expenses for maintaining Records of Rights made by virtue of the Bengal Tenancy Act. We are dealing with the expenses of a Survey and Settlement of Rights which is to be done not under the authority of this Act, but under the authority of the Bengal Tenancy Act."

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said:—"I think the fact which has been mentioned by the Hon'ble MR. GHOSE, namely, the great unanimity evinced by the public bodies who have commented upon this provision of the Bill, only shows how their thoughts have been concentrated on the one leading case of North Bihar, while there are many other classes of cases which have to be borne in mind by those who have to work the Bill. The Hon'ble the Legal Remembrancer has pointed out one such class of cases to which the amendments both of the Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE and of the Hon'ble MR. GHOSE would not apply, viz., where the proprietor applies for a cadastral survey on account of the lawlessness and contumacy of the raiyats, or on account of the confusion into which a particular estate may have fallen. There is another class in which the Magistrate applies for a settlement-survey as the only means of settling long-pending and aggravated quarrels between proprietors and tenants. In such a case it would be quite unreasonable to apply the particular ratios applied by the Secretary of State in the case of the Bihar Survey. That case being the leading case has caught the public eye, and especially the eye of the Bengal Chamber of Commerce, which naturally has no experience of the many different kinds of surveys under the Tenancy Act. Where a settlement-survey is applied for on account of disputes between landlords and tenants, it would not be reasonable that the Government should pay any portion of the cost. A great amount of survey work is done under the Tenancy Act in Government estates and in Wards' estates; and the advantage derived from such surveys is so great that generally the whole of the cost is laid upon the estate, and nothing at all falls upon the raiyats. But if the raiyats are found to be extremely unreasonable; if they prolong the work and increase the expenditure by their recalcitrancy, the Government may well say to them, 'you must bear a portion of the cost.' These facts show the importance of adhering to the principle which the Hon'ble the Advocate-General has supported, that it is absolutely necessary to have a free hand in each particular case. The case of the North Bihar Survey would by no means serve as a precedent in any other classes of cases. I am hopeful that after hearing this explanation the hon'ble members will be content to withdraw their amendments, because it will be seen that they are quite impracticable, and would produce results which are not anticipated by themselves."

The Motion was put and negatived.

The Hon'ble MR. GHOSE, by leave of the Council, withdrew the Motion of which he had given notice, that in section 29, the words within brackets from "in such proportion" to "determine" be omitted, and that the following words be substituted:—

'In the proportion of 7 annas by the proprietors and landlords, and 5 annas by the tenants.'

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE moved that the following proviso be added to section 29:—

'Provided that pending the final determination of the total expenses which have been incurred in making a survey, the accounts shall be published in the local gazette, and the parties liable to contribute towards the expenses shall be allowed the opportunity of submitting their representations in connection therewith.'

He said:—"This amendment is somewhat loosely worded, but if the principle is accepted, I should be happy to re-draft it with the assistance of the Council. I maintain that those who contribute towards the cost of the survey have a right to know how their money is spent; and, moreover, I submit that the publication of the accounts will go far to ensure economy. The right which my amendment seeks to confer upon those who contribute towards the cost of the survey will go still further to promote the same result. I am informed that, in connection with the cadastral survey carried on in the estates of the Maharaja of Tippera, there was a good deal of extravagance. I have heard it stated that boundary stones to demarcate the villages which could be had in the bazar for nine annas a piece were charged for at the rate of nine rupees a piece. I have heard that from a distinguished pleader from Tippera; but, however that may be, I submit that the accounts should be published in order that those who contribute towards the cost of the survey may have an opportunity of submitting any representations they think fit in connection with the matter."

The Hon'ble MR. BUCKLAND said:—"I regret that I must disappoint the hon'ble member again. It is really impossible to grasp what this demand really amounts to. It is very difficult to carry out these operations, and to bring them to a conclusion. The hon'ble member may rest assured that all that is necessary is done to ensure economy, but it will be a tremendous addition to our labours if it is necessary to publish the bill of charges, and to allow every raiyat to come forward and submit his representations in a formal manner. If we allowed anything of this sort to be done, it would perhaps double and treble the amount of work necessary to carry out these very large survey and settlement operations. I can see no harm—in fact we do it now—in publishing in the Calcutta Gazette the Government Resolution regarding the survey which will sufficiently inform the public, and which makes known generally what have been the total charges incurred, and what is the rate of cost per acre; and the expense devolving upon any raiyat can be calculated therefrom. Nothing of real importance is held back, and it is pretty well known beforehand that the expense ought not to amount to more than an average of 8 annas per acre divided among all the parties. We do all we can to keep down the expense, and no good would be gained by allowing the raiyats to contest every small point. Nothing will involve more trouble on all parties concerned than to have every small item of expense disputed, and to have elaborate arguments and discussions. I regard this proposal as altogether unnecessary, and I think my hon'ble friend may trust us to keep down charges as low as possible. I must therefore oppose the amendment."

The Hon'ble MAULVI MUHAMMAD YUSUF, KHAN BAHADUR, said:—"I consider this amendment to be a very reasonable one. It deals with two questions—first, the publication of the accounts in the Calcutta Gazette, and secondly, the opportunity to submit representations. The two points stand on different bases. As regards the first point, I do not see any objection to the amendment. As regards the second point, there might be some objections to allow thousands of persons, whether zamindars or raiyats, to make representations; but when we are going to tax their pockets, then the objection to give them an opportunity to submit their representations does not seem to be very formidable."

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said:—"I think this is an amendment which should not be passed by the Council. It proposes to put the Government in a position which they ought not to be asked to occupy. It will create a new procedure contrary to what exists in similar cases. For instance we carry on embankment work under the Embankment Act, and in many cases we charge proprietors of estates protected by such embankments with the exact cost spent for their maintenance from year to year. Nobody has ever asked that the accounts should be furnished in detail, nor have I ever heard any suggestion that the expenses have been overcharged, or that the charges have been unduly distributed. Moreover, the amendment as it has been drafted will not meet the hon'ble member's wishes, unless the accounts are published in great detail. We do publish the accounts in some detail, and in the next Calcutta Gazette the hon'ble member will see the accounts of the survey and settlement work carried on last year shew with considerable fullness, and under different heads. That will give as much information as the statistician requires to understand the nature and cost of the work, and to form a judgment whether the operations have been carried out with an eye to economy or with extravagance. With regard to the instance of excessive charge, which the hon'ble member has given, I am sure that he has stated it as he has heard it from the Pleader of Tippera to whom he referred; but no information has reached me on the subject; and while it is easy to make such assertions, it is impossible to refute them at a moment's notice and without further enquiry. But all that I have heard justifies me in saying that it is presumable that no such extravagance has taken place. It is true that the cost of the survey in Tippera has been more expensive than the average, but there are local causes, such as complicated tenures and conflicting interests, which have made that inevitable. I think the Council will be justified in trusting the Government to take care that economy is observed in carrying out surveys and settlements. We have published our estimate, which is that we desire to work at the average cost of 8 annas per acre. To a certain extent my personal credit is pledged to carry that estimate out, and every nerve of the Government is strained to arrive at that result, and every possible endeavour will be made to make the work of the department economical. I therefore am obliged to say on the part of the Government that I cannot advise the Council to accept this amendment."

The Motion was put and negatived.

The Hon'ble MR. BUCKLAND moved that in section 30 the words "and landlords' be omitted. He said:—

"This is a verbal amendment, the words 'and landlords' having crept in by mistake. We only want to provide that proprietors of estates should pay their share of the expense at the same time as they pay their revenue. The term 'landlords' covers many other persons besides proprietors, and includes raiyats. I therefore propose to strike out the words 'and landlords.'

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE moved that in section 30 for the words "together with such instalment of land revenue as the Local Government may direct" the words "to the Collector or such other officer as the Local Government may direct" be substituted. He said:—

"Here the cost of the survey is treated as part and parcel of the land revenue. If a Collector is inclined not to accept the land revenue unless the cost of the survey has been paid, the estate may be sold up. This seems unnecessary, having regard to the fact that arrears of payment under this Act can be recovered as a public demand. My amendment seeks to rectify this defect."

The Hon'ble MR. BUCKLAND said:—"I think the hon'ble member has gone quite out of his way to pick a hole in this section. He is afraid that an amount due from a proprietor under this Act will be regarded as part and parcel of the land revenue, but the very words which have been used show that it is distinct from land revenue. The section says that the amount shall be paid together with such instalment of land revenue, so that it is stated as distinctly as possible that it is another thing from an instalment of land revenue. The object of the section is that, whereas proprietors have to pay their land revenue, it should be open to the Government to say that at such kist day as the Government may think fit the amount of the survey settlement charges due from the proprietors shall be paid at the same time as an instalment of land revenue, and I think there is no hardship in that. It is a very ordinary sort of provision to make: and we particularly go on in the same section to say that arrears of the survey settlement charges shall be recoverable under the certificate procedure, so that there will be no question of selling up an estate for default in payment of these charges. I think the distinction is as clear as possible, and that the amendment is unnecessary."

The Hon'ble MR. GHOSE said:—"I am not quite convinced that the danger which is apprehended by the hon'ble mover of the amendment is so entirely without foundation as the hon'ble member in charge of the Bill seems to think. No doubt it is expressly laid down in section 30 that arrears of payment under this section shall be recovered under the certificate procedure, but for my part I fail to see the necessity of coupling the payment of this debt with the payment of any particular kist of land revenue. The association of a particular kist of land revenue with any other debt may imply that the non-payment of the one will involve the non-receipt of the other, and I should not be surprised if the Collector were to put that interpretation upon it, and then by the operation of the Sunset Law the result apprehended by my hon'ble friend will take place. For my part I have not yet been able to understand, nor has the hon'ble member in charge of the Bill attempted to tell us, what necessity there is for associating the payment of arrears recoverable under the certificate procedure with the payment of land revenue. Why should not the arrears be recoverable, like any other public demand, wholly apart from a kist of land revenue? Therefore, there may be the danger of the Collector under this section declining to receive a kist of land revenue unless at the same time the arrears due under this Act are paid."

The Hon'ble Mr. Buckland said:—"With Your Honour's permission I would explain that the simple object is to provide that the amounts due under this Act shall be paid at the same time as the land revenue. It would be for the convenience of all parties that, when the land revenue is being paid in, the proprietors should at the same time pay in these amounts."

The Hon'ble Mr. Lyall said:—"I desire to add one word as to the reason why I agreed to this section. Without it there is nothing in this Bill or in the Tenancy Act that makes the payment by a proprietor due. Without fixing some date on which the payment is due, it cannot be recoverable as a public demand. All that I hold to be intended by this section is to fix the date when the payment becomes due; and it was considered that it would be convenient to the proprietor to pay it at the same time as an instalment of revenue. No Collector can refuse to receive land revenue, provided it is paid before sunset of the last day of payment. He cannot refuse to receive it from anybody, whether connected with the estate or otherwise; nor can be refuse any payment, however small in amount, provided it is offered before the latest time of payment. Therefore, the fear which has been expressed by the hon'ble mover of the amendment that the Collector might refuse payment is not a well-grounded one."

The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee said:—"After the discussion which has taken place as to the purport of the section, I beg leave to withdraw my amendment."

The Hon'ble the President said—"I think the hon'ble member is wise in wishing to withdraw this amendment, because, if there was any danger of misconstruction of the meaning and intention of the section, this discussion will clear it away. Putting it briefly, the real object is to prevent the zamindar from being called upon to pay his share of the cost, except at a time when he has to pay an instalment of land revenue. It is entirely for the convenience of the landlords that the section has been framed."

The Motion was, 'by leave' withdrawn.

The Hon'ble Mr. Buckland moved that in section 31 the word "tender" be substituted for the word "receipt." He said—

"This is a mere verbal amendment. The section provides that the amount due from a tenant, &c., shall be paid by him on 'receipt' of the extract from the Record of Rights. Suppose that he will not receive the extract. We propose that he shall be liable to pay the amount due from him, when the extract from the khatian is 'tendered' to him. You may take an extract to the raiyat, but you cannot make him receive it; therefore I propose to substitute the word 'tender' for the word 'receipt.'

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE moved that in line 4 of section 34 the words "two months" be substituted for "one month."

The Hon'ble MR. BUCKLAND said:—"The section of the Registration Act upon which this section of the Bill is based is section 72. I do not know whether the hon'ble member has referred to that section, but there he will find that an appeal made from a Sub-Registrar's decision to the Registrar to whom he is subordinate, must be made within thirty days from the date of the order of the subordinate officer, and we have followed that principle. If thirty days have been found sufficient in the Registration Act of 1877, we anticipate that it will be found quite sufficient under this Bill, and I see no reason for extending the time. In a matter of this sort, the best thing is to adopt the precedent of the existing law, of which we are following the procedure as far as we can."

The Motion was put and negatived.

The Hon'ble MR BUCKLAND said:—"With Your Honour's permission I will ask the Council to accept an amendment of which I have not been able to give notice. I am indebted to my friend the hon'ble member, the Collector of Calcutta, for a suggestion which may be of very considerable importance in the working of the Bill. It is a little section which is taken from section 87 of the Land Registration Act. It will empower the Collector, in cases where he is overwhelmed with appeals under this Act, to appoint an officer who will exercise what is called special appellate powers. Particularly at first there may be a large number of petty appeals, and it may be very undesirable that the time of hard-worked Collectors should be taken up with such cases. He may have an experienced Joint-Magistrate or Deputy Magistrate who could dispose of such appeals under general instructions from the Collector. For these reasons, I move that the following section be inserted after section 34:—

'The Local Government may from time to time vest any officer other than the Collector of the district with special appellate powers under this Act; and every Officer so vested shall be competent to hear and decide any appeal which the Collector of the district is competent to hear and decide under this Act.'

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE moved that in clause (2) of section 35, "section 190" be substituted for "section 192."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. BUCKLAND moved that the Bill, as settled in Council, be now passed. He said—

"I do not propose to detain the Council at any length. I think we may consider ourselves fortunate that we have got through this debate in four hours. I hope that the Bill will now receive the sanction of the Government of India, and that the Act will be launched under Your Honour's auspices, assume shape and be brought into working order. It is impossible to predict with any certainty what will be the result of the working of this Act, but what we claim to have done is that we have made this effort to redeem the pledge given by the Government that an Act will be passed for the maintenance of a Record of Rights; and we have proceeded on the lines which Your Honour intimated in a general way, so long ago as June 1892, should be followed, namely, that the measure should take the shape of an amplification of Registration Offices. It now remains for the people to co-operate with us, and to come forward and register their transfers, and to accumulate for themselves a body of evidence of their transfers and successions that shall stand them in good stead in the day of litigation. We hope that this measure, which will be ancillary of course to the more important measure of the Tenancy Act, and particularly Chapter X of that Act, will conduce to the peace and order of any district or part of a district to which it is applied, and that it will enhance the value of landed property and conduce to the peace and prosperity of the peasantry of Bihar and other parts of the country to which it may be applied. I have again to thank my hon'ble colleagues in the Select Committee; I have also to thank the several Public Associations which have sent us valuable reports upon the subject of this Bill, and I have to thank the Council as a whole for the patient hearing which they have accorded me."

The Hon'ble MAULVI MUHAMMAD YUSUF, KHAN BAHADUR, said:—"I will not, at this late hour, detain the Council with any lengthy observations regarding the merits of the Bill as it now stands. I may, however, be allowed to say in connection with the Bill that the attitude of the President towards the non-official members of the Council has been happily one of encouragement and conciliation; and perfect freedom of thought and full liberty of speech have always been conceded to us, although some portions of the debate were well calculated to put patience and temper to severe test. For this we are sincerely thankful to the Government. All questions that have come up for debate and decision have been decided after due deliberation and full and free discussion on their own merits, according to the true convictions and opinions of the members, and the Government has never had recourse to official majority in connection with any question relating to the Bill. This is highly encouraging, and leaves nothing to be desired. Although I would have been glad if many more of the suggestions and amendments which we proposed had been accepted and carried out, still I cannot shut my eyes to the fact that Government has conceded a great deal, and has never refused to adopt such of our suggestions as were deemed by it reasonable and fit to be accepted. The Bill has been conceived and prepared with the honest belief that it would promote the good of the people. Altogether the Bill as it now stands assumes a shape so that it is least open to adverse and hostile criticism: the most objectionable parts have been purged away, and it is impossible to expect that it should assume a more satisfactory appearance. Under these circumstances, I vote that the Bill should be passed into law."

THE CALCUTTA PORT ACT, 1890, AMENDMENT BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. RISLEY presented the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to further amend the Calcutta Port Act, 1890.

The Hon'ble MR. RISLEY also applied to the President to suspend the Rules of Business.

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT having declared the Rules suspended—

The Hon'ble MR. RISLEY moved that the Report of the Select Committee be taken into consideration in order to the settlement of the clauses of the Bill. He said:—

"In dealing with this Bill I am fortunate in having very little to say. The only section in which any substantial alteration has been made by the Select Committee is section 15, which, as it originally stood, empowered the Port Commissioners to declare any of their warehouses to be bonded warehouses. It was suggested in Select Committee that, as the Sea Customs Act of 1878 already conferred the power of converting private licensed warehouses into bonded warehouses, the amendment proposed by the Bill, as it was introduced, would have the effect of creating what may be described as a double procedure for doing practically the same thing, and for that reason it was considered better to proceed upon existing lines for converting the warehouses of the Port Commissioners into bonded warehouses within the meaning of the Sea Customs Act, instead of proceeding by independent legislation to empower the Port Commissioners to do what is required. Having regard to the important interests at stake and the somewhat intricate legal questions involved, the Port Commissioners felt that this was a point which required to be determined with the greatest care, and accordingly, with the concurrence of the Select Committee, the sections as redrafted by them were referred to the Hon'ble the Advocate-General, and a slight modification was introduced by him. The form the sections now take is that of empowering warehouses belonging to the Port Commissioners to be licensed under section 16 of the Sea Customs Act; they would then become bonded warehouses, the provisions of that Act would apply to them, and the chief Customs authority would have full executive powers in the matter. When the question was referred to the Hon'ble the Advocate-General, he held that in order to do that it would be necessary to declare all the warehouses of the Port Commissioners to be private warehouses within the meaning of the Sea Customs Act, and capable of being licensed as bonded warehouses. He also advised that, as the Bill in the form in which it was amended would have the effect, I can hardly say of altering, but at any rate of touching, the Sea Customs Act, it would be necessary to obtain the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council; this has, therefore, been done, and the necessary sanction has been received. This is really the only substantial alteration which has been made by the Select Committee, the other alterations being merely formal and subsidiary to this one. I have omitted to explain that the section dealing with warrants has been modified to some extent. As it at first stood it was necessary, as we were dealing with an independent enactment, to state the section to which warrants should conform, and to give a statutory form of warrant; but now, having brought all these arrangements within the purview of the Sea Customs Act, we say:—'The warrants delivered under section 96 of the Sea Customs Act shall in the case of the said warehouses be signed by the Commissioners or some person duly authorized by them.'"

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. RISLEY also moved that the clauses of the Bill be considered in the form recommended by the Select Committee.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE moved that in section 4, sub-section (2), the words "passengers or" be omitted. He said:—

"Before making any remarks upon this section, I wish it to be understood that I have no desire to stand in the way of the passing of this Bill, which I understand has been introduced at the instance of the Mercantile Community which is so worthily represented in this Council by my hon'ble friend to my left (the Hon'ble Mr. Smyth). I think it is no part of the duty of a Port Trust to make arrangements for the conveyance of passengers. They deal with goods which arrive at, and are exported from, this Port. But apart from this question of principle, I have to observe that if the Bill is to be passed in the form and shape in which it has been laid before us, it will seriously interfere with the operations of the Calcutta Tramways Company, and will entail heavy loss to the Corporation of Calcutta. The Council will remember that last year the Corporation entered into a contract with the Tramways Company which was legalised by this Council. Under the terms of that contract the Company pay a mileage rate to the extent of several thousands of rupees per annum to the Corporation, and they further keep in order the portions of the roads over which the tramway lines are laid. If this section is passed into law, and if the Port Commissioners take advantage of this provision and run tramcars for passengers from Chitpore to Kidderpore, the Tramways Company will have to cease running their cars along that part of their line, which will not only mean loss to the Corporation, but serious inconvenience to the public.

"In this connection may I be permitted to inquire of the hon'ble member in charge of the Bill as to what has become of the little project of law proposed by the Calcutta Corporation to enable them to recover rates upon huts situated on lands belonging to the Port Commissioners? I am told that the Corporation lose about Rs. 20,000 a year for want of such a necessary provision in the law. It is a very urgent matter, and I appeal to the hon'ble member to expedite the settlement of the question, which the longer it is delayed the heavier is the loss which the Corporation of Calcutta have to sustain."

The Hon'ble Mr. Risley said:—"I think it will be convenient if I deal first with the matter which the hon'ble member has mentioned last, namely, the question of the assessment of buildings within the Port Commissioners' lands for the purposes of the Calcutta Corporation. I understand that there is a special arrangement for assessing the property of the Port Commissioners by a percentage on the money which was spent on the property, but that does not provide for the assessment in the ordinary way of buildings belonging to persons other than the Port Commissioners, but which stand on their property. There is no question whatever as to the justice of the claim which the Corporation has put forward. It has been submitted to this Government and considered, and a proposal to deal with it by an amendment of the Calcutta Port Act has been submitted to the Government of India. But I must explain that the proposal to deal with the Calcutta Port Act in the way in which it is dealt with in the Bill before the Council dates some time back. The question to which my hon'ble friend refers came in subsequently, and the original proposal having already been reported to the Secretary of State, it was held that a further report would be necessary in order to the introduction of the proposed amendment. In other words, it will not be open to us, under the rules relating to the previous sanction of the Government of India, to bring that question into the Bill now before the Council. It has been reported in the regular course of business, and I believe there is very little question as to the necessary sanction being received, and as soon as sanction is received, the matter will be dealt with in the ordinary way.

"As regards the motion to omit the words 'passengers or' in sub-section (2) of section 4 of the Bill, which amends section 35, sub-section (2), of the Port Act, I must express my extreme regret in adding one more to the series of instances in which the hon'ble member's proposals have been declined during to-day's debate. I see no way of getting over the matter, except that of leaving the thing as it stands; there does not appear to be any means of compromise in the matter. At the same time I think the apprehension which the hon'ble member has expressed, that the Port Commissioners' line will compete with the existing Chitpur Tramway line, in which the Municipal Commissioners are interested, is altogether groundless. What the Mercantile Community wish the Port Commissioners to do—though the Port Commissioners are not specially anxious to do it—is that they should carry passengers merely between the jetties and the docks. Obviously when a merchant's clerk or other employé has to go to the docks to look after consignments of merchandise, it is extremely inconvenient that he should not be able to make use of the Port Commissioners' tramway for the purpose, but I apprehend there is no question whatever of the Port Commissioners carrying general passengers and taking customers away from the Calcutta tramway. In the first place, the provision in the Bill which will authorise the carrying of passengers will not be made use of on the whole of the line connecting Chitpur and Khidderpore, but only on the portion between the jetties and the docks. The Port Commissioners' so-called tramway, which is really a railway, used hitherto solely for carrying goods, runs inside the Port Commissioners' premises, and would, I imagine, offer no attractions to the ordinary passenger. There will, I understand, be no published time-table and no regular passenger trains. The passengers carried will consist of the special class of clerks, sarcars, stevedores, ships' coolies, and others having business at the docks, and I do not think that such small traffic can possibly interfere with the interests of the Calcutta Tramways Company. I may further state that if the Municipal Commissioners will be satisfied with an executive pledge to the effect that the permission to carry passengers will not be used so as to draw business away from the Calcutta Tramway, the Port Commissioners are willing to give such a pledge. Hereafter, when further occasion arises for revising the Port Act in connection with the question of assessment, which has been mentioned, the status of the Port Commissioners' railway will doubtless come under discussion, and full expression will be given to the views of all the parties concerned—the Mercantile Community, the Municipal Commissioners, and the Port Commissioners."

The Hon'ble Mr. Ghose said:—"I beg to congratulate the hon'ble member on the very satisfactory statement which he has made, and I think my hon'ble friend the mover of the amendment must be perfectly satisfied with that statement, namely, that steps have been already taken in order to give effect to the proper and just claims of the Corporation, which my hon'ble friend represents here, regarding the assessment of certain property within the Port Commissioners' premises. With regard to the other matter which forms the subject of his amendment regarding the carrying of passengers by the Port Commissioners, it seems to me that after the explanation which has been given, that they will have no fixed time table, and will carry only certain clerks and sarcars and other people connected with the merchandise of the town; that they will have in fact no regular passenger service, I think my hon'ble friend should also be satisfied, and should withdraw his amendment.

"Before resuming my seat I desire to take this opportunity, as this will probably be the last occasion on which I shall have the honour of addressing the Council, of expressing my sense of grateful appreciation of the patient and indulgent hearing which has always been accorded to me, and the kindness and courtesy which I have invariably experienced at the hands of every hon'ble member of the Council. And I trust Sir, that although we have frequently found ourselves in opposition to the views of the majority of hon'ble members, we have never lost sight of the spirit of compromise which ought to animate our debates, and that we have never been wanting in due and proper respect for the opinions of those from whom we have for the time being been compelled to dissent."

The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee in reply said:—"After the explanation which has been given by the hon'ble member in charge of the Bill, and the assurance given by him that it is not in contemplation to use the Port Commissioners' Railway for the purposes of passenger traffic, but only for the convenience of those who are connected with the mercantile business of this Port, I beg leave to withdraw my amendment."

The Motion was, by leave, withdrawn.

The Hon'ble Mr. Risley moved that the Bill, as settled in Council, be passed.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

THE BENGAL SANITARY DRAINAGE BILL.

The Hon'ble Mr. Lyall moved that the Bill to facilitate the construction of drainage works for improving the sanitary condition of local areas be referred back to the Select Committee. He said:—

"At this late stage I do not propose to trouble the Council with more than a very few words. The Council will remember that at the end of February last the Select Committee who sat on this Bill presented a Report, and that in the last paragraph of their Report they recommended that the Bill as amended by them should be republished. In accordance with that recommendation the Bill has been republished; and in doing so the Government issued a Circular to all local authorities drawing their attention to the provisions of the amended Bill, and calling for an expression of their opinion. In accordance with that Circular a great number of replies have been received, some of which are very much to the point, and criticise the Bill on points which I think require more consideration than can be given at a sitting of the full Council. There are two points in particular on which new light has been thrown. These are first, the question of dealing with projects falling partly within the limits of one or more municipality. The other point is the manner in which the cost of the work carried out under the Act should be realised. Those two points in themselves are sufficiently important to justify my placing on the agenda the motion standing in my name."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. Lyall also moved that the Hon'ble Mr. Risley be appointed to the Select Committee in the place of the Hon'ble Mr. Collier.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

ADJOURNMENT OF THE COUNCIL.

The Hon'ble the President said:—"This brings us to the end of the Cold-weather Session of 1894-95, and when we meet in July and August next, the first business of the Council will be to receive from the Select Committee the Report on the Drainage Bill; and I trust that after such amendments as may seem necessary to be made, the Bill will be passed into law. There is a possibility of there being another Bill laid before the Council, namely, a Bill to amend the Partition Law, which has been in preparation for some time and has been sent to the Government of India, and if it be received back in time, it may perhaps be passed in the Summer Session, otherwise it will have to be delayed. I do not think there is any other legal work of importance with which I shall have to trouble the Council.

"I cannot close this Session without saying one word, with reference to what fell from the Hon'ble Mr. Ghose, to express how heartily I appreciate the spirit in which he and his confrères have joined our meetings, and how cordially I agree with what he has said, that the spirit of compromise and the endeavour to assist the Government by careful, honest and zealous consideration of the measures laid before them, has been the leading note of the members of this Council. I am quite satisfied in my own mind that the extension of the Council has materially added to its strength, to its popularity, and to its power of doing good for the country. Of the hon'ble members present there are, I think, three whose term of office will come to an end before we meet next time, and who may be re-elected or who may not. If they are re-elected, we shall welcome them back; if not, we hope we shall find in their successors colleagues who are as generous and as zealous as they have been."

The Council adjourned sine die.

It has done much good to the standing crops, and has facilitated ploughing and early sowings. More rain is required in some few districts. Indigo and young sugarcane are doing well. The harvesting of spring rice in Orissa is nearly over. The mahua harvest in Chota Nagpur has yielded a good outturn. The mango crop in Bihar is reported good, but in Patna it has been somewhat damaged by rain and hail. Cattle-disease is prevalent in the town and suburb of Dinajpur. The fodder-supply in Hazaribagh has improved by the late rain. The price of common rice continues generally stationary.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h. and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATURDAY, THE 27TH OF APRIL 1895.

DURING the previous week the pressure distribution was very uniform owing to the unusually high readings in Bengal and the north of the Bay. Calm weather was therefore general, and the local thunderstorms, which were of daily occurrence, kept the air cool over the whole province except at times in East and North Bengal.

The changes which have been going on steadily during the week under review have produced a complete reversal of these conditions. Pressure has been falling almost daily; but though the changes have not been large at any of the Bengal stations except in East Bengal, over the Bay a depression developed, and moving towards the north-east caused important changes in the parts directly affected as well as over the rest of Bengal. The low temperatures, which have been prevalent for some time, have continued during the greater part of the week, but especially in the south-western districts, viz., South-West Bengal, Chota Nagpur, and Orissa.

While pressure remained high in Bengal and the north of the Bay, slow downward changes led to the formation of a shallow low-pressure area in the south or south-west of the Bay. As the depression was at first very shallow and diffused, there was little likelihood of its giving rise to disturbed weather. But on Monday, the 22nd, wind velocity increased in the south of Ceylon, and heavy rain was reported from Galle. The squally weather, which was then probably prevalent over the extreme south of the Bay, extended northwards, and on the 23rd was beginning to be felt in Burmah. The sea became rough at Diamond Island and on the Orissa coast, while a regular cyclonic circulation of winds prevailed over the Bay, being shown by the indraught across the coast at nearly all stations. On Thursday, the 25th, the disturbance was more concentrated, and had evidently begun to move in a north-easterly direction. There was a brisk fall of pressure in Bengal and over the north of the Bay, and heavy rain had begun at Diamond Island. During the following day the movement of the depression was very rapid, and the centre crossed the coast not far from Akyab, where a gale blew for several hours on the night of the 25th. The fall of pressure was very rapid near the centre, and was shown by the changes both at Akyab and Chittagong. The fall at Chittagong on the 26th was a quarter of an inch, at Narayanganj ·183 inch, and though the fall at Akyab was a fifth of an inch, the rapid rise which follows the passing of the storm centre had been felt there for some hours.

Squally weather extended over the north of the Bay and Lower Bengal, but owing to the easterly motion of the disturbance, these squalls were of very short duration. The rain squalls were felt while the winds were easterly, and the north-westerly dry winds which soon followed gave fine weather over the north-west of the Bay and the greater part of Bengal, even while the storm was raging in the north-east angle of the Bay. The disturbance broke up very quickly after the centre crossed the coast, and numerous thunderstorms occurred in the eastern districts, attended by heavy rain. The pressure distribution which remained after the depression disappeared was the reverse of what obtained in the early part of the week. While there was a rapid rise in East Bengal, there was a brisk fall in the western districts, and the gradient became very steep towards a shallow depression over the south of Bihar and the adjacent part of Chota Nagpur. Defect then varied from ·12 inch in the south-east to ·18 inch at Patna. The rainfall continued in the extreme east of the province, but in other parts the distribution of pressure caused a strong inrush of westerly winds attended by a rapid increase of temperature. In Chota Nagpur these winds were dry, but in South-West Bengal the winds being from the Bay, the air became more moist.

Pressure.—As stated above, a reversal of the pressure arrangement has been in progress during the week. As readings were high at the beginning and low towards the end, the means differ very little from the normal. They are slightly in excess except in East Bengal, where the depression caused a small defect.

Temperature—Has remained very low in Orissa, Chota Nagpur, and South-West Bengal, and relatively low in the other districts except East Bengal, where there is a mean excess of nearly 1°. The defect for Chota Nagpur is 7·5°, South-West Bengal 4·4°, Orissa 4·2°, Bihar 2·7°, and North Bengal 1·4°.

The average temperatures registered during the week at nine typical stations and their variations from the normal are shown in the following table:—

Rainfall.—Thunderstorms were fairly numerous during the week, especially in the early part. The heaviest showers occurred in Chota Nagpur and North Bengal, the former of which received much more than is usual at this season of the year. In the latter the fall was in excess of the normal by about a quarter of an inch. In Bihar rather more than the normal amount fell. Of the other three districts, East Bengal alone was to any great extent below the average. The fall there was ·60 inch as compared with the normal fall of 1·45 inches :—

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the six meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 27th of April 1895 :—

A Dictionary of the Economic Products of India.

BY DR. GEO. WATT, C.I.E.,

Reporter on Economic Products.

Published under the authority of the Government of India in the Revenue and Agricultural Department.

The first five volumes and Vol. VI, Parts I, II, III & IV of the Dictionary are now ready at the Office of Superintendent of Government Printing, No. 8, Hastings Street, Calcutta, and will be supplied to non-subscribers on receipt of the price for the complete set, which is Rs. 45 in India, and 3 guineas in England (exclusive of the Index, for which a separate charge will be made): packing and postage, in India, 8 annas per volume; for England, Rs. 2-6 per volume. For copies bound in half calf or half morocco, Rs. 6 and 8 shillings, respectively, will be charged extra for the whole set.

The Dictionary is intended to deal with the products of India—animal, vegetable, and mineral; each product being treated after a uniform plan, the paragraphs of which give the scientific, vernacular, and European names; habitat or source; history; properties and uses (both chemical and industrial); trade statistics; markets, &c. The work is arranged alphabetically according to scientific nomenclature, but commercial and important vernacular names are also given as cross references, so that little difficulty need be experienced in finding the account of a product even when its scientific name is unknown to the reader.

An important feature of the Dictionary consists in the fact that derived information is in every instance given under quotation marks, and with a reference to the original publication. Numerous contributors have, however, furnished the results of new discoveries and confirmed the vernacular names, so that the Dictionary is not only a complete compilation of published information, but has been brought abreast of the most recent inventions and discoveries.

Volume I contains the letters A and B, and consists of 559 royal octavo pages; Vol. II embraces the letter C in 689 pages; Vol. III contains the letters D, E, F and half of G. Vol. IV latter half of G to middle of L; and Vol. V contains the latter half of L to end of O; Vol. VI, (which will consist of four parts), Part I, contains letters P to R. The whole work will, it is expected, be completed in nine volumes (including Parts II to IV of Vol. VI) during the current year; but a tenth volume may also be issued, consisting of an Index to all the vernacular and other names contained in the Dictionary. The Index will practically be a Glossary of the vernacular and European names of the plants, animals and minerals of India, and as such will be a work of reference, which, it is hoped, may prove of considerable value.

RESOLUTION ON THE CHEMICAL EXAMINER'S REPORT FOR 1894.

MUNICIPAL DEPARTMENT,—MEDICAL.

Darjeeling, the 7th May 1895.

READ—

A letter from the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals, Bengal, No. 2198, dated the 9th March 1895, forwarding the report of the Chemical Examiner to Government for the year 1894.

Read also—

The report for 1893 and the Resolution recorded on it.

The number of analyses performed during the year was 2,940 against 3,462 in 1893 and 3,403 in 1892. There was a decrease of 522 cases in the number of analyses performed during the year as compared with 1893, and of 463 cases as compared with 1892. The decrease occurred chiefly in substances other than animal tissue suspected to be or to contain poison, including cattle-poison, in articles tested for blood stains, and in petroleum and inflammable oils. In addition to his analytical work, the Chemical Examiner had to report on nine technical questions and eleven applications for leave to file specifications for patent processes.

2. The total number of medico-legal cases referred to the Chemical Examiner during the year was 787, the number of articles sent for examination in connection with them being 1,451 or 170 less than in the previous year. The decrease was mainly in substances tested for poison and articles tested for blood stains. Two hundred and ninety human viscera were examined for poison against two hundred and sixty-nine in the previous year, and in 45·86 per cent. of these cases poison was found against 45·95 in 1893 and 45·65 in 1892. Opium was, as usual, the most common form of poison, and was found in 21·55 per cent. of the cases, against 26·10 in the year before. The other principal poisons detected were arsenic, morphia and aconite. In 157 out of 290 human viscera, and in 312 other cases of suspected substances out of 758 sent up for analysis, no poison was found. The number of suspected cattle-poisoning cases in which animal viscera were sent up for examination was 154, the same number as in the previous year, and in these arsenic was discovered in 74·67 per cent. against 74·02 in 1893.

3. The number of articles tested for purity and quality was 1,489 against 1,841 in the previous year. The decrease was mainly under the head of petroleum, alcoholic spirit, and explosives sent for analysis. In consequence of the orders issued in 1894, under which Chairmen of Municipalities and District Officers have been authorised to send water for analysis to Mr. Norman Rudolf, who has established a Chemical Laboratory at Siwan in the district of Saran, the Chemical Examiner has been relieved of a good deal of his work in this direction. Before these orders were received, however, 197 samples of potable water had been examined. Of these 15 were sent up by municipalities, 105 were from Jails, and 77 from other Departments.

4. The results of the analysis of 192 samples of potable water examined during the year are set forth in Appendix A to the Chemical Examiner's report. The samples are arranged in the following classes:—

Class.	Number of samples.
Good	28
Fair	83
Indifferent	34
Bad	47

In commenting on this classification the Chemical Examiner observes that hardly any of the waters are up to the European standard of purity, ammonia, both free and albuminoid, and nitrogen being present in larger quantities than would be regarded by sanitary authorities in Europe as admissible in good drinking water. The Lieutenant-Governor has found a difficulty in making out what relation the figures in the different columns of the statement bear to the conclusions arrived at regarding the comparative purity of the different classes of water. It is understood, however, from an unofficial reference to Dr. Evans, that the classification adopted by him is based upon the practice of English analytical chemists, who look to the probable combined effect of all the component elements of water, and reject as misleading what is known as Wigner's system, which assigns a numerical value to the various chemical factors in accordance with an arbitrary scale of marks.

5. Important researches were made by the Chemical Examiner during the year into the phsiological properties of hemp drugs, samples of which were sent to him for examination by the Hemp Drugs Commission, and into the effect of different modes of packing ganja upon the quality of the drug. The latter inquiry was undertaken at the instance of the Board of Revenue, who supplied the samples for analysis, and on the results obtained the Chemical Examiner has based the opinion that although a considerable chemical change takes place in ganja when kept, this change is not influenced by the mode of packing adopted.

The acknowledgments of the Lieutenant-Governor are due to Dr. Evans for his interesting report and for the good work done by him during the year. His Honour notices with satisfaction the remarks of commendation passed by Dr. Evans on the laboratory staff. During the year the Assistant Chemical Examiner, Rai Tara Prasanna Rai Bahadur, retired from the service, after spending 23 years in the Chemical Department. The Lieutenant-Governor takes this opportunity of placing on record his sense of the valuable services rendered to Government by this officer.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

H. H. RISLEY,

Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

SALE OF QUININE IN PICE PACKETS IN BENGAL.

MUNICIPAL DEPARTMENT—MEDICAL.

Darjeeling, the 7th May 1895.

READ—

A report, dated 1st December 1894, by the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals, on the sale of quinine by Subordinate Medical Officers.

Statements furnished by the Inspector-General of Jails showing the quantity of quinine supplied to Post Offices and Civil Surgeons from the beginning of the operations in November 1892 to the 30th September 1894.

Read again—

Resolution by the Government of Bengal, Municipal Department, No. 3263, dated the 6th December 1892, regarding the extension of the sale of quinine among the poorer classes in Bengal.

IN the Resolution of the 6th December 1892, the Lieutenant-Governor reviewed the history of various attempts which had been made to popularise the use of quinine and to extend its sale among the poorer classes in the interior of Bengal, indicated the causes of their failure, and put forward a new scheme which seemed likely to have greater prospects of success. This scheme proposed to create a demand for pure quinine among the poor by selling it in small quantities at a large number of centres for the smallest coin in common use, and by giving the sellers an interest in pushing the sales. It was arranged to supply the quinine from the Government Factory at Darjeeling, and to make it up by jail labour into packets containing five grains each and bearing a Government stamp as a guarantee of its purity. The price of each packet was fixed at one pice.

2. It was intended that these packets should eventually be offered for sale at all public offices in the interior of districts, such as police-stations and outposts, dispensaries, pounds and post-offices; but as a first step, with the permission of the Government of India, the experiment was commenced through the agency of the Postal Department at all offices except those in large towns where it was then believed that even the poorer classes had other means of procuring pure quinine. Every post-master in charge of a branch office or sub-post-office was supplied through the post, by the Superintendent of Jail Manufactures, Calcutta, with one or more parcels of 102 packets holding 5 grains of quinine apiece. Each parcel being worth, at a pice per packet, Re. 1-9-6; the value of six packets, or an anna and-a-half, was retained as commission by the vendor, and Re. 1-8 was repaid to Government. The value of the first consignment of parcels was treated as a permanent advance; but when further supplies were required they were paid for by money-order, the commission on which was borne by the Jail Department. The five-grain packets were sold at one pice each, and the value of them accounted for by the post-masters.

3. Proceedings commenced in the Bengal Postal Circle, and as soon as the scheme was found to be working well, the other two circles, Eastern Bengal and Bihar, were simultaneously supplied with quinine. The most fever-stricken districts were taken up first, and by the end of November 1892, 34,986 pice packets had been supplied to the nine districts noted in the margin. Within the following month 160,854 packets were sent out to all districts except those of Bihar and Chota Nagpur, and during January 1893 201,144 packets were distributed, thus completing the initial supply for the whole Province. During the next seven months supplies were sent to Civil Surgeons for sale in the mufassal through dispensaries, the vaccination establishment or otherwise. The East Indian Railway Company was also allowed to co-operate in the scheme, their station-masters at small road-side stations being permitted to sell quinine in the same manner as post-masters; and lastly, all private employers of labour, zamindars and indigo and tea planters who might desire to take advantage of this method of distributing quinine, were invited to apply to the Superintendent of Jail Manufactures.

4. As the experiment was started during the months when fever is least prevalent in Bengal, and also owing to its novelty, comparatively slow progress was made in the earlier stages. The remittances made on account of the price of quinine sold from November 1892 to the end of March 1893 amounted to Rs. 844-0-6, representing 57,390 pice packets actually sold, or an average of 11,478 per month. Ampler statistics have since been furnished covering the period from November 1892 to the end of September 1894, and these will not be examined with reference to the general progress of the scheme and the comparative efficiency of the two agencies engaged in selling quinine—the post-offices and the Civil Surgeons Statements A and B annexed to this Resolution show the supplies to, and sales by, Civil Surgeons and post-offices respectively, and the balance of pice packets remaining unsold at the end of September 1894. Statement C gives for each district the population, the fever mortality and quinine sales, and compares the position of districts with reference to the sales per thousand of population, the gross sales, and the fever mortality.

5. The following statement shows month by month the supplies of pice packets of quinine to postal officials and Civil Surgeons up to the end of September 1894, and the monthly mortality from fever per thousand of population during the period referred to:—

6. Out of the 3,211,266 packets issued to post-offices and Civil Surgeons, 2,391,594 were sold and 819,672 remained in stock at the close of the period. The monthly average of sales was 104,669 packets, against 11,478 for the first five months of the period. This indicates satisfactory progress, so far, at any rate, as the Postal Department is concerned. The results of sales through Civil Surgeons are less encouraging, and vary so greatly from district to district that they will for the present be left out of account in judging of the general success of the scheme.

7. Taking, then, the returns of supplies to post-offices as given in column 2 above, it should be explained that the high figures of the first three months represent the original stocks sent out to post-masters. By the end of January 1893 all offices had been fully supplied, and from that time onward the statistics of supply may for practical purposes be treated as statistics of sale, as a new supply is sent out only when the previous one is nearly exhausted. From February to May 1893 the demand was small, the experiment was a new one, and large stocks were in hand. In June of that year the demand began to increase, and it rose rapidly up to November, when the indents for fresh supplies reached the high figure of 309,978 packets. From that point the figures decline (with a rise in March and April 1894 corresponding to an increase in the fever mortality) to 88,842 in June 1894, rising again as the rains set in to 196,146 in September 1894, the last month for which statistics are now available. It is significant and encouraging to observe that while the indents during the five months May to September 1893 amounted to 446,453 packets, the supplies in the corresponding months of 1894 came to 746,538 packets, an advance of 67 per cent., and that the monthly average for the twelve months ending September 1894 was 175,851 packets. It may fairly be concluded that the rise and fall of sales varying with the unhealthiness of the season, and the great difference in the figures of corresponding periods in two successive years, show that the uses of quinine are beginning to be more generally known, and that there is a growing demand for it in the form in which it is now sold.

8. The next point of interest is the extent to which quinine is purchased in different districts. The object in view is that the most feverish districts should be the largest consumers; but this result, if ever arrived at, can hardly be looked for until the system of selling quinine by the dose has been longer in force, and the people have got to know thoroughly the virtues of the drug and the places at which it can be procured. At present, though a degree of success has been attained, Statement C shows that there have been many failures. This statement gives for each district in Bengal the population, the rate of fever mortality for the last three years, the actual quantity of quinine sold, and the relative quantity per thousand of population. It further shows the relative order of the districts in regard to fever mortality, actual sales of quinine through the post-office, and relative sales per thousand of population. The following lists bring out some of the most striking points in the statement :—

Districts in order of fever mortality (average of 1892-94).	Districts in order of actual sales of quinine.	Districts in order of relative sales per thousand of population.
1. Rajshahi.	1. Jessore.	1. Nadia.
2. Jessore.	2. Nadia.	2. Jessore.
3. Malda.	3. Mymensingh.	3. Hooghly.
4. Jalpaiguri.	4. Shahabad.	4. Khulna.
5. Dinajpur.	5. Midnapore.	5. Burdwan.
6. Rangpur.	6. Burdwan.	6. Shahabad.
7. Monghyr.	7. Backergunge.	7. Darjeeling.
8. Shahabad.	8. Khulna.	8. Midnapore.
9. Nadia.	9. Hooghly.	9. Backergunge.
10. Murshidabad.	10. Faridpur.	10. Mymensingh.

Clearly if the demand for quinine had been developed to the point of rising and falling in correspondence in the ratio of fever mortality, the same districts ought to figure in the same order in the first and third lists; but in fact out of the ten districts which show the highest average fever mortality, only three, Jessore, Nadia, and Shahabad, appear in the group of districts which have the highest relative consumption of quinine. Rajshahi, which heads the list of bad fever districts, stands only 17th in respect of its relative demand for quinine, while Malda, Jalpaiguri, Dinajpur, Monghyr and Murshidabad are also low down. Endeavours will now be made to trace the causes of this state of things. The Inspector-General of Jails will be asked to furnish the Sanitary Commissioner with detailed statistics for each office of supply, and it is hoped that the latter officer, by examining his own statistics and by local inquiries conducted by his own inspecting staff in communication with the district officials, will be able to suggest means of further pushing the sales. If it should be the case, as seems not unlikely, that in some of the most feverish parts of these districts post-offices are comparatively sparsely situated, and therefore more difficult of access, it should be considered what other agency could usefully be employed to supplement the sales by the Postal Department.

9. It was observed above that out of a total of 3,211,266 pice packets supplied to postal officers and Civil Surgeons up to the 30th September 1894, only 305,184, or 9·5 per cent., were supplied to the latter. The actual sales up to the same date amount to 2,391,594 packets, of which only 105,468, or 4·4 per cent., were sold by Civil Surgeons. There are no doubt many more post-offices than there are dispensaries, but this of itself hardly accounts for the great disproportion between the sales effected by the two selling agencies; and it is further noticed that up to the 30th September 1894 the Postal Department sold out 78 per cent. of their supplies, while the Civil Surgeons only got rid of 34 per cent. Again, not only were the amounts sold by Civil Surgeons absolutely and relatively much less than those sold by the Postal Department, but the results obtained by the former agency vary remarkably from district to district. Thus in seven districts,* some of which have a high rate of fever mortality, the jail returns show that the Civil Surgeons had not succeeded in selling a single pice packet up to the end of September 1894. In two cases, indeed, the Jail Department's returns were disputed, but the amounts alleged to have been sold were small and the remittances appear not to have been made till after the close of the period under review. On the other hand 17,544 packets were sold by Dr. Murray of Shahabad, 11,016 by Dr. Kelly of the Sonthal Parganas, 10,404 by Drs. Stephens and Sinha of Jessore, and 9,792 by Dr. Macdonald of Saran. In reporting on the subject, the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals mentions that some Civil Surgeons object to selling quinine at dispensaries on the ground that patients expect to get all medicines free, and that it lays medical subordinates open to charges of corruption. Dr. Harvey considers this argument more plausible than sound, and recommends that the experiment be continued, remarking at the same time that the difficulty referred to seems to be met with in inverse ratio to the trouble taken by the Civil Surgeon.

* Bankura. Pabna. Champaran. Darbhanga. Malda. Cuttack. Balasore.

10. On this branch of the subject the Lieutenant-Goveror has arrived at the following conclusions. The sale of quinine by the Civil Surgeons is carried on by means of two agencies—the medical subordinates who remain stationary at the dispensaries, and the vaccination subordinates whose business it is to be constantly travelling in the interior of their districts. Against selling quinine at dispensaries it may fairly be urged that the practice tends to conflict with the long-standing usage of giving medicines free, and may thus lead to confusion in matters of account; that involves competing with the post-offices and thus reducing the commission payable to post-masters and their interest in pushing the sales; and lastly, that it gives an amount of trouble out of proportion to the results obtained. In the Lieutenant-Governor's opinion these arguments have much weight, and he proposes to order the supplies to dispensaries to be stopped. The stocks now in hand can either be sold off by degrees or transferred to the nearest post office, as may be arranged by the Jail Department in communication with the Civil Surgeons concerned. But while relieving the Civil Surgeons from the supervision of the sale of quinine through dispensaries, the Lieutenant-Governor must insist upon their giving special attention to its sale through their subordinates employed on vaccination. These officers move about constantly in the rural portions of their districts, and they are specially fitted to supplement the agency of the post-office in pushing the sale of quinine. Every vaccinator and sub-inspector of vaccination should therefore be supplied with parcels of quinine packets, and should be allowed the commission which is given to post-masters. A special paragraph should be devoted to the working of these orders in the annual report submitted by Civil Surgeons to the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals.

11. One effect of discontinuing the supply of quinine to dispensaries will be to leave certain towns, where quinine is not now supplied to the post-offices, without any agency for the sale of quinine in pice packets. In the Home Department letter No. 373 of the 8th July 1892, conveying the sanction of the Government of India to the co-operation of the post-office in the scheme as originally launched, it was assumed that the principal object of the proposal being to place quinine within easy reach of the population, it would not be necessary to have recourse to post-offices in the larger towns where other suitable agencies were likely to be found. Further experience has, however, shown that the poorer classes in the so-called towns stand in as great need of pure quinine, and have nearly as much difficulty in getting it, as the people of the interior; and now that it has been decided, for the reasons stated above, to discontinue the supply of quinine to dipensaries, the Lieutenant-Governor trusts that there will be no objection to extending the sale through the postal officials to the larger offices hitherto excluded from the scheme.

12. The following statement submitted by the Inspector-General of Jails gives an abstract of the financial results of the experiment from its commencement to the 30th September 1894:—

13. The figures of this statement do not agree with those given in statements A and B, because the latter refer to post-offices and Civil Surgeons only, and do not include supplies to and sales by other persons which have been mixed up with the transactions of Civil Surgeons. Special care must be taken in future in dealing with the accounts and statistics of quinine, and before returns are submitted all discrepancies between the figures prepared by the Jail Department and those supplied by Civil Surgeons should be examined and reconciled by the Superintendent of Jail Manufactures. Taking the present figures as they stand, it appears that Government has made a profit out of the experiment of Rs. 7,870. This was no part of the original scheme; but medical advice is opposed to increasing the quantity of quinine in each packet, and it is clearly impossible to reduce the price below one pice. The Inspector-General of Jails will, however, be asked to report whether anything would be gained by using a better kind of paper for the envelopes. If not, a larger commission will be allowed to post-masters.

14. Reviewing the operations as a whole, and having regard to the novelty of selling quinine by the dose, and the various difficulties of detail which had to be overcome at starting, the Lieutenant-Governor considers that the scheme has been quite as successful as could reasonably have been expected. An effective demand for cheap quinine among the masses of the people has been called into existence; the demand is shown to vary from month to month in genaral accordance with the conditions tending to produce fever; and there seem to be grounds for hoping that it will continue to increase if stimulated by judicious administration. Under the scheme as now modified the post-offices all over Bengal will continue to be the main agency for distributing quinine, but attempts will made to utilise other agencies with the object of reaching the people of outlying tracts who are not within easy reach of post-offices. The employés of the Vaccination Department will doubtless be able to do much in this direction, as their duties take them into rural villages at all times of the year, and the Lieutenant-Governor trusts that District Officers and the higher sanitary officials will lose no opportunity of helping to promote sales and of spreading information as to the wishes of Government in the matter. A further extension may be obtained by imitating the measures taken by Mr. Greer, Deputy Commissioner of Darjeeling. In that district (in parts of which the mortality from fever is extremely high) quinine is now sold or shortly will be sold, at no less than 19 rural centres in addition to places where there are post-offices. The vendors are for the most part respectable shop-keepers. They are supplied with parcels containing 102 packets of quinine, on the same terms as postal officials. With the first supply, a vernacular notice is sent to them stating the conditions, and they are required to agree to sell the quinine at one pice per packet, and to remit the price to Government, less commission of six packets per parcel. A notice signed by the Deputy Commissioner, stating the selling price per packet, is posted up in each shop. Eight vendors have repaid the price of the quinine they have had, and there is said to be no doubt as to the recovery of the balance. The Lieutenant-Governor desires to bring this experiment to the notice of all district officials, and he hopes that what has been found to work well in Darjeeling may prove equally practicable in other districts. All Magistrates of districts are authorised to indent on the Superintendent of Jail Manufactures for the necessary supplies of quinine; and they should arrange to remit the sale proceeds to that officer.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

H. H. RISLEY,

Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

The report for the year 1893 and the Resolution recorded upon it.

The report has been submitted with the same punctuality as in the previous year. It was due to Government on the 1st May, and was received on the 22nd March, i.e., more than a mouth earlier.

2. The statement in the margin, which compares the number of patients in the five native asylums in Bengal during the last two years, and summarises the main facts regarding them, shows that the number of admissions fell off by five.

The number of deaths and discharges dropped from 240 to 193, and the daily average strength from 932 to 915. The number of criminal lunatics in confinement on the last day of the year was 463, against 445 at the end of 1893, while that of the non-criminal lunatics fell from 471 to 460.

3. Of the 200 persons admitted and readmitted, 108 were criminal lunatics and 92 non-criminal; the figures for the previous year being 103 and 102 respectively. The re-admissions during the year fell from 24 to 20, the decrease occurring in all the asylums except Dullunda, where 14 patients were re-admitted in 1893 against 5 in 1894. Seven of these were criminal lunatics remanded to the asylum after trial; four were cases of insanity, recurring after various intervals of temporary recovery; and three were patients who had been made over to their friends, but were found too troublesome to be kept at home.

4. The number of lunatics discharged fell from 163 to 118, the fall affecting all asylums except Dacca. It was most marked in Dullunda (35) and Patna (19), and in both these institutions the decrease is said to be due to the success attained in the previous year in inducing the friends of harmless lunatics to take charge of them. In this way Dullunda got rid of 78 patients and Patna of 34, as compared with 43 and 15 respectively in 1894, and it is stated that the harmless patients still remaining have no friends or relations willing to take charge of them. The increase in discharges at Dacca from 26 to 42 is put down to the larger number of recoveries.

5. At the close of the year there were 463 criminal lunatics in confinement. Of this number, 185 had been actually tried, acquitted on the ground of insanity, and ordered to be kept in safe custody; 252 had been detained as incapable of making a defence, and 26 were persons who being already in jail for an offence had become insane there, and been transferred to an asylum. The numbers of each class in the previous year were 176, 242, and 27. The daily average strength rose from 441·42 to 448·19, and was higher than in any of the last ten years except 1891. The Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals (Surgeon-Colonel Harvey) remarks that these figures tend to confirm the opinion expressed by him in last year's report, that the operations of the rules framed in 1888 for dealing with criminal lunatics increase the number of such lunatics under detention. It seems, however, doubtful whether these rules have been in force long enough to make it possible to judge of their effect on the number of criminal lunatics, and in any case the question is of no practical importance, as no one would propose to alter the rules because they added slightly to the period for which criminal patients were detained.

6. The capacity of the different asylums remained unaltered during the year, but in Dacca four new cells for female patients have since been completed, and are now in use. This raises the standard of accommodation to 41, which is only slightly below the average daily strength. On the male side of the asylum, accommodation for 50 extra patients was added in 1891, and this has rendered it possible to transfer lunatics from Chittagong to Dacca instead of Dullunda.

7. In statement VII, showing the causes of insanity, only 40 cases out of the 200 admitted are put down to ganja-smoking, against 55 in the previous year, and Dr. Harvey observes in explanation of the reduction that the theory that hemp drugs cause insanity is less readily accepted than it used to be. In reviewing the report for 1890, the Lieutenant Governor referred to the proneness of some persons to conceive ganja a fertile cause of insanity; and in the Resolution on the report of 1892 the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals was asked to enquire into some of the cases attributed to ganja-smoking, and to ascertain on what data this diagnosis was based. Mention was also made of the suggestion that it is as reasonable to suppose that excessive ganja-smoking may be due to insanity as that insanity may be due to excessive use of ganja. In dealing with the report of 1893, the Lieutenant-Governor observed that whenever a lunatic was reported by the police to be a ganja-smoker, it was too easily assumed that that drug was the cause of insanity; and he agreed with Dr. Harvey in thinking that in past years many cases had been attributed to ganja on most insufficient grounds. The question of the connexion between insanity and ganja has since been exhaustively examined by the Hemp Drugs Commission. The Commission found that in the great majority of cases the asylum statistics as to the supposed cause of insanity were based wholly on the descriptive rolls or similar papers received with the lunatics. For this reason they set aside the statistics as quite untrustworthy, and undertook a special enquiry into all the cases admitted into asylums in India in 1892 and ascribed to hemp drugs. They did in fact on a larger scale and with more elaborate machinery what the Lieutenant-Governor had asked the Bengal Inspector-General to do in 1893. The conclusions arrived at by them after a most exhaustive inquiry entirely bear out the impression which Sir Charles Elliott had long ago formed from facts which came before him in the course of ordinary administration. The following statement summarises their results:—

	Number.	Percentage on admissions.
Cases admitted in 1892	1,344	......
Cause of insanity shown as known ...	775	58
" " " " unknown ...	569	42
Cases attributed to hemp drugs ...	222	16·5
" accepted by the Commission as due to hemp drugs	61	4·5
"Mixed" cases (hemp only one of several possible causes)	37	......
Total cases held by the Commission to be more or less connected with hemp drugs...	98	7·3, or 12·6 on "known" cases.
Cases rejected by Commission	124	......

It appears from the report that the above figures, if taken by themselves, tend rather to exaggerate the part played by ganja in causing insanity. Thus among the 37 mixed cases, in which ganja ranks only as one among several possible causes, there were 7 into which heredity entered as a predisposing factor, 18 may have been due to alcohol, and three to dhatura; while out of the remaining 61 accepted as due to hemp drugs, there were 22 with regard to which no satisfactory evidence could be procured; and a great majority of the rest came from the lower orders of cultivators and labourers, about whom it was not easy to ascertain more than the fact that they indulged in ganja. Whether that habit was the cause or one of the causes of the insanity, or even whether it preceded the insanity was much more difficult to establish. Subject, however, to these deductions, the Commission accepted it as reasonably proved in the absence of evidence of other causes that hemp drugs do produce insanity, though in far fewer cases than has hitherto been popularly believed. Sir Charles Elliott welcomes this conclusion, not merely as confirming an impression which he had already formed, but as tending to remove what has long been a blot on our management of asylums, and to bring about the separation and intelligent treatment of persons suffering from ganja insanity. For the Commission further show that the form of insanity thus caused is usually of a temporary character, and lasts for a shorter time than insanity arising from other causes. If in future Superintendents of Asylums study carefully the mass of information collected by the Commission on this subject, it may reasonably be hoped that substantial progress will be made in the diagnosis and curative treatment of cases of ganja insanity.

8. The improvement noticed last year in the health of the inmates of the asylums has not been maintained. The average daily number of sick rose to 55·41 from 49·25 in 1893, and the percentage of chronic invalids to average strength was 6·05, against 5·28 in the previous year. Dr. Harvey points out, however, that these figures are low when compared with the rates of admission to hospital among British and Native troops in India, which in 1893 were 100·4 and 82·9, respectively, excluding venereal diseases.

Moreover, the death-rate of 8·19 per cent. is slightly lower than last year's and compares favourably with all other asylum rates in India, except that of the North-West Provinces. The actual number of deaths fell from 77 to 75. Taking the individual asylums, it is observed that at Dullunda, Patna and Berhampore more patients were admitted into hospital than in 1893, while Dacca shews a decrease in this respect. At Dullunda, however, the increase of 57 includes 30 cases of mere debility without any definite disease. The increase of 11 at Patna is ascribed to the prevalence of bowel-complaints, while of the increase of 45 cases at Berhampore, 32 are accounted for by influenza, and the rest by fever being somewhat more prevalent than in 1893. The decrease of 89, or 36·47 per cent., at Dacca is explained by the fact that in the previous year 87 patients were admitted for influenza, while none suffered from this disease in 1894. There were two cases of cholera, apparently caused by drinking polluted water in the Dullunda Asylum, one of which indicated great carelessness on the part of the hospital attendants.

9. Seventeen cases of injuries and accidents are recorded as compared with 10 in 1893 and 11 in 1892. Eleven of these took place at Dullunda, of which 3 were assaults by lunatics on lunatics and 8 minor accidents. At Dacca there were two cases of fractured ribs caused by kicks from other lunatics, who had up to that time shown no tendency to violence. An epileptic was burned, and a woman sprained her hip. At Patna one lunatic was thrown down by another and broke his collar-bone, and a woman broke the small bone of her left forearm in trying to escape. The warders whose neglect contributed to these accidents were in each case adequately punished. At Cuttack and Berhampore there were no casualties. It speaks well for the management of the asylums that no cases of ill-treatment of lunatics by warders occurred during the year.

10. Three escapes took place—two from Berhampore and one from Dullunda. In all three cases the lunatics were recaptured, and the officials in fault punished.

11. The income and expenditure of the last two years, are shown in the following table:—

Total ...	86,789	4	5	95,788	12	3

The increase of Rs. 8,999 in the total expenditure is virtually accounted for by larger expenditure on account of buildings and repairs and the increased demand for rates and taxes, neither of which items, as Dr. Harvey points out, are under the control of the Asylum authorities. The Public Works Department spent Rs. 11,518-8 on asylums during the year, as compared with Rs. 5,280-4-8 in 1893, Rs. 2,536-10 in 1892, and Rs. 11,544-7-5 in 1891. The expenditure of 1894 included Rs. 5,074-12-9 at Dullunda for a new latrine and sewage connexions, and Rs. 3 366-14 3 at Dacca for raising part of the walls, improved ventilation, and a mortuary. The increase under rates and taxes was caused by demands appealed against as excessive in 1893 having to be met during 1894.

12. The expenditure under the large head of "Diet" shows a reduction of Rs. 342-3-8. The average cost of feeding patients was—Dullunda, Rs. 42-0-6; Dacca, Rs. 43-10-3; Patna, Rs. 35-5-11; Cuttack, Rs. 40-6-4; and Berhampore, Rs. 34-11-8, as compared with Rs 41-9-5, Rs. 44-11-6, Rs 32-3-2, Rs. 38-7-1 and Rs. 35-15-4 respectively in 1893. The slight increase at Dullunda was due to extra diet allowed to the large number of patients treated in hospital for debility. At Patna and Cuttack food-grains are dearer, and the average at the latter asylum was further increased by the presence of a single Eurasian inmate.

13. The gross cost of each lunatic at the different asylums and the cost per head of average strength, taking all charges into account, is compared in the following statement for the last two years:—

	1893.			1894.

Rates and taxes	3	10	7	6	0	9
Forms and stationery	0	2	1	0	2	2
	93	1	11	104	10	4

The causes of the increases shown have been explained above. The average cost at Cuttack, as was stated in the Resolution on the Report for 1893, is necessarily high owing to the small number of inmates.

14. The number of paying patients fell from 34 to 31, and the daily average strength from 19·57 to 18·06. The receipts decreased by Rs. 313-11 owing partly to the smaller number of patients and partly to a falling off in the collection of arrears.

15. Satisfactory progress seems to have been made in the working of dairy farms at asylums. From Dullunda a profit of Rs. 1,108-6-1 is reported, though it may be doubted whether in such an undertaking ten per cent. is a sufficient allowance to make for depreciation. The Dacca Asylum supplied its inmates, and sold milk to the public for Rs. 674-7-3. The calves were also utilised for supplying vaccine lymph to the asylum, the jail, and the outside population. The proposed dairy at Berhampore has not yet been opened. The Lieutenant-Governor agrees with the Inspector-General in thinking that the Cuttack dairy, which works on a very small scale, may be given up, milk being procured for the lunatics from the Jail.

16. The number of patients in the European Asylum at Bhowanipur remained the same as last year. Forty-one were old patients, and 23 were subsequently admitted—64 in all, two being criminal lunatics Four were discharged as cured, compared with 9 in the previous year, two deported to Europe under the Merchant Shipping Act, 11 transferred to the care of friends, one was made over to the military authorities, one transferred to Dullunda to make room for a more urgent case, and six died, leaving 39 under confinement at the close of the year. The daily average strength was 40·37, as compared with 36·78 in 1893. The male ward was slightly overcrowded for a time, but the greatest number detained on any one night was only two in excess of the scale capacity. Additional accommodation will be provided in the female ward as soon as funds are available. Only nine persons were admitted to hospital during the year; and although the death-rate rose from 10·87 to 14·87 per cent., no stress can be laid upon ratios where the total number of inmates is so small. Although the total expenditure of the year rose from Rs. 21,805 to Rs. 23,350, the average net yearly cost to Government of each lunatic, after deducting receipts from paying patients, was reduced from Rs. 295 to Rs. 240. This was mainly due to a rise in the amount received from paying patients from Rs. 10,875 in 1893 to Rs. 13,703 in 1894. At the same time the Government contribution, which in 1891 amounted to Rs. 15,531, or 61·21 per cent. of the total income, has fallen in the year under review to Rs. 9,624, or 41 21 per cent.

17. The rules for the control and management of the lunatic asylums in Bengal are still under the consideration of Government, and will be issued shortly. Opportunity will be taken to carry out the recommendations of the Hemp Drugs Commission in regard to a more careful and accurate diagnosis of the causes of insanity, especially when the disease is attributed to ganja-smoking, and to provide for the separation, as far as possible, of patients who are behaved to be suffering from this cause.

18. The Lieutenant-Governor has observed with pleasure that the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals visited all the asylums during the year, and looked carefully into their requirements. With the single exception of Berhampore, where, owing to difficulties with the Municipal Commissioners, which have since been got over, the conservancy arrangements were defective, the sanitary condition of the asylums was found to be satisfactory. In other respects Dr. Harvey considered these institutions to be well and carefully managed, and to provide their inmates with comforts and means of recovery which they could not otherwise have. At the same time he was careful to deprecate any comparison with English asylums, which are in charge of specialists, giving their whole time to the treatment of mental disease, and are worked on a far more expensive scale than would be possible with the resources at the disposal of the Bengal Government. In conclusion Sir Charles Elliott desires to thank Dr. Harvey and the the Superintendents of the Asylums for their judicious and economical management of the institutions to which this excellent report bears witness.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

H. H. RISLEY,

Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

RESULT OF EXAMINATION FOR ADMISSION TO THE EXECUTIVE BRANCH OF THE PROVINCIAL AND SUBORDINATE CIVIL SERVICE AND THE OPIUM DEPARTMENT.

RESOLUTION.—No. 171A.—D.

APPOINTMENT.

Dated Darjeeling, the 11th May 1895.

READ—

The Resolution of the 12th May 1894, reviewing the result of the examination held in March of that year, and appointing candidates to be probationers in the Executive Branch of the Provincial and Subordinate Civil Service.

The Notification of the 6th November 1894, publishing rules for the examination for admission to the Executive Branch of the Provincial and Subordinate Civil Service of 1895.

The Notification of the 13th November 1894, declaring that one native of India, of unmixed descent, would be selected by competitive examination for admission into the Opium Department at the examination prescribed for candidates for the Executive Branch of the Provincial Civil Service.

The Reports of the Examiners at the examination held on the 1st, 2nd, 3rd and 4th April 1895.

The seven Probationary Deputy Collectors and 14 Probationary Sub-Deputy Collectors appointed on the result of the examination held in March 1894, have all been absorbed into officiating or substantive pro tempore appointments. The policy of promoting deserving Sub-Deputy Collectors to officiate as Deputy Collectors has been adhered to. During the year 1893-94, 16 Sub-Deputy Collectors, and during the year 1894-95 no less than 28 Sub-Deputy Collectors, have received promotion to the grade of Officiating Deputy Magistrate and Deputy Collector.

2. In November last it was notified, in the same way as had been done in previous years, that at an examination to be held in March 1895, seven candidates would be selected for Probationary Deputy Collectorships on a subsistence allowance of Rs. 50 a month, and seven for Probationary Sub-Deputy Collectorships on a subsistence allowance of Rs. 30 a month respectively. It was announced that four of the probationers for Deputy Collectorships would be appointed from the first four candidates on the list in order of merit, that three would be selected by the Lieutenant-Governor from amongst those who have obtained a minimum of one-third of the total marks, and that from the remainder of those qualified by obtaining one-third of the total marks, the Lieutenant-Governor would select seven more candidates as probationers for Sub-Deputy Collectorships. In the same month it was also notified that selected candidates would be allowed to compete at this examination for the Opium Department, and that the candidate who obtained the highest aggregate of marks would be admitted to that department.

3. The examination so notified was held on the 1st, 2nd, 3rd and 4th of April 1895. No fewer than 165 competitors obtained permission to compete, and of these 160 (all of whom, except seven,* were graduates) actually appeared and sent in papers. Of these 160 candidates, 115 took up Bengali as their vernacular, 36 took up Hindi or Hindustani, and 9 took up Uriya. It is a matter of regret that out of this large number of candidates, there should have been only 18 Muhammadans, 11 Bihari Hindus, and 9 Uriyas. These numbers show, however, an increase on the number of such candidates in previous years. The total number of candidates who obtained one-third marks was 108 only.

* Of these seven, six failed to obtain one-third marks.

4. A consideration of the number of probable retirements and casualties, and of the number of vacancies which will be likely to be occasioned by the deputation of officers on settlement or other duty, has shown that 21 vacancies may be expected during the current year in the grades of Deputy Magistrate and Deputy Collector. Of this number seven will, in due course, be filled up by the appointment of candidates who are now selected to be Probationary Deputy Magistrates and Deputy Collectors, and the remaining 14 appointments will be filled up by selection from among Sub-Deputy Collectors. Assuming that three ordinary vacancies will be created in the grade of Sub-Deputies during the year, this decision enables the Lieutenant-Governor to raise the number of officers to be appointed as Probationary Sub-Deputy Collectors from among the candidates at the late examination from 7 to 17.

5. The following four gentlemen, who stood first in order of merit, are entitled to appointments as Probationary Deputy Collectors:—

	Number of marks.
Babu Kshitish Chunder Sarkar, B.A.	475
„ Probodh Chandra Chatterji, M.A.	449
„ Nund Kishore Lall, B.L.	434
„ Hari Bhushan De, B.A.	433

6. The following three candidates have been selected by the Lieutenant-Governor for appointment as Probationary Deputy Collectors after careful consideration of the number of marks obtained, the claims upon Government of members of the candidate's family, the interests of the different classes of the community, and the requirements of the public service:—

	Number of marks.
Mr. A. W. Warde-Jones	428
Maulvi Syed Ali Ashraf, B.A.	415
Mr. W. J. Stark, B.A.	373

7. All these probationary officers will receive a subsistence allowance of Rs. 50 per mensem, and if the report from the districts in which they are stationed is favourable they will, after such period of probation as may seem advisable, be appointed to be Officiating Deputy Magistrates and Deputy Collectors as vacancies occur. They will not ordinarily be vested with magisterial powers until they are so appointed. Separate orders will now be passed posting all the gentlemen above named to districts.

8. The following are the 17 candidates selected by the Lieutenant-Governor, from among those who have obtained one-third marks, to be Probationary Sub-Deputy Collectors:—

Babu Debendra Nath Bose, M.A.
„ Jogindra Nath Sarkar, M.A., B.L.
„ Monmohan Mukherjee, B.A.
„ Ramesh Chunder Dutt, B.A.
„ Dakshinaranjan Ghose, B.A.
„ Phanindra Nath Mukerjee, B.A.
Maulvi Syud Izhar Hossain, B.A.
Babu Mohendra Nath Kundu, M.A.
Babu Akhil Kumar Chatterjee, B.A.
„ Saroda Nunda Das, B.A.
„ Suresh Chunder Chuckerbutty, B.A.
Maulvi Abdul Aziz, B.A.
Babu Sudarsan Das, B.A.
Maulvi Syed A. M. Abdul Barkaat, B.A.
Babu Balmukund Kanungo, B.A.
„ Bhupendro Nath Mozumdar, B.A.
„ Har Sahay Lall, B.A.

9. These probationary officers will receive a subsistence allowance of Rs. 30 per mensem at present, and will, if they are satisfactorily reported on, be gradually absorbed in the fourth grade of Sub-Deputy Collectors as vacancies occur. Separate orders will at once be passed posting them to districts.

10. In accordance with the notification of the 13th November 1894, already referred to, a competition was held at this examination for one probationary appointment in the Opium Department. The number of candidates for this appointment was eleven, of whom ten obtained one-third marks. The candidate who is highest on the list is Babu Abinash Chunder Roy, B.L., who obtained 414 marks and stood tenth in the combined list in order of merit. With reference to the result of the examination, the Lieutenant-Governor is pleased to direct that Babu Abinash Chunder Roy be appointed a Probationary Assistant Sub-Deputy Opium Agent of the fourth grade.

RECEIPTS.

2. PART I.—Jetties.—The receipts are taken at Rs. 29,900 more than those of 1894-95. The increase is based on actuals.

3. PART II.—Inland Vessels Wharves.—The receipts are taken at Rs. 14,600 over last year's estimate. The increase is based on actuals.

4. PART IV.—Port or Harbour Master's Department.—The receipts are estimated at Rs. 30,040 less than those of the previous year. The estimate has been reduced on account of the receipts during the previous year having decreased by reason of vessels making shorter stays in the port.

5. PART VI.—Tramway.—The earnings are estimated at Rs. 10,000 more than those of the previous year. The increase is based on actuals.

6. * PART VII.—Port Approaches.—The receipts are taken at Rs. 24,750 over last year's estimate. Judging from the actuals of the receipts from port dues up to the end of January 1895, an increase of Rs. 25,000 is expected from this source, and hence the increase in the estimate.

7. PART VIII.—Kidderpore Docks.—The receipts are estimated as follows:—

	Rs.
Receipts from graving dock	1,00,000
Landing charges on imports } Shipping charges on exports }	2,50,000
Rent and miscellaneous	47,000
Proportion of receipts for towing vessels by hopper barges	3,000
Total ...	4,00,000

There is an increase of Rs. 1,00,000 in the receipts from landing and shipping charges and Rs. 32,000 in those from rent. In both cases the increase is based on actuals.

8. Special Toll.—The receipts for the 10 months, from April 1894 to January 1895, amounted to Rs. 6,75,700, and it was anticipated that those for February and March would be the same as those for the corresponding months of 1894, which amounted to Rs. 1,48,726. The receipts for 1895-96 have consequently been taken at Rs. 8,25,000.

EXPENDITURE.

9. PART I.—Jetties.—The estimated expenditure amounts to Rs. 10,31,011 against Rs. 10,43,539 of the previous year. "Repairs to jetties, sheds, &c.," shows a decrease of Rs. 62,000, the amount provided for, viz., Rs. 55,000, having been considered sufficient for carrying out such repairs as are necessary. Under the head "Renewals and improvements" there is a decrease of Rs. 40,000, the only provisions made being those for the repairs and improvements of the Budge-Budge depôt, and for protecting the foreshore. For these an estimate of Rs. 10,000 has been provided. On the other hand there is an increase of Rs. 7,471 under the head "Salaries," on account of an additional establishment having been sanctioned for supervising the handling of kerosine oil at Budge-Budge, as well as an increase of Rs. 61,616 under "Working expenses," owing principally to a provision of Rs. 60,216 having been made for the labour in handling kerosine oil at Budge-Budge.

10. PART II.—Inland Vessels Wharves.—Under this head there is an increase of Rs. 19,563 over the estimate sanctioned last year. This is principally due to an increased provision of Rs. 8,640 on account of "Renewals and improvements" and of Rs. 7,000 on account of the repairing of landing stages.

11. PART IV.—Port or Harbour Master's Department.—There is an increase of Rs. 27,005 under this head over the estimates of last year. Under the head "Salaries" there is an increase of Rs. 15,532, due principally to the grant of exchange compensation allowance, and under "Port Police establishment" there is an increase of Rs. 4,086, due partly to the same cause, and partly to the employment of an additional force at Watganj for maintaining order in the vicinity of the docks. "Pensions" also shows an increase of Rs. 4,663.

12. PART VI.—Tramway.—Under this head there is an increase of Rs. 3,872, due mainly to increased provisions on account of salaries and working expenses.

13. PART VII.—Port Approaches.—There is an increase of Rs. 18,389 under this head as compared with last year's estimate. "Salaries of officers and crew" shows an increase of Rs. 10,076, due principally to the grant of exchange compensation allowance, while the estimate under the head "Repairs to vessels" has been increased by Rs. 8,000 on account of a number of light vessels requiring a general overhaul during the year.

14. PART VIII.—Kidderpore Docks.—The expenditure under this head is estimated at Rs. 19,97,082, against Rs. 16,30,153, the estimate of last year. The increase is due principally to an increased provision of Rs. 50,446 having been made under "Working Expenses" in view of the anticipated increase of work at the Docks; of Rs. 20,007 under "Salaries of traffic establishment" on account of an increased establishment having been kept in anticipation of the development of traffic; and of Rs. 2,87,706 under "Interest and sinking fund on dock loan" for the payment of the sinking fund which fell due on the 1st April 1895.

15. Subject to the remarks contained in the foregoing paragraphs, the Lieutenant-Governor, in pursuance of the powers vested in him by section 71 of the Calcutta Port Act, 1890, approves the estimate of income and expenditure of the Commissioners for the year 1895-96.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

A. D. McARTHUR, Lieut.-Col., R.E.,
Offg. Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

The sowing of jute and of aus rice still continues. The state of the young sugarcane and indigo crops is good. The harvesting of spring rice still continues in some districts. Cattle-disease is prevalent in Patna, but is said to be not of a destructive nature. It is still rife in Dinajpur and Rangpur. The price of common rice is generally reported stationary, but in Chittagong it is said to be rising.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE MONTH OF APRIL 1895.

The most noticeable peculiarities in the weather of the past month have been—

1. Large differences of pressure have existed at times as compared with the normal. In the early part of the month there was, sometimes for days together, a large excess in Bengal and a moderate excess over the Bay so that the distribution was much more uniform than usual. Towards the end of the month a very different arrangement obtained, there being a large defect over Bengal and steep gradients over both the Bay and the province.

2. Temperature has generally been low, both during the night and the day. Defect in mean minimum temperature was fairly uniform, but the mean day readings are more than 5° below the normal in the western districts and elsewhere by amounts diminishing towards the east, where there was a small excess. The mean temperature for the month is therefore below the normal in all districts.

3. Owing to the uniform distribution of pressure, which generally obtained during the first three weeks of the month, winds were lighter than usual, but during the last week, when the pressure arrangement was reversed and gradients became steep, very strong winds continued for several days at the head of the Bay and in Bengal.

4. Thunder-storms were very frequent, as in the latter half of March, but with the same peculiarity that the rainfall due to them was much lighter than usual. Owing, however, to their frequent occurrence, the total rainfall has been considerable, and it is only at a few stations in the south of the province that the fall for the month is below the average.

5. As in the past two years, a cyclonic storm developed in the south of the Bay. There was an important difference this year, so far as Bengal is concerned, because the depression, instead of crossing the Burma coast, took a more northerly direction, passing close to Akyab and breaking up in the hilly region between Bengal and North Burmah. It was followed by very unsettled weather for some days in Bengal and Assam, and heavy rain fell in the eastern districts.

During the first week of the month ordinary weather prevailed. Pressure gradients were rather steeper than usual at that season because of a slight defect in Bengal, and excess in the south of the Bay. Temperature was normal or above except in the south-western districts, and occasional thunder-storms gave light showers of rain. The high pressure, which was such an important feature of the weather about the middle of the month, first began to develop on the 7th and succeeding days, but it was only temporary till the 13th when a rapid rise gave a large excess in North Bengal and Assam. This arrangement developed and remained with little change till it was upset by the approach of the cyclonic storm from the Bay on the 25th.

During the second week, while considerable pressure oscillations occurred, weather was not so settled. The wind circulation was irregular, and local storms occurred in considerable numbers in all districts, except Bihar and Chota Nagpur, where rainfall was all but entirely absent. Though the thunder-storms were frequent, the showers caused by them were light, except in East Bengal. A more decided result of these local disturbances was the low temperature which prevailed throughout the week, the effect being equally apparent by night and by day.

During the third week the weather conditions were unusual because of the large differences from the normal noticeable in pressure, temperature, &c., and also because of the steadiness with which these abnormal features prevailed from day to day. The pressure distribution was unusually uniform, and had a marked influence on the other meteorological elements. Easterly winds prevailed, and numerous local storms occurred, chiefly in the southern half of the province. Though the rainfall was not heavy, the air remained unusually cool except in the extreme north and east.

While pressure remained high in Bengal and the north of the Bay, slow downward changes led to the formation of a shallow low-pressure area in the south or south-west of the Bay. As the depression was at first very shallow and diffused, there was little likelihood of its giving rise to disturbed weather. But on the 22nd wind velocity increased in the south of Ceylon, and heavy rain was reported from Galle. The squally weather, which was then probably prevalent over the extreme south of the Bay, extended northwards, and on the 23rd was beginning to be felt in Burmah. The sea became rough at Diamond Island and on the Orissa coast, while a regular cyclonic circulation of winds prevailed over the Bay, as shown by the indraught across the coast at nearly all stations. On the 25th the disturbance was more concentrated, and was evidently moving in a north-easterly direction. There was a brisk fall of pressure in Bengal and over the Bay, and heavy rain had begun at Diamond Island. During the following day the movement of the depression was very rapid, and the centre crossed the coast near Akyab, where a gale blew for several hours on the night of the 25th. The fall of pressure was very rapid near the centre, as was shown by the changes both at Akyab and Chittagong. The fall at Chittagong on the 26th was a quarter of an inch, at Narayanganj ·183 inch; and though the fall at Akyab was a fifth of an inch, the rapid rise which follows the passing of a storm had been felt there for some hours.

Squally weather was general over the Bay and in Lower Bengal, but owing to the easterly motion of the disturbance, these squally conditions were of short duration. The rain squalls were felt while winds were easerly, and the north-westerly dry winds which soon followed gave fine weather over the north-west of the Bay and the greater part of Bengal, even while the storm was still raging in the north-east angle of the Bay. The disturbance broke up very quickly after the centre crossed the coast, and numerous thunder-storms occurred in the eastern districts, attended by heavy rain. The pressure distribution which remained after the depression disappeared was the reverse of what obtained a week before. While there was a rapid rise in East Bengal, there was a rapid fall in the western districts. A residual depression appeared over the south of Bihar and Chota Nagpur; and though its position oscillated from east to west, it remained over the province till the end of the month, and exercised an important influence on the weather during the last few days. The gradient was steep, and very strong winds prevailed. The thunder-storms on the east side of the area of lowest pressure kept the temperature several degrees below the normal, while the westerly winds in the western districts caused a great excess of heat, maximum temperature in places being as much as 112°.

Pressure.—In the early part of the month the pressure distribution differed very little from the normal About the beginning of the second week high pressure began to develop over Bengal, but it gave way for a day or two, and ultimately became established about the 13th. During the ten days that followed readings remained unusually high, and the distribution was uniform both over the Bay and the province. On the 24th the advancing depression became felt, and till the end of the month there was defect of about as much as was the previous excess. The pressure arrangement has therefore been very different from that usual during April, and the long period of high readings in the middle of the month has had a sensible effect on the means which are above the normal by amounts varying from ·02 inch in Orissa to ·05 inch in North Bengal and Bihar.

Temperature has been unusually low over the whole province, with the exception of one rather important break towards the end of the month in Orissa, Chota Nagpur, and the adjacent part of South-West Bengal, where some stations recorded very high day readings and nights were considerably hotter than usual. The means, however, are below the normal in all districts. Defect is 3·9° in Chota Nagpur, nearly 3° in Orissa and South-West Bengal, over 2° in Behar, 1·7° in North Bengal, 1·2° in East Bengal, and nearly 1° in Assam. These defects diminish from the south-west towards the north-east—an arrangement which is largely due to the day temperatures, as the difference from the average minimum reading is much more uniform.

Rainfall has been well distributed both over the province and throughout the month. In the early part falls were light and scattered, but during the last three weeks frequent showers fell in all districts. After the cyclonic storm broke up on the 26th heavier rain fell in East Bengal and Assam. The fall for the whole month is above the normal at all stations except in part of Bihar and South-West Bengal, where there is a considerable deficiency. The districts where less than the usual fall has been received are—Hooghly, Howrah, 24-Parganas, Calcutta, Khulna, Saran, Champaran, Darbhanga and Purnea. The stations that have reported the heaviest falls are—Gnatong, Dacca, Mymensingh, Noakhali, Balasore, Sibsagar and Silchar.

The humidity of the atmosphere is expressed at percentage, saturated air being represented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. The ... mean ... the numerical means or average of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the subdivisional stations for the period in question ... stations in the district sending in returns divided by the number of stations. Explanation.—... indicates that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received, the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are wanting, the corresponding spaces in the total rainfall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is when at least 0·10 inch of rain has fallen.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATURDAY, THE 11TH OF MAY 1895.

During the previous week weather was slightly disturbed in Bengal and thunderstorms occurred in all districts. The unsettled conditions moved westwards across the province, and at the beginning of the week under review were felt only in the western districts. Thunder showers were almost general in Bihar and Chota Nagpur during the first two days of the week, and caused a large fall of temperature, especially in the west of Bihar.

These disturbances were due to a shallow low pressure area which moved in a westerly direction and was felt more in the northern districts. As the recovery of pressure followed, fine settled weather became general, and temperature, which at the beginning of the week was below the normal except in the extreme east, slowly rose to its customary height, and by the end of the week was relatively high in all districts.

On the 5th, the first day of the week, a ridge of high pressure extended from North Bengal southwards over the central districts. Within this area pressure was in excess by more than ·15 inch, while both to east and west of it the difference was smaller. Gradients were therefore much steeper than usual over Bihar and Chota Nagpur, and the distribution more uniform towards the south and east. The oscillations usual in settled weather occurred, but the excess which prevailed at the beginning of the week never altogether disappeared. A moderate fall prevailed on the 6th and 7th and was followed by a slow rise on the 8th. Pressure again fell on the 9th and rose on the 10th and 11th. These changes all began in the east and moved westwards. The rather uniform distribution which obtained during those days gave rise to light winds and almost cloudless skies. The rise of temperature, therefore, went on with little interruption following the waves of pressure from east to west, and by the end of the week there was excess in all districts, greatest in Bihar, North Bengal and Assam, where it varied from a little under 5° to nearly 7°.

Pressure.—As stated above, waves of pressure passed from east to west during the week, giving rise to moderate changes. The distribution was always above the normal by varying amounts, and the means for the week are consequently in considerable excess. The smallest difference is in Assam and part of East Bengal, where it is less than ·05 inch. In the other districts excess varies between ·05 inch and ·1 inch.

Temperature.—At the beginning of the week temperature was below the normal except in East Bengal and Assam, and defect increased towards the west. The wave of rising temperature moved slowly across the province, and it was not till near the end of the week that defect disappeared. The highest day temperature was experienced on the 11th in all districts except Assam and North Bengal, where it was on the 8th, and the lowest minimum readings were usually between the 6th and 8th. The mean difference from the normal is greatest in Assam and becomes less towards the west. There is excess of 2°·8 in North Bengal 1°·8 in East Bengal, and almost normal values for South-West Bengal and Bihar. In Orissa and Chota Nagpur there is defect of 1° and 3°·7 respectively.

Rainfall.—Except the showers in Bihar and Chota Nagpur on the two first days and scattered showers throughout the week in East and North Bengal, very little rain has fallen. The average falls are below the normal in all districts except Chota Nagpur, where rather more than the normal amount was received. The falls in Orissa and South-West Bengal are less than a tenth of the normal fall, in East Bengal about a fourth, and in North Bengal less than a half. Bihar received ·5 inch as compared with a normal of ·63 inch.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the six meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 11th of May 1895:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph and from observations made at 6h., 10h. and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

Shoal S. S. W. of Halfway island.

The British Admiralty has given notice (No. 195 of 1895) that the steam vessel Duke of Buckingham recently touched on a shoal patch, situated near the track recommended, about 3½ miles S.S.W. (S. 22° W.) from Halfway island, or approximately in lat. 11° 26′ S.; long. 142° 56′ E.

17. The holder of a general license shall, with each consignment of petroleum conveyed under cover of his license, issue a pass in Form G appended to these Rules, specifying the places from and to which the petroleum is to be conveyed, and the quantity of petroleum covered by it. Each pass shall be numbered, and the number of the general license shall be legibly marked on a conspicuous part of the last case on the cart.

18. Special licenses for the transport of petroleum shall be in force for such period not exceeding six months from the date of the grant of the license as may be specified in the license.

* NOTE.—This Rule shall not be read as prohibiting the conveyance by water between Garden House and Cossipore of petroleum which is brought under a license from beyond the limits of Calcutta or Howrah, and is not intended to be landed within those limits.

Applications for such licenses should be made through the Commissioner of Police, Calcutta, or the Divisional Commissioner, as the case may be.

FINAL REPORT ON THE WHEAT CROP OF 1894-95 IN BENGAL AND BIHAR.

The following is published for general information.

C. E. BUCKLAND,
Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

REVENUE DEPT.,
The 21st May 1895.

DEPARTMENT OF LAND RECORDS AND AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

Final Report on the Wheat Crop of 1894-95 in Bengal and Bihar.

Returns have been received from 27 districts in which wheat is grown in these Provinces, viz., from all the districts of the Patna, Bhagalpur, and Chota Nagpur Divisions, and from the Burdwan, Bankura, Birbhum, Nadia, Murshidabad, Rajshahi, Pabna, Rangpur, Darjeeling, and Faridpur districts.

Character of the season.—The character of the early part of the wheat season of 1894-95 was reviewed in the preliminary note on the wheat crop issued on the 30th January 1895. This period was marked by unusually late and heavy rainfall which lasted till the end of the first week of November, being particularly heavy in Bihar, Chota Nagpur, and North Bengal. From the second week of November, there was practically no rain until after the middle of January. In February, the rainfall was below the normal, except in the Patna Division, and in the second and in the third weeks of March light rain fell in most districts.

The area sown with wheat was somewhat curtailed on account of the continuance of the monsoon rains of 1894, and the crop seems to have been seriously affected by the absence of rain, from the second week of November to the middle of January. The rain which fell in the latter part of January and in February and March, though light, somewhat improved the prospects of the crop. Shahabad is the only district from which injury by blight is reported.

2. Area cultivated.—The estimates of areas sown with wheat, as reported in the preliminary forecast of the 30th January, have been modified by the District Officers of Shahabad, Bhagalpur, the Sonthal Parganas, Manbhum, and Rangpur. The total area, sown under wheat during the year under report, as shown in the appended return is 1,401,000 acres, against 1,552,600 acres as reported in the first forecast. The decrease is chiefly due to revision of estimates in the Sonthal Parganas and Manbhum. Owing to the same causes, the total estimates of normal area and last year's area have also been changed, respectively, from 1,843,800 and 1,583,800 acres, as shown in the first forecast, to 1,719,200 and 1,461,000 acres as now returned.

From column 5 of the appended statement, it will be seen that there is an estimated decrease of 4·10 per cent. in the area under wheat cultivation this year, as compared with that of last year. This decrease is due to the late monsoon rains of 1894 having interfered with sowing, as stated in paragraph 1 of this Note.

3. Outturn.—The Collectors of Shahabad, Patna, Bhagalpur, Purnea, the Sonthal Parganas, Rajshahi, and Pabna, and some of the less important wheat-growing districts, have reduced their estimates of this year's crop since they submitted their preliminary forecasts. On the whole, therefore, the outturn for these Provinces is now estimated at 13½ annas, as against 15 annas shown in the preliminary forecast for this year, and as against 12 annas estimated for last year's crop. The outturn of wheat in tons in these Provinces for the season 1894-95 is shown in column 9 of the attached statement to have amounted to 486,100 tons, against 458,900 tons in the previous year. The better outturn is due to the more favourable character of the latter part of the season.

4. Under orders of Government, an abstract statement showing the prices and general conditions of stocks of food-grains as reported by District Officers is annexed to this report.

5. The following summary of the harvests of the year 1894-95 has been obtained from the marginally-noted reports published by this Department:—

Final Report on the bhadoi crops of 1894, dated 11th December 1894.
Final Report on the winter rice crop of 1894, dated 5th December 1894.
Note on the rabi crops of 1894, dated 10th April 1895.

6. Bhadoi crops.—The season was favourable. The total area cultivated with food and non-food crops was returned as 15,682,100 acres, against 15,587,600 acres estimated to have been cultivated the previous year. A full average crop of 16 annas or more than a full average crop was reported from 7 districts, crops varying from 8 annas to less than 16 annas were reported from 37 districts, and only from one district (Manbhum) was the crop reported to be less than 8 annas. Thirty-three districts reported the outturn to be better than that of 1893, four reported it to be equal, and eight reported it to be worse. The general yield of the bhadoi crops of 1894 was considerably better than that of 1893, being estimated at 16 annas, against 11 annas for the previous year.

7. Winter rice crop of 1894.—The season was very favourable to the cultivation and growth of the winter rice crop in most districts. The total area estimated to have been cultivated with winter rice was 31,388,600 acres, against 30,798,100 acres in 1893. Out of the 45 districts of these Provinces, 25 reported the crop to be a full average or better than a full average crop, 15 reported the crop as varying from 14 to 16 annas, and 5 from 12 to less than 14 annas. No District Officer returned less than a 12-anna crop. Twenty-nine out of the 45 districts reported a better outturn than that of 1893, 6 reported an equal outturn, and 10 districts reported worse crops. The general outturn of the winter rice crop for 1894 was estimated at 17 annas, against 16 annas estimated for the crop of 1893.

8. Rabi crops of 1894-95.—The area sown with rabi food-grains was returned as 9,206,300 acres, against 9,616,600 acres estimated to have been sown in the season 1893-94, the decrease being chiefly due to the heavy and late rainfall of the monsoon season of 1894. Only in 5 districts was the outturn of the rabi crop estimated to amount to 16 annas, 26 districts reported crops varying from 12 to 15 annas, 13 districts from 8 to 11 annas, and one district (viz. Pabna) returned a 7-anna crop. The mean outturn of the rabi crops for these Provinces was estimated between 13 and 14 annas, against the estimate of 12 annas for the previous year.

9. Taking into consideration all the harvests of the year, it appears that the yield of food-grains of the year in these Provinces has been above the average.

The yield of rabi food-grains is below the average, but this has been more than compensated for by the good outturn of the winter rice crop.

10. Food stocks and prices of food-grains.—The food stocks are reported to be plentiful in 17 districts, including seven districts of the Patna and Bhagalpur Divisions. In the remaining districts, the District Officers state that food-stocks are not plentiful or not generally plentiful.

In the fortnight ending 15th April 1895, the prices of common rice were lower in 44 districts than in the corresponding fortnight of 1894. In Rangpur only, a higher price prevailed. In all the 45 districts of these Provinces, the prices were lower than those prevailing in the fortnight ending 15th April 1893. The prices of wheat in the principal wheat-growing districts also ruled generally lower in the fortnight ending 15th April 1895 than in the corresponding fortnight of the preceding year. From the return of prices current on the 30th April 1895 in head-quarters bazars (published in the Calcutta Gazette of the 8th May 1895) it will be seen, that the price of common rice at the end of April ranged from 13 seers in Darjeeling to 21 to 23 seers in Manbhum. In 22 districts, common rice was selling at 14 to 17 seers per rupee; in 15 districts at 17 to 20 seers; and in 5 districts, viz.,

Bankura, Khulna, Balasore, Puri, and Manbhum, at 20 to 23 seers. Only in two districts, viz., Darjeeing and Rangpur, was the price dearer than 14 seers to the rupee.

11. Wheat exports from Bengal and Bihar districts.—There was a marked decrease in the rail-borne exports of wheat from Bengal and Bihar districts to Calcutta during the nine months April to December 1894, as will be seen from the figures quoted in the margin. The falling off was due to the poor outturn of the wheat crop of these Provinces during the year 1893-94, and to the short crops of the North-Western Provinces.

Exports of wheat from Bengal and Bihar districts to Calcutta during the nine months April to December.	Maunds.

The crop of the Buxar sub-division was seriously injured by blight (harda).	The Collector has changed this year's and last year's areas under wheat from 173,400 and 116,900 acres to 115,500 and 116,500 acres respectively, and returned the average rate of yield as 160lbs. per acre in place of 984lbs shown last year.

The following rates of outturn per acre have been assumed by the Collector in the present returns:— Per acre. lb. Sadar ... 984; Banka ... 640; Madhipura 942; Supaul ... 960

Monghyr ...	106,600	106,500	103,000	+0·09	−34·60	13	14	38,000	46,800	40,900	71,600	−18·80	−7·09	−46·92	In Jamui sub-division only 100 acres more were sown than that of last year, and the outturn there is also reported to be 16 annas. In the other two sub-divisions, a larger area could not be sown owing to late rains, and on account of these late sowings, the outturn of the crop is less than what it was last year.
Purnea ...	23,000	22,700	24,000	+1·32	−4·16	14	13	8,500	10,100	8,100	10,500	−12·87	+8·64	−16·19	In the preliminary forecast, it was expected that the outturn of wheat would be an average one. The very scanty rainfall in January and February did scarcely any good to the standing crop, and the early setting in of high west winds materially affected the estimated outturn, which came down to 14 annas.
Sonthal Parganas.	14,200	14,200	15,300	......	−4·05	13	11	3,500	4,300	3,000	4,700	−18·60	+16·66	−25·53	......	The Deputy Commissioner has revised estimates of former years which gave over 60,000 acres under wheat in the Sonthal Parganas.

Burdwan ...	1,400	1,400	2,100	......	−33·33	10½	10½	300	500	300	600	−40·00	......	−25·00	In the Sadar sub-division, owing to excessive rain, the condition of the crop is worse than it was last year. In the Kalna sub-division, heavy rainfall in November 1894 affected the outturn, and it will therefore be the same as was shown last year. Owing to seasonable rainfall at sowing time, the outturn in Katwa sub-division has been better than that of last year.

The acreage under wheat (79,000 acres) returned in the preliminary forecast is very high. Manbhum is not a wheat-producing district, and a small area only is sown with wheat. During his last cold weather tour, Mr. Windsor, Officiating Deputy Commissioner, noticed this, and accordingly the acreage was reduced in submitting the estimate of rabi food-grains. When compared with the neighbouring districts of Bankura, Burdwan, Birbhum, Lohardaga and Hazaribagh, it will be seen that the Manbhum figures were too high, higher than that of Muzaffarpur and Champaran, which are wheat-producing districts. The acreage has therefore been reduced from 79,000 to 8,000 acres.	The former estimates were questioned by this Department in 1892 and 1893.

The district average, i.e., 10 annas, shown in the preliminary estimate, however, remains unaltered. Want of rain at the end of January and in February last much affected the outturn.

Abstract of the information regarding the prices and general condition of stocks of the supply of food-grains in the Province for 1894-95 as furnished by District Officers. (Circulars dated 7th and 14th March 1883, from the Revenue and Agricultural Department, India.)

1	2	3	4	5	6	7
DISTRICT.	Cause of extension of wheat cultivation in recent years.	Whether the produce of the year's supply of food-grains has been much above or much below the average.	Whether the food-stocks of former harvests are plentiful or not.	Whether the prices of food-grains generally have ruled higher or lower than usual.	What have been the causes of increase or decrease of exports of wheat, and how far has the movement been influenced by a scarcity or otherwise of food-grains.	Remarks by the Agricultural Department.
Burdwan ...	......	The produce of the year's supply of food-grains has been an average one in the Sadar sub-division and above the average in Kalna, Katwa and Raniganj sub-divisions.	The food-stocks of former harvests are reported not to be plentiful in the Sadar, Kalna and Katwa sub-divisions, but fairly plentiful in Raniganj sub-division.	The prices of food-grains generally have been normal in the Sadar and Kalna sub-divisions, but have generally ruled higher in the Katwa sub-division, while in Raniganj they have ruled lower than in 1892-93 but higher than in 1891.	Very little wheat is cultivated in this district, and what is cultivated is for home consumption and not for export.
Bankura ...	......	Rice is the principal food-grain here. Bhadoi rice, which is grown on river sides and high lands, produced a 14-anna crop for want of sufficient rainfall in March to May, and for superabundent rainfall and high floods in subsequent months. Winterrice on which the bulk of the population depend produced an 18-anna crop due to favourable weather.	Fairly plentiful throughout the whole district. The Sub-divisional Officer of Vishnupur reports that the good crops of the last two years successively have not been able to restore things to their normal condition in thana Sonamukhi where there had been failure of crops successively for three years previous to 1893-94, and in consequence the circumstances of the different sections of the community have been much straitened.	There was a fall in the rice market throughout the year as compared with the rates of the two previous years. The rate per rupee rose from 18 seers to 20 seers 10 chitaks in 1894-95 against 11 seers 5 chitaks to 17 seers in 1893-94, and 17 seers 8 chitaks to 11 seers 12 chitaks in 1892-93.	Wheat is very sparingly grown in this district and it is not a staple food-grain here. It is consumed locally. The little wheat produced here was largely supplemented by importation from the North-West to meet the local demand.
Birbhum ..	......	The produce of this year's supply of food-grains (chiefly rice) has been above the average.	Plentiful.	Slighty lower than in the previous two years, but higher than the average of the three years preceding 1892-93.	Wheat is grown in this district in a very limited area and is not exported.
Midnapore	......	Above the average, except in limited areas where it was injured by floods.	Except at the Sadar the food-stocks of former harvests are not plentiful.	Lower than usual ...	......
Hooghly ..	......	Above the normal, owing to the favourable rains in November.	Not very plentiful owing to the large export, but probably higher than for some years	Lower than usual on account of good outturn this year.	......

Murshidabad...	......	Slightly below the average	Ditto	Higher than usual	There has not been any perceptible increase or decrease in the export of wheat.
Dinajpur ...	......	Below the average owing to unsatisfactory outturn of winter rice.	Not plentiful among the lower classes but ample with the higher classes.	Gradually getting lower owing to diminution of exports.	......
Rajshahi ...	......	Fully an average one. The produce of rice has been more than average.	Not plentiful	Lower than in last year ...	The export of wheat in 1894 was 2,092 maunds against 25,264 maunds in 1893 and 24,751¾ maunds in 1892.
Rangpur ...	......	Below the average	Plentiful except at Kurigram to meet the local demands.	Higher	There is no export of wheat from this district.
Bogra ...	......	The outturn of the aus crop was 8 annas against 10 annas of the previous year, but that of the aman crop was only about 10 against 18 annas of the year before. This bad result was due to deficient rainfall. Of the rabi crops, the pulses have been 10 annas against 16 annas of the previous year. On the whole, it would appear that, owing to deficient outturn of the aman rice which is the staple food crop of the district, the produce of the year's supply of food-grains was much below the average.	Scanty, a large quantity of the stock being usually sold and exported to other districts.	Not higher than usual. The prices of wheat, rice (common) and gram in 1894-95 were 13 seers 15¾ chitaks, 14 seers 5¼ chitaks, and 12 seers 9¾ chitaks, against 12 seers 11¾ chitaks, 12 seers 3¼ chitaks, and 14 seers 10¼ chitaks in 1893-94, and against an average of last five years of 12 seers 15 4/5 chitaks, 14 seers 6¼ chitaks, and 14 seers 2 1/5 chitaks respectively.	......

Pabna ...	......	About the average, with the exception of rabi crops and pulses. The outturn of the latter crop has been below the average owing to want of seasonable rain.	Not plentiful	Much the same as usual excepting pulses, which have been selling at considerably higher prices than usual owing to deficient supply.	There is practically no export of wheat from this district.
Darjeeling ...	......	Average	The agricultural operations of this district are mainly confined to tea cultivation. The district depends to a large extent on the plains for its supply of food-grains. The supplies in the markets were sufficient during the year under report.	Not higher than usual ...	Wheat is grown only in the hills to a limited extent for local consumption. It is not exported.
Dacca ...	......	Above the average	Not plentiful	Higher than usual at first, but lower since dhan was harvested.	......
Faridpur ...	......	A little above the average	There was scarcity in most parts of the district; hence there were no food-stocks of former harvests.	The price of rice, which is the staple food-grain in the district, is normal this year, but the prices of pulses have generally ruled higher.	The wheat cultivation in this district is not very extensive. The produce is consumed locally.
Backergunge...	......	Above the average, the outturn of winter rice, the chief staple of the district, being 16 annas.	Not plentiful in some parts of the district. The stock was drained elsewhere by the prevalent high prices, and the quantity held over was small.	Higher than usual up to November last, but since December the price has fallen a good deal. Rice is now sold at about Rs. 2-10 per maund, and this price is expected to continue till the next harvest. The usual price is Rs. 3 per maund.	......
Mymensingh...	......	About or a little above the average ...	Not plentiful except in the Jamalpur sub-division.	Up to October 1894 very high. Since November last lower than the average prices of the last two years.	......
Tippera ...	......	Much above the average, the outturn being fully 19 annas this year.	Abundant, but are derived from the harvest of the year.	Lower than usual	......

DISTRICT.	Cause of extension of wheat cultivation in recent years.	Whether the produce of the year's supply of food-grains has been much above or much below the average.	Whether the food-stocks of former harvests are plentiful or not.	Whether the prices of food-grains generally have ruled higher or lower than usual.	What have been the causes of increase or decrease of exports of wheat, and how far has the movement been influenced by a scarcity or otherwise of food-grains.	Remarks by the Agricultural Department.
Chittagong ...	......	Much above the average	Small, as is usual in this district, much grain being exported.	Lower, owing to the abundance of the harvest.	....
Patna ..	......	Above the average except in Barh, where the produce of supply of food-grains was normal.	Plentiful except in Barh	The prices of food grains have shown no variation in Sadar and Dinapore sub-divisions. In Bihar they have ruled lower than usual and have been lower than the preceding year in Barh.	The increase or decrease in the export of wheat is said not to have been marked in Sadar and Bihar sub-divisions. It was inconsiderable in Barh. No increase or decrease in Dinapore at all.
Gaya ..	......	Slightly below the average. The bhadoi and the rabi crops were considerably below the average, but the main crop of the year, the winter rice crop, was above it.	The food-stocks of former harvests are not plentiful.	The prices of food-grains generally have ruled much about the normal, if anything slightly below it.	The export of wheat during 1894-95 appears to have been the same as during 1893-94. There were no signs of scarcity during the year under review.
Shahabad ...	......	The produce of the north-western part of the district was about an average, that of the south-western portion is reported to have been above the average.	Sufficient for requirements	Lower in Buxar and Sassaram, stationary at Bhabua and Arrah. The prices of mustard and oilseeds ruled higher than last year owing to their bad harvests.	The export of wheat during the year has decreased on account of the scanty harvests of the preceding year and on account of late sowing owing to unusual rain during the past year. No movement was, however, caused by the scarcity of food-grains or otherwise.
Darbhanga ...	......	A little below the average. During the year, the bhadoi crops yielded an outturn of 16 annas in the Sadar subdivision, 14 annas in Samastipur and 12 annas in Madhubani, or 14 annas for the whole district. Rice was 16 annas throughout the district. The average outturn of rabi for the whole district has been estimated at 16 annas.	Not generally plentiful, and this is probably due to abnormal rainfall and floods, which injuriously affected the bhadoi and winter rice crops.	The prices of common rice and marua have ruled lower than in the preceding year. Those of gram, wheat and rahar were, however, throughout the year higher than in the previous year.	The cultivation of wheat is not largely carried on in the district, and the produce is generally consumed locally. Its export is not carried on to any appreciable extent.

Muzaffarpur ...	......	Not much below the average. The outturn of the crops of 1894-95 was bhadoi 13 annas, winter rice 14 annas, and rabi 16 annas, or on the whole about 14 annas, against 10 annas in the preceding year.	Plentiful and more than sufficient to meet the requirements of the district.	Lower than in 1893-94, and not higher than usual.	There was as usual little or no exportation of wheat from this district during the year under report.
Saran	......	Below the average	Plentiful	Higher than last year ...	Very little wheat is exported from this district.
Champaran ...	......	Above the average	Not plentiful	Lower than in the two preceding years.	There has been no marked increase or decrease of export of wheat this year.
Monghyr ...	......	Average in the Sadar, below the average in the Begusarai, and much above the average in the Jamui subdivision.	Not plentiful in the Sadar	Lower than usual, lower on the whole in Jamui, but stationary in Begusarai.	Normal in the Sadar, generally increased in Jamui, and unchanged in Begusarai.
Bhagalpur ...	......	Decidedly above the average	Plentiful in the north of the district and rather depleted elsewhere.	Lower than usual	There has been an increase of export of wheat in the north due to improved railway communication and good harvests. The staple food is rice and marua, and the movement did not affect it in any way. There has also been an immense export of wheat and rice from the south, including Sonthal Parganas.
Purnea ...	......	Paddy, the principal food-grain of the district, gave an average outturn; bhadoi rice 16 annas and winter rice 16½ annas; other food-grains also gave an yield a little below the average.	Plentiful, as will appear from the low prices now ruling in the market, as compared with the preceding two years.	Ditto	Wheat is not extensively grown in the district, so that there never was any large export. The stocks in the hands of the cultivators, consequent on the fair harvests of the current and the preceding years, were more than what was required for their home consumption, and thus there was a small increase in the export of wheat during the current year.

DISTRICT.	Cause of extension of wheat cultivation in recent years.	Whether the produce of the year's supply of food-grains has been much above or much below the average.	Whether the food-stocks of former harvests are plentiful or not.	Whether the prices of food-grain generally have ruled higher or lower than usual.	What have been the causes of increase or decrease of exports of wheat, and how far has the movement been influenced by a scarcity or otherwise of food-grains.	Remarks by the Agricultural Department.
Malda	......	Average	Plentiful	Higher than usual	During the year under report, the export of wheat was on the decrease on account of its high price.
Sonthal Parganas.	......	Average in Dumka and Jamtara sub-divisions. In Deohar sub-division, the outturn of winter rice has been average and that of bhadoi and rabi below the average; in Godda and Pakaur, it has been below and in Rajmahal above the average.	Not plentiful	Much as usual	The export of wheat was large at Godda, less than usual in Rajmahal and normal at Pakaur. Elsewhere there were no exports or imports to speak of.
Cuttack ...	......	Below the average. Winter rice 13 annas, bhadoi rice 11 annas, wheat 12 annas, barley 12 annas, summer rice 15 annas, gram 12 annas, and other rabi pulses 14 annas. There would have been a bumper crop of winter rice during the year had not the very high flood of July last done much damage to the crop.	Not plentiful. Winter rice 11 annas, bhadoi rice 10 annas, wheat 10 annas barley 10 annas, summer rice 14 annas, gram 10 annas, and other rabi pulses 10 annas. During the first-half of the year 1894-95 there was much scarcity and the people suffered much till the crops were reaped. This will show that the stocks at the beginning of the year after considerable exportation as usual, were not sufficient for a year's consumption.	Higher than usual during first-half of the year. Rice is the staple-food of the district. The average price at which common rice was sold during each month of the year is shown below:— S. CH. April 1894 ... 14 12 May ,, ... 13 8 June ,, ... 12 3 July ,, ... 11 14 August ,, ... 12 8 September ,, ... 12 13 October ,, ... 15 6 November ,, ... 18 9 December ,, ... 21 15 January 1895 ... 22 10 February ,, ... 22 6 March ,, ... 23 5

Hazaribagh ...	......	Average	Fairly plentiful	Same as usual	No export trade in wheat in this district.
Lohardaga ...	......	Much above the average	Not plentiful	Lower than in previous years	Wheat is produced in small quantities in this district and is never exported. It is imported in large quantities from other districts to meet the requirements of the people.
Palamau ...	......	Below the average	Fairly plentiful	The prices have not varied to any appreciable extent.	There appears to have been no variation in the export of wheat from this district.	To the belief of the Deputy Commissioner, the produce of the year's supply of food-grains has been decidedly above the average. The bhadoi only was a short crop, while winter rice and rabi crops were much above the average.
Manbhum ...	......	The produce of the year's supply of food-grains is given below — Annas. Winter rice ... 16 Bhadoi .. { Paddy ... ... 12; Maize ... ... 8; Millets ... ... 8; Pulses ... ... 12 } Rabi ... { Wheat ... ... 10; Barley ... ... 12; Gram ... ... 12; Pulses ... ... 12 } In the above figures, 16 annas represents a full or average crop. It is evident that the present year's outturn of each of the crops was more or less above the average of last year. The rice crop was 16 annas almost all round, and in some places 18 annas.	The food-stocks of former harvests cannot be said to be plentiful. The outturn of crops in 1893-94 (except rice) was not very favourable, and consequently the poorer classes suffered a little, though there was nothing like scarcity or famine. The harvest of the year just passed has been generally good, and in some places the cultivators reaped two years' harvest. Owing to heavy rains, the maize crop, which is one of the staple food-grains in the district, suffered a great deal.	Lower than last year. Exportation of rice was much less this year, and the prices are therefore easier now.	Manbhum is not a wheat-producing district. What it does produce is consumed locally, and no portion of it is exported to any other district.
Singhbhum ...	......	Fair ; about an average	Plentiful	Higher than usual	Wheat is not exported from this district to any appreciable extent.

Explanation.—... indicates that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received, the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are wanting, the corresponding spaces in the total rainfall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is when at least 0·10 inch of rain has fallen.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATURDAY, THE 18TH OF MAY 1895.

AT the beginning of the week the pressure distribution was almost normal, and a light circulation of winds, such as prevails in the middle of May, obtained. The general direction was southerly in Lower Bengal and easterly in the northern districts. Temperature, however, was considerably above the normal in the northern and central districts, and almost normal in Chota Nagpur and part of Orissa. Throughout the week there has been a steady downward tendency of pressure; but as these changes have been fairly uniform, the distribution over the province has undergone but little modification. The changes over the Bay have been of greater importance, and by the end of the week led to steep gradients and strong westerly winds over the southern part between Ceylon and Burmah. Owing to the light nature of the wind circulation, the slight variations of the pressure distribution were followed by occasional changes in the wind directions from south-west to south-east, and gave rise to local storms, more especially in the western districts. These storms occurred generally about the 12th and 13th, and again between the 15th and 17th except in North Bengal and Cachar, where rainfall was more frequent and heavy. The weather being generally settled and the sky free from clouds during the day, high temperature has prevailed. There was moderate defect in Orissa, Chota Nagpur, and part of Bihar in the early part of the week when local storms were occurring in these districts, but elsewhere excess of rather variable amounts continued from day to day during the week, the maximum difference from the normal being very rarely more than 5°. Thus the weather of the week has been characterised by falling pressure, increasing temperature, and almost normal rainfall in the western and central districts. In East Bengal and North Bengal the rainfall distribution is abnormal in there being considerably less than the usual amount in East Bengal and considerably more in North Bengal.

Pressure.—As stated above, pressure was nearly normal at the beginning of the week, there being excess of less than ·05 inch. A moderately quick fall was then general, the change diminishing towards the south. This continued during the first half of the week, after which there was a slow rise for two days, but the fall began again on the 17th and continued till the end of the week. Readings were about a fifth of an inch lower at the end of the week than at the beginning; but as the change had been uniform over Bengal and the north of the Bay, the distribution in these parts was practically the same. In the south of the Bay gradients were much steeper. The mean pressure for the week is below the normal everywhere by amounts varying between ·06 inch and ·08 inch.

Temperature has been high, except in the south-western districts in the early part of the week. The highest temperature recorded in Bihar was 108°, and in South-West Bengal, Orissa, and Chota Nagpur between 104° and 105°. These high readings occurred on the 18th, the last day of the week. Mean temperature is practically normal in Orissa and Chota Nagpur, and above in the other districts by 2° in East Bengal and Bihar, 1°·6 in South-West Bengal, 3° in North Bengal, and nearly 4° in Assam.

Rainfall.—Scattered showers have fallen in all districts, more frequently on the 12th and 13th and on the 15th and 16th. In the Jalpaiguri, Darjeeling, and Cooch Bihar districts of North Bengal rain has fallen almost daily. The average fall has been very uniform, and is about ·7 inch except in North Bengal, where it is 2·08 inches. South-West Bengal and East Bengal have received less than the normal fall, and the other districts more, especially North Bengal, where excess is ·7 inch.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the six meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 18th of May 1895:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

Shoal S. S. W. of Halfway island.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 195 of 1895) that the steam vessel Duke of Buckingham recently touched on a shoal patch, situated near the track recommended, about 3½ miles S.S.W. (S. 22° W.) from Halfway island, or approximately in lat. 11° 26′ S.; long. 142° 56′ E.

It is probable that this is the shoal reported by Captain Pearn in 1878 about one mile north-east of this position, and which has hitherto been searched for in vain, but which still remains on the Admiralty chart.

H. J. S. COTTON,

Chief Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

NOTIFICATION—No. 3324A.

The 28*th May* 1895.—The following revised rules for the conduct of the departmental examinations, held under the direction and control of the Central Examination Committee, having been sanctioned by the Lieutenant-Governor and approved by the Government of India, are hereby published for general information:—

Section 1.—General.

1. These rules shall apply to the departmental examinations of the junior members of the Indian Civil Service, the Executive Branch of the Provincial Civil Service, Subordinate Civil Service, Police, Opium, Forest and other Departments of the Public Service to whom they may from time to time be made applicable.

2. All Assistant Magistrates, Deputy Magistrates and Collectors, Special Deputy Collectors, Sub-Deputy Collectors who, on the 4th July 1892, had not been confirmed in their appointments (vide Appendix XII), Assistant Superintendents of Police, and others (to whom these rules may be applicable), who may have been more than six months on duty, shall, and those who have been less than six months on duty, may, at their option, be subjected to half-yearly departmental examinations, and shall be required to pass according to the standard, or the standards, of examination which may be applicable to them respectively in each subject, according to the rules hereinafter set forth.

3. To direct and control these (half-yearly) departmental examinations, there shall be a Central Examination Committee appointed by Government. It shall consist of a President and of as many members (of whom one shall be Secretary) as the Government may think proper to appoint from time to time.

4. The examinations will be held, in the Regulation Provinces, at any station which is the head-quarters of a Divisional Commissioner, or where there is a District Judge. They may also, with the previous consent of the Central Examination Committee, be held at any station where there is a Deputy Commissioner.

5. Each Divisional Commissioner shall notify in the Calcutta Gazette, at least one month before the date of examination, at what stations in his Division examinations are to be held, and shall report to the Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal the names of intending examinees, specifying at which centre of examination each is to attend. If a Divisional Commissioner has only a very few examinees, and if the means of locomotion are easy, he will probably have only one or two centres of examination in his Division. Heads of Departments will, in the same way, notify to the Chief Secretary the names of intending examinees in their respective departments, specifying at which centre each is to attend.

6. The Government, after collecting all the lists, will prepare a complete list of all officers liable to appear at the examination, and forward a general list to the Secretary to the Central Examination Committee at least three weeks before the examination, and extracts to the Presidents of the Local Committees.

7. The Central Examination Committee may, on sufficient cause being shown, permit the appearance of an officer for examination at a station other than that at which, under ordinary circumstances, he would be required to present himself.

8. Local Committees shall be formed at the several stations at which examinations are to be held, and they shall conduct the examinations under the instructions of the Central Committee.

9. The Local Committee at each station, which is the head-quarters of a Commissioner, shall consist of the Commissioner, the Collector (or Deputy Commissioner), and a native civil officer to be selected by the Commissioner. In the absence of the Commissioner, the Judge (or Judicial Commissioner) shall take his place on the Committee. At the other stations the Committee shall consist of the Judge, the Collector, and a native officer to be selected by the Judge. In the event of the Collector being unavoidably prevented from attending for reasons to be submitted to the President of the Local Committee in writing, the Commissioner or Judge may appoint a Deputy Magistrate or other native civil officer to take the Collector's place on the Committee. At the stations in the Non-Regulation Provinces which are not the head-quarters of the Commissioner, the Deputy Commissioner shall form a Committee, with one or two other officers to be selected by him.

10. The Government will, in communication with the Central Committee, fix the dates for the half-yearly examination, which shall be the same for every district. The first half-yearly examination will usually be held in the month of April or May, and the second in the month of October or November.

11. It shall be the duty of the Central Committee to prepare, previous to each half-yearly examination, sets of questions to be put to the examinees, to forward a sufficient number of copies of each of such sets to the President of each Local Committee in a sealed packet, to determine the order in which the examination in each paper and subject shall be held, and to arrange all other details for the conduct of the examinations. The time fixed for each paper shall be notified in the Calcutta Gazette. The Central Committee shall from time to time lay down such rules as may appear to them best for the guidance of the Local Committees, in order to ensure a fair and uniform method of ascertaining the proficiency of the examinee in each subject.

12. The sealed packet of papers shall remain in the custody of the President of the Local Examination Committee, who shall not open it until the time of examination. The Committee shall superintend the written examination of the examinees only so far as may be necessary to ensure its being conducted with proper strictness; they shall not examine the written answers, but shall forward them to the Central Committee with a statement specifying the marks which they assign to candidates for conversational proficiency in the vernacular, in which branch their decision shall be final. They shall further, in the case of the members of the Indian Civil Service, the Executive Branch of the Provincial Civil Service, the Subordinate Civil Service, and the Police Department, forward a report which shall be furnished by District Officers and Commissioners under whom the examinees have been employed, respecting their official character, qualifications, and the work done by them during the preceding six months.

13. The Central Committee, after perusing the reports and the examination papers, shall report to Government the names of such officers as, in their opinion, have passed, noticing specially, in the order of their merit, those who may have passed with distinction. They shall also report the names of those officers who have succeeded in some of the subjects only.

Section II.—Officers of the Indian Civil Service, the Executive Branch of the Provincial Civil Service, and Subordinate Civil Service.

14. There shall be two standards of examination in Law, Treasury and Local Fund Accounts, and Languages,—the Lower and the Higher Standards. With the exceptions specified below, officers are required to pass in Law, Accounts and in the language of the district by both the Higher and the Lower Standards, and in a second language by the Higher Standard only.

15. In Appendix V will be found the rules prescribing the tests in the vernacular which officers are required to satisfy.

16. The object of the Lower Standard of examination in Law shall be to test the examinee's practical acquaintance with the Criminal Codes, and his general knowledge of certain of the more important local laws, regulations and rules One paper shall be prepared specially for this examination, which shall be confined to the Criminal Codes. The use of only Codes as issued by the Legislative Department, shall be allowed for this paper. The questions must not be such as can be answered by copying a passage from a book; but they must be such as shall thoroughly test the capacity of the examinees to understand the bearing of facts, and to ascertain the law and apply it. Another paper shall be prepared consisting of questions on the local laws, regulations and rules enumerated in Appendix I. These must be answered without the aid of books. This paper is designed equally for the candidates for examination by the Lower and Higher Standards, but the number of pass marks shall be less in the case of examinees by the Lower than in that of those by the Higher Standard of examination.

17. In the examination by the Higher Standard, it is necessary for the examinee to pass under the rules referred to above in two vernacular languages—ordinarily Bengali and Hindustani. All examinees will be required to pass in Law in two papers. The nature of the one, in answering the questions in which the use of books will not be allowed, has already been explained in paragraph 16. The other paper, for which the use of books will be allowed, will contain questions on the local laws, regulations and rules, set forth in Appendix II. Only unannotated editions of Acts or Codes and Manuals issued by authority will be allowed in answering this paper. The questions should be confined as much as possible to cases commonly arising in the ordinary routine of the office of a Magistrate and Collector. Certain facts of probable occurrence in real practice should be stated, and the examinee required to find and apply the law applicable to the facts.

18. In Accounts there will be two Standards of examination,—the Lower and the Higher. The scope of the questions at the former will be somewhat elementary, but candidates at the latter will be required to exhibit a satisfactory general acquaintance with the whole system of provincial accounts. The examination will be with the aid of books, a list of which is given in Appendix III.

19. An officer of the Indian Civil Service must pass the examination in Law, in Accounts, and in both languages by the Higher Standard. He will be required to pass by the Lower Standard only in Accounts and in the vernacular of the district in which he is serving.

20. Officers who, after passing in the higher grade the examination for admission into the Subordinate Executive Service held in 1873 or subsequently, have received appointments in that service, will be subject to no further examination except the Higher Standard departmental examination. Candidates who passed at the Subordinate Executive Service examination which was held in 1872 are exempted from examination by the Lower Standard in the vernacular only. They will be required to pass in Law and in Accounts by that standard.

21. Officers (except those whose cases are provided for by rule 20), who obtained appointments in the Subordinate Executive Service after passing the competitive examinations held in 1884 and in subsequent years, and all who may similarly obtain them in future, will be required to pass the departmental examinations by both standards.

22. An officer of the Indian Civil Service is permitted to present himself for examination by both the Higher and Lower Standards at the same time. If he passes in either of the papers, he will be held to qualify for the Lower Standard, but passing marks should be obtained in both sets of papers to qualify for the Higher Standard. No other officer shall be permitted to take up any of the subjects by the Higher Standard examination until he shall have completely passed in such subject by the Lower Standard.

23. An officer, who succeeds in passing by either standard (a) in Law, (b) in Accounts, or (c) in either of the languages, shall not again be required to present himself for examination by the same standard in the subject in which he was successful, but only in those in which he failed.

24. The marks to be assigned to each branch of the examination in Law and examination in Accounts, the proportion required for passing by the different standards, and the time allowed for each paper, are set forth in Appendix IV. The same information as regards the examination in Languages will be found in Appendix V. Uniformity must be rigidly enforced in the time allowed for each subject, whether in Law, Accounts or Language.

25. An officer who has passed according to the Lower Standard of examination, and who has exercised the powers of a Magistrate of the third class for six months, shall usually be vested with the powers of a Magistrate of the second class, described in sections 32, 33, 35, and 36 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (Act X of 1882), provided he is certified by the Commissioner to be fully competent to exercise them. Assistant Magistrates will also then be vested with the powers of a Deputy Collector.

26. An officer, however, who shall have passed by the Lower Standard in the Criminal Codes, accounts, and in the language of his district, may on the Commissioner's recommendation be vested with the powers of a Magistrate of the second class, provided he has had not less than six months' experience in his magisterial duties.

27. An officer who has passed according to the Higher Standard shall be eligible to be vested with the powers of a Magistrate of the first class, but not until he shall have exercised the powers of a Magistrate of the second class for at least six months.

28. An officer, who has passed in law and in the language of his district according to the Higher Standard, may also be vested with the powers of a Magistrate of the first class, subject to the condition of his having exercised the powers of a Magistrate of the second class for six months; but he shall not be entitled to any promotion or increase of pay until he has passed fully by the second standard. He shall exercise the powers of a Magistrate of the first class so long only as he is employed in a district where the language in which he has passed is the vernacular.

29. Assistant Magistrates being members of the Indian Civil Service, on first appointment, draw only Rs. 400 a month. On passing the Lower Standard of examination and being invested with the powers of a Magistrate of the second class, they shall be allowed an increase of Rs. 50 a month, provided they have exercised the powers of a Magistrate of the third class for six months at least; and on passing fully the Higher Standard, and being invested with the powers of a Magistrate of the first class, they will receive a second increase of Rs. 50, provided they have also exercised the powers of a Magistrate of the second class for not less than six months.

30. It is the duty of district officers to look to the practical training of the young officers placed under them from their first entering into official life till they acquire a practical experience of their work and qualify themselves for the exercise of higher powers by passing the prescribed examinations. District officers are expected to take active interest in the well-being of the young men placed under them, by exercising due supervision over their studies, by holding periodical examinations to test their qualifications and official knowledge, and by any other means which may seem to them to be expedient for the purpose. They will be careful to see that the young officers subordinate to them are afforded opportunities, whenever possible, of learning Treasury work (vide Appendix XI).

Section III.—Police officers.

31. There shall be two standards of examination in Law and Languages,—the Lower and the Higher Standard. As regards the examination in Languages, rules 15 and 22 above shall apply to Police officers. The same papers in Languages will be set for Police officers as for the officers to whom the rules in section II apply. For the Lower Standard in Law, questions shall be set from the Penal Code, the Code of Criminal Procedure, Act V of 1861, the Village Chaukidari Act, VI (B.C.) of 1870, or any Act amending it, in force at the time of examination, Act I (B.C.) of 1871, Act I of 1886, and Chapters IV, VIII, XV, and XVI of the Police Manual. The use of books will be allowed in answering these questions: only unannotated Codes, or Acts issued by authority, and the Police Manual may be used. For the Higher Standard the questions will be taken from the same Acts, from any part of the Police Manual, from all the Circulars of the Police Department, from the Excise, Salt and Opium Laws, from Act III (B.C.) of 1884 (so far as it relates to Police), and from the Evidence Act I of 1872, Act IV of 1884 (Explosives), Act II (B.C.) of 1889 (Fisheries), Act II (B.C.) of 1867 (Gambling), Act IV of 1879 (Railway), Act IX of 1890 (Railway) Act I of 1882, sections 172, 173 (Emigration), Act XI of 1890 (Cruelty to Animals), Act XXVII of 1871 (Criminal Tribes), and all amending Acts. In this examination the use of books will not be allowed. No officer will be permitted to take up Law by the Higher Standard until he has passed in that subject by the Lower Standard.

The marks to be assigned to the examination in Law, the proportion required for passing by the different standards, and the time allowed for each paper, are set forth in Appendix IV. The same information as regards the examination in Languages will be found in Appendix V,

32. Police Officers transferred to the Executive Service, or who desire such transfer, will be required to satisfy the same tests as those prescribed above for officers of the Executive Branch of the Provincial Civil Service, subject to the exception noted below.

33. When such an officer has already passed by either standard in a language, the pass will be accepted as sufficient to that degree.

34. Any officer so transferred who has passed in Law by the Lower Standard (as hitherto required for the Police) will be required to pass for the Lower Standard in the general papers of local laws, etc. He will be exempted from examinaton in the Criminal Codes prescribed for the Lower Standard if he so desire; but if he elects to pass, such pass will be taken into account in his favour.

35. Such officers who have passed by the Higher Police Standard in Law will still be required to pass in both law papers prescribed in paragraph 17 above, the term "law" including Revenue and General law.

Section IV.—Officers of other Departments to whom these Rules have been made applicable.

36. Officers of the Opium Department will be examined, after admission to the Department, in the subjects mentioned in Government orders No. 1157G. of 28th October 1872, as amended by Government orders No. 2504-Opium, dated the 17th July 1893, to the address of the Secretary, Board of Revenue, particulars of which are stated in Appendix VII.

37. Forest officers will be examined, after admission to the Department, in the subjects mentioned in sections 72, 73, 74, 76, 77 and 78 and Appendix V of the Forest Department Code, 4th edition particulars of which are stated in Appendix VIII.

40. For the examination of Officers in cases, a case not being of special difficulty should be selected by the President of the Local Examination Committee. In selecting a case it should be remembered that Officers will only exercise magisterial powers under Act III (B.C.) of 1876 (Bengal Irrigation Act). The local Committees will merely state their opinion on the merits of each candidate's judgment and not transmit this part of the proceedings. The case selected shall be in the Court vernacular of the district in which the examination is held.

Section V.—Miscellaneous.

41. Officers attending these examinations will be allowed travelling allowance, subjec to the rules laid down in Section IV, Chapter L, of the Civil Service Regulations.

42. No application, from any junior officer liable to examination, for privilege leave or leave on private affairs, will be entertained if the following half-yearly examination takes place before the expiry of the leave applied for, unless the application specifies that the applicant will attend the examination.

43. If such leave is applied for, and the application from such an officer is submitted to Government, it should be stated that he is liable to pass an examination, and that the next examination will be held within the period of the leave applied for. This will enable the Lieutenant-Governor to decide whether, for the reasons stated, the leave should be granted; and, if so, on what conditions.

APPENDIX V.

Rules for the examination of Civil Officers in the Lower Provinces of Bengal in the Vernaculars.

Officers to whom the rules apply.

The following rules for the examination of civil officers in the Lower Provinces of Bengal apply to all officers of the classes specified in them, and to such others as the Local Government may from time to time direct. They do not affect the rules for the encourgement of the study of the languages of frontier tribes, a copy of which is given in Appendix VI.

2. Two grades of examination are recognised:—

(I) The Higher Standard of examination for civil officers, held under the direction and control of the Central Examination Committee.

(II) The Lower Standard of examination for civil officers held under the direction and control of the Central Examination Committee.

Officers of the Survey, Education, and Public Works Departments.

3. Officers of the Public Works, Education, and Survey Departments are examined under special rules. In their case the standard specified in grade II will be accepted as sufficient, should they exceptionally have to be examined along with the officers attached to the general administration.

Officers of the Executive Branch of the Provincial Civil Service and the Subordinate Civil Service.

4. No native member of the Executive Branch of the Provincial Civil Service and the Subordinate Civil Service is liable to examination in a language which is his own vernacular.

Subject to the above proviso—

(i) All members of the above services are required to pass by the Higher and Lower Standards in the vernacular of the district in which they may be serving.

(ii) After so passing, if transferred to a district with a different vernacular, they will be required to pass in that vernacular by the higher standard only within two years of their arrival in the district. During this period they will, if otherwise qualified, be considered as eligible for promotion, but after the expiry of the two years they will, as long as they remain in the district, receive no promotion until they pass in the second language.

* For the lower standard of examination, candidates are required to pass in the following chapters of Volume I of the Civil Account Code only, viz., Chapters 1, 3 to 6, 9, 13, 15, 16, 18, 19 to 21, 29 to 31, and Appendix K.

(iii) If, after passing in the second language referred to above, they are again transferred to a district where there is a third vernacular, they will be required to pass in that vernacular also by the Higher Standard only within two years* of their arrival in the district. During this period they will, if otherwise qualified, be considered as eligible for promotion, but after the expiry of the two years they will, as long as they remain in the district, receive no promotion until they pass in the third language.

Officers passing in a third language under this rule will be entitled to a reward of Rs. 180.

Special rules for medical officers.

5. Medical officers in civil employ, if they have not already passed by the Military Higher or Lower Standard, will be required to pass in the language of the district by the standard specified in grade II.

6. Medical officers in civil employ, who have passed in one language under the above rules, if posted to a district where another language is the vernacular, will be required also to pass in it, but only by a conversational test designed to prove their ability to converse with the people and be understood by them.

No native medical officer shall be liable to examination in a language which is his own vernacular.

Officers required to pass in two languages:—
1. Indian Civil Servants.
2. Assistant Superintendents of Police.

7. The officers named in the margin are required to pass by the standard specified in grade I above in two languages, of which Hindustani is one and Bengali the other. In the case of officers employed in Orissa, the two languages will be Hindustani and Uriya.

Order in which the languages must be taken up.

8. Officers generally are required, in the first instance, to pass in the language of the district in which they are serving by the Lower Standard specified in grade II above, before attempting a second language, in which passing by the Higher Standard only will be required.

Officers exempt from the Lower Standard of Examination.

9. Uncovenanted officers, who have passed in any vernacular at the Native Civil Service Examination, are not required to pass in it again by the Lower Standard of departmental examinations, but may go up for the Higher Standard in cases where they become liable to this examination.

10. An officer liable to pass in two languages when he has passed in the language of the district by the Lower Standard, as required in rule 8 above, may present himself for examination by the Higher Standard in that language and in the second language, which will be Hindustani in the case of those who first qualify in Bengali or Uriya, and in the case of those who first pass in Hindustani, Bengali, or, if they be posted in Orissa, Uriya.

Cases in which a third language is compulsory.

11. Members of the Indian Civil Service and the Statutory Civil Service who are of less than 12 years' standing, and have passed in Hindustani and Bengali, will, on transfer to Orissa, as a condition of promotion to the substantive grade of Magistrate, be required to pass in Uriya as a third language. Similarly, those who have passed in Hindustani and Uriya only, will, on transfer to Bengal, be required to pass in Bengali as a third language. On passing in a third language under this rule, covenanted and statutory civilians become entitled to a reward of Rs. 500.

12. Assistant Superintendents of Police, who have passed in Hindustani and Bengali under rule 7 of Appendix V above, will on transfer to Orissa be liable to pass in Uriya as a third language, and unless they pass in it within two years* after their arrival there, they will not be considered eligible for promotion after that period until they have passed. On passing in Uriya they will be entitled to a reward of Rs. 180. Similarly, for those officers who have passed in Hindustani and Uriya, and are transferred to a Bengali-speaking district, Bengali will be a third language to be treated as above.

13. The examination specified in grade I above and the Lower Standard of examination specified in grade II above will be held under the rules for the conduct of the departmental examination of civil officers, and under the direction and control of the Central Examination Committee in Calcutta.

The following are the tests prescribed for the two grades of examinations:—

Grade I.—The Higher Standard of Departmental Examination.

A.—Reading current handwriting in the vernacular.†

A document of the more difficult description of office papers, selected and lithographed by the Central Examination Committee, shall be transliterated‡ into the Roman character according to the Hunterian or Wilsonian system. Special marks will be assigned for the correct use of this system.

B.—A written translation from the vernacular into English.

The same document shall also be translated into English correctly.

C.—A written translation from English into the vernacular.†

* In the case of officers serving on the date of this notification, the two years referred to in the above rule will count from such date.

† The Hindustani paper will be in the Kaithi character for all officers except Opium Officers of the Benares Agency, for whom special rules have been prescribed (vide Appendix VII).

‡ For the rules for transliteration, see circular order No. 311, dated the 20th March 1894, issued by the Central Examination Committee.

An English judgment or other official document of a somewhat difficult nature, selected by the Central Examination Committee, shall be translated into the vernacular without assistance, and in a generally correct manner.

D.—Dictation from English into the vernacular.

An English report or other official paper of some difficulty shall be translated into the vernacular and dictated off-hand fluently and intelligibly, and the translation written down by a clerk exactly as dictated.*

E.—Conversation in the vernacular.

The examinee shall be tested in conversation with several natives in such a manner as to satisfy the local Committee of his power of making himself understood by them, and of explaining himself with clearness and sufficient propriety in the vernacular in an argument or topic of some difficulty, such as may occur in official business.

The maximum and the pass marks assigned to each branch of the examination, and the time allowed for the papers, are subjoined:—

Subjects of examination.		Maximum marks.	Passing marks.	Time.
Transliteration	One paper ...	20	10	One and-a-half hour.
Translation from vernacular ...		20	10
Ditto from English		20	10	Two hours.
Dictation ditto		20	10	Half an hour.
Conversation		20	10	Ten minutes.

Grade II.—The Lower Standard of Departmental Examination.

For this examination the tests shall be the same as the above, but the papers shall be less difficult. The proportion of marks to be obtained in order to pass, and the time allowed for the papers, shall be the same as for the Higher Standard above described. The principal object of this examination shall be to test the proficiency for practical purposes of the examinee in such language.

14. No native officer (these rules notwithstanding) shall be liable to examination in a language which is his own vernacular. The Commissioners or Heads of Departments submitting the lists of intending examinees under rule 5 of the Rules will consider each case, and, on satisfying themselves, may exempt the candidate from examination in such language, reporting their reasons for doing so to Government.

15. No reward shall be paid to any native officer for passing in any language with which, from his birth or education, he is naturally familiar, or which is closely allied to his vernacular language. For the purposes of this rule Bengali and Uriya will be considered to be closely allied languages.

APPENDIX VI.

Rules for the encouragement of the study of the languages of Frontier Tribes mentioned in paragraph 1 of Appendix V.

The following are the rules sanctioned for granting rewards to civil officers in Bengal for proficiency in the languages of frontier tribes.

A second reward will in no case be given to an officer for proficiency in a second language of the same group. The grant of a reward is in every case subject to the condition that it will not be allowed to a native candidate for passing an examination in any language with which, from his birth or education, he is naturally familiar, or which is closely allied to his vernacular language.

(c) He must without assistance translate from English or his mother-tongue into the tribal language (writing it in either the English, or Bengali, or Hindi character) sentences not of a more difficult nature than those described in clause (b). The translation must be substantially correct and intelligible when read to a native in whose language it might be written.

5. These rules will not affect those prescribing the rewards to which junior civilians, who succeed in passing High Proficiency and Honours examinations in certain specified languages, will be entitled.

APPENDIX VII.

Assistants in the Benares Agency will ordinarily pass in Urdu (Persian character) and Hindi (Nagri character), and the Assistants in the Bihar Agency in Hindi (Kaithi character). Assistants are liable to transfer from one Agency to the other. On such transfer, if otherwise qualified, they will be considered as eligible for promotion without passing in the vernacular of the Agency to which they have been transferred for a period of two years from the time of their arrival in the Agency to which they have been transferred. After the expiry of that period they will not be eligible for promotion until they pass in the vernacular of the Agency.

1. Officers of the Forest Department in Bengal will be required to pass in both the grades referred to in rule 2, Appendix V, in Bengali or Hindustani, according as the one or the other is prescribed for each officer by the Conservator, with the sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor, under section 73 of the Forest Department Code. The examinations will be conducted under the orders of the Central Examination Committee, Calcutta, at the several local centres, as provided for in the foregoing examination rules. Special papers will, however, be prepared for Forest Officers, in which technical judicial terms will be avoided and such terms substituted as bear directly on forest work.

2. A Forest Officer passing the above examinations will be considered to have fulfilled the conditions as regards examination in Languages laid down in section 73 of the Forest Department Code, 4th Edition, for the purpose of promotion to the higher grades. The examinations passed by Forest Officers in Hindustani by the Military standard in the other provinces or in Bengal, previous to the issue of these orders, will, however, hold good for the purposes of promotion.

3. The rules prescribed in Appendix V for the conduct of departmental examinations of other Civil Officers will, as far as practicable, be applicable to the examinations of Forest Officers.

4. Forest Officers will be allowed to present themselves for examination in any "principal" language of their province by both the Lower and the Higher Standards at the same time with the permission of the Conservator of Forests: an officer who passes in either of the papers will be held to have qualified for the Lower Standard, but passing marks must be obtained in both sets of papers to qualify for the Higher Standard.

The answers of each examinee are taken down in writing by, or under the immediate superintendence of, a member of the Local Examination Committee; and are forwarded (under their joint signatures) in a registered cover on the day of the examination to the Conservator of Forests, who will adjudge the marks to be allotted on the system in force for the written papers.

A total of over 160 marks, gained on both the papers in the written and oral examinations together in any one of the three subjects will entitle the examinee to a certificate of having passed "with credit," in that subject, and a total of over 180 marks to a certificate of having passed "with great credit" provided that no examinee can be held to have passed "with credit" in any subject, if no marks are allotted for the answer to any one of the questions set in that subject either in the written or in the oral examination.

6. The Central Examination Committee, after perusing the reports of the Local Committees and the answer-papers in the written examinations with the assistance of the examiners who set the papers, will report to Government the names of such officers as in their opinion have passed, noticing specially those who have passed "with credit" or "with great credit" in the Land Revenue systems of Bengal, in Forest Law, and in Forest Procedure and Accounts.

Examinations will be held both in the Lower and Higher Standards, and will be conducted in accordance with such rules as may from time to time be promulgated by Local Governments, with the previous sanction of the Government of India.

No. 44T.—E., dated Darjeeling, the 31st May 1894.

RESOLUTION—By the Government of Bengal, Public Works Department.

Examination in Law to be passed by officers of the Public Works Department serving in Bengal.

READ—

Notification No. 221 of the 15th June 1891.

1. The Lieutenant-Governor has had under consideration the orders quoted above, under which officers in the Irrigation Branch of the Public Works Department are required to pass an examination in law before being invested with magisterial powers. These orders apply only to officers who joined the Department after the 1st of January 1881. In the notification referred to, no disqualification is attached to officers who do not pass further than that preference is to be given to passed officers for the charge of an Irrigation Division.

2. Assistant Engineers are now ordinarily attached to the Irrigation Branch on appointment, and it is desirable that all officers employed in the Public Works Department in Bengal shall be qualified to take charge of an Irrigation Division. The Lieutenant-Governor has therefore determined that all Assistant Engineers employed in Bengal shall, whether they have or have not been invested with magisterial powers, be required to pass the examination in Law, parts A, B, and C, as shown in the appendix to this Resolution, before being promoted to be Executive Engineers, 3rd grade, permanent rank.

3. The following officers, who are required under this Resolution or under the former notification to pass the examination, are exempted to the extent specified:—

Mr. C. A. White	...	Exempted from part C. Will be required to pass in parts A and B before being promoted to Executive Engineer, 1st grade.
" M. H. Arnott	...	Exempted from part C.
" H. Barlow	...	Will be required to pass the examination before being promoted to Executive Engineer, 2nd grade.
" T. H. Clowes	...
" H. H. Green	...
" C. P. Warde	...	Examination optional. Exempted if he so desires.

4. The following officers, who are now Executive Engineers, were appointed to the Department after the 1st of January 1881, but have throughout their service been employed in the Roads and Buildings Branch of the Public Works Department, and they are accordingly exempted from passing the examination:—Mr. B. K. Finnimore, Mr. M. H. Jackson and Mr. E. R. Gardiner. Mr. C. H. deMello was appointed to the Department previous to the 1st of January 1881, and though not yet promoted to be an Executive Engineer, permanent rank, is exempted under the former notification.

5. Upper Subordinates who have received permission from their Superintending Engineer may appear at paper A of the examination in Law. By passing they will be considered as increasing their chances of promotion, and subordinates who pass this examination will, if placed in charge of irrigation Subdivisions, be vested with the powers of a canal officer.

6. All zilladars will be required to appear at the examination in paper A till they pass. Those appointed to the Department after the 1st April 1891 will not be promoted until they have done so.

7. The examination in Law will consist of two papers without books (A and B), and an examination in cases (C). APPENDIX XI.

Resolution of the Government of Bengal, in the Appointment Department, No. 4717A., dated the 15th December 1892.

READ—

The Resolution of Government, dated the 28th March 1882, on the subject of the training, selection and qualification of officers for charge of District Treasuries.

Read also—

The Resolution of Government, No. 3111A., dated the 4th July 1892, on the admission of Special Deputy Collectors and Sub-Deputy Collectors to the Departmental Examination of Junior Members of the Covenanted and Provincial Civil Services.

In paragraph 4 of the Resolution of the 28th March 1892, quoted in the preamble, it was declared to be the duty of Commissioners and District Officers to see that young officers, until they have passed the departmental examination by the Higher Standard, are allowed opportunities of gaining practical acquaintance with the duties of a Treasury Officer, and that they are placed for the purposes of training in charge of district treasuries under the general supervision of the Deputy Collector ordinarily in charge, or of some other competent officer on the spot, for a period of not less than six weeks or more than two months in each year, and it was also laid down that a certificate from the Collector of the district, that each officer in training has, under the above provisions, duly attended to and satisfactorily discharged the duties of Treasury Officer, should be indispensible to his being declared to have passed any departmental examination.

2. The orders contained in the Resolution of the 4th July 1892, under which Special Deputy Collectors and Sub-Deputy Collectors are required to pass the departmental examinations, have, however, so largely increased the number of officers liable to those examinations that a strict compliance with the above rules is no longer possible. The production of a certificate regarding treasury work will therefore not be an obligatory condition of the examination in future, and it will be considered sufficient if candidates are able to pass their examinations in treasury subjects. At the same time the Lieutenant-Governor is convinced of the importance of allowing to young officers in training sufficient opportunity of learning treasury work, and hopes that District Officers will be careful to see that Assistant Magistrates, Deputy Collectors, and Sub-Deputy Collectors under them are afforded such opportunities whenever possible.

APPENDIX XII.

Resolution No. 3111*A.*, dated the 4*th July* 1892, regarding the admission of Special Deputy Collectors and Sub-Deputy Collectors to the Departmental Examinations. (Extract paragraphs 7 to 9.)

* * * * * * *

7. In these circumstances, the Lieutenant-Governor considered it desirable to lay down as an inflexible rule that all Special Deputy Collectors shall be required to appear at the departmental examinations under the same conditions as Deputy Magistrates and Deputy Collectors of the Provincial Service. If they do not pass these examinations within the time prescribed from the date on which it is made compulsory on them to appear, they must be reduced to their permanent appointments as Sub-Deputies.

8. In regard to Sub-Deputy Collectors, also it is now laid down that they shall be required to appear at the examinations under similar conditions. In their case, however, the rule can only be enforced, in the first instance, with considerable exceptions. It cannot be applied to the senior officers of the service, who have reached an age when they cannot be expected to pass examinations. Nor would it be fair to extend the rule to officers who, at the date of the present orders, have been confirmed in their appointments. For such officers, therefore, the examinations will be optional. But it must be distinctly understood by all who are concerned that if they do not succeed in passing at least the Lower Standard of examination, they will not be eligible for promotion to the grade of Special Deputy Collector. It is optional for them to compete at the examinations, or not, as they please; but if they have not passed the Lower Standard, they will be passed over for promotion. There is no need, however, to make any exception in the case of officers who have not yet been confirmed in their appointments or are still probationers in the service, and for such officers the Lieutenant-Governor is now pleased to decide that it shall be compulsory on them to appear at the examinations. The following orders are applicable to their case:—They will not be confirmed in any grade higher than that of the fourth grade of Sub-Deputy Collectors until they have passed the Lower Standard of examination, and they will not be confirmed in any grade higher than the third grade until they have passed the Higher Standard. Their position in these grades will primarly depend on the date on which they are declared to have passed, and their eligibility for substantive pro tempore promotion will (other things being equal) be regulated accordingly. If they fail to pass their examinations within the prescribed periods, they will be liable to lose their appointments under the same conditions as now apply to Officiating Deputy Magistrates and Deputy Collectors.

9. All Sub-Deputy Collectors, for whom the examinations are now declared to be optional, will be required to send in their names as intending candidates through their District Officer and Commissioner to the Under-Secretary to Government in the Appointment Department, at least two months before the date which is ordinarily fixed for holding the half-yearly examination. If they neglect to comply with this rule, they will not be allowed to appear. The names of those officers for whom the examination is obligatory will be included in the half-yearly lists of those who are liable to appear at the examination without any further representation on their part.

Certificate Officer satisfied of likelihood of concealment, removal or disposal may attach property.

(2) Such attachment shall be made in the manner provided in the Code of Civil Procedure for attaching moveable property, and subject to the provisions of section two hundred and sixty-six of the same Code.

(1) If a judgment-debtor who has been served with a notice under section ten denies his liability to pay the whole or any part of the amount for which such certificate has been made and filed against him, he may at any time within thirty days from service of such notice, or, where no such notice has been duly served, within thirty days from the execution of any process for enforcing such certificate, file a petition of objection denying his liability as aforesaid, before the Certificate Officer by whom such certificate has been made.

(2) Such petition shall be in, or as nearly as possible in, Form No. 5 in the Schedule hereto annexed, and shall be signed and verified in the manner prescribed in sections fifty-one and fifty-two of the Code of Civil Procedure.

Certain provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure to apply to the inquiry.

(2) Every such Certificate Officer shall, for the purpose of hearing any such petition and determining as aforesaid, exercise all or any of the powers of a Civil Court in respect of summoning, causing the attendance of, and examining witnesses, and in respect of causing the production of documents; and the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure applicable to these matters shall apply to a Certificate Officer exercising these powers:

Provided that if, in the opinion of the Certificate Officer, the petition involves a bonâ fide claim of right, he shall refer the petition to the District Collector for orders, and the District Collector, if he is satisfied that a bonâ fide claim of right is involved, shall make an order cancelling the certificate.

Certificate Officer may award costs against petitioner.

14. (1) The Certificate Officer shall have full power to direct that the costs or any part of the costs of such petition and of the hearing thereof shall be paid by the petitioner, or if his finding is in favour of the petitioner, then by the Secretary of State for India in Council or the Court of Wards, as the case may be.

Costs how to be realized.

(2) In any case in which a Certificate Officer directs the payment of such costs by any such petitioner, the amount thereof shall be added to the amount entered in the certificate, and shall be recoverable as if the same had been originally entered therein.

Judgment-debtor may bring a suit in the Civil Court to contest the certificate.

15. The person deemed to be the judgment-debtor under the provisions of section eight may, at any time within six months from the service upon him of notice under section ten, or, if he files a petition of objection under section twelve, from the date of the determination thereof, or, if he appeals under section nineteen from the date of the decision of such appeal, bring a suit in the Civil Court to have the said certificate cancelled or modified:

Provided that no such suit shall be entertained if such judgment-debtor has omitted to state in his petition of objection, if any, the ground upon which he claims to have such certificate cancelled or modified, and cannot satisfy the Civil Court that there was good reason for such omission.

Certificate when absolute.

16. When no suit is instituted by the judgment-debtor within the period specified in section thirteen or section fifteen, or if any such suit having been instituted is finally decided against such judgment-debtor, such certificate shall become absolute, and shall have to all intents and purposes the same force and effect as a final decree of a Civil Court.

Grounds of cancelment or modification of certificate by Civil Court.

17. (1) No certificate duly made under the provisions of this Act shall be cancelled by a Civil Court otherwise than on one of the following grounds:—

(a) that the amount stated in the certificate was actually paid or discharged before the making of such certificate;

General Summary.—There was abnormal heat during the week followed by rain in almost all reporting districts except in Cuttack, Hazaribagh and parts of Bihar. The rain was heavy in the eastern and in some of the central districts. Aus rice and jute are still being sown, and the preparation of the land for the sowing of other bhadoi crops is in progress, but more rain is required in parts of the province. The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h., and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

Explanation.—Summary.—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical average or means of the reading during the same period for the ... A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. The humidity of the atmosphere is expressed at percentage, saturated air being represented by 100. The mean at the numerical means or average of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the subdivisional stations for the period in question station in the district sending in returns divided by the number of stations. A rainy day is one on which at least a tenth of an inch fell.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATURDAY, THE 25TH OF MAY 1895.

THE weather during the past week has been unusual because of the very high temperature which has prevailed in the west and centre of the province with but little interruption. Rainfall has been very light and scattered in Orissa, Chota Nagpur, and Bihar, and even in North Bengal there has been considerably less than the average, but fairly heavy falls have been general in East Bengal, Assam, and the eastern half of South-West Bengal.

At the beginning of the week conditions were somewhat unsettled over the Bay, though no definite storm had developed. For some days previous gradients were becoming steeper in the south, and probably a depression, though shallow, existed in the north of the Bay, as readings were very uniform round the coast. If such a depression was there, its influence on the wind circulation was very slight, as the south or south-west winds continued on the Orissa coast, and it was only at Akyab, Chittagong, and Noakhali that directions became northerly. Pressure was steadily falling in Bengal and the north of the Bay, and a rise had commenced in the south-west, being shown by the changes on the Madras coast. This rise spread very rapidly over the Bay. On Monday, the 20th, there was a rapid rise at the Burma stations, and a slow to moderate rise at the other coast stations, while inland there was a slow fall. The effect of these changes was to transfer the steep gradients northwards and to cause a shallow depression to show over Bengal, where readings were a fifth of an inch below the normal. Westerly winds prevailed in the west and centre of the province, and it was owing to this hot westerly wind that temperature rose so rapidly at many stations in Orissa, Ghota Nagpur, and South-West Bengal. The rise of pressure continued on the 21st rapidly in Burma and Arakan, and at a diminishing rate towards the north-west. The area of lowest pressure was, therefore, forced westward, and the westerly winds were confined to Orissa and Chota Nagpur. The rainy weather which followed the slight disturbance in the east of the Bay slowly extended northwards, causing the heavy rain in East Bengal and Assam, and in parts of North and South-West Bengal. On Wednesday, the 22nd, there was again a more rapid increase of pressure in the east than in the western districts, and gradients were steep from east to west. This distribution caused strong southerly and easterly winds in all districts except Orissa and Chota Nagpur, where the hot westerly winds continued. Thunderstorms became more general, and led to a large reduction of temperature. On the 23rd mean temperature was below the normal in the greater part of Assam, Bengal, and Bihar, but there was still a large excess in Orissa and Chota Nagpur. The distribution of pressure was then very nearly normal, but there was excess in the east and defect in the west, so that gradients were still steeper than usual. On the 24th thunderstorms were again confined to the eastern districts, but on the 25th they became fairly general, and comparatively cool weather prevailed except in Orissa and Chota Nagpur.

During these last two days a fall of pressure over Bengal and a rise over the Bay caused still steeper gradients in the north of the Bay, and strong winds developed on the Orissa and Bengal Coasts as well as to a considerable distance inland.

Pressure.—During the early part of the week pressure was largely below the normal in Bengal, but the rise which began in the south of the Bay and spread northwards continued from the 21st to the 23rd, after which readings were about ·05 inch above the normal in the east and the same amount below in the western districts. Changes were very slight on the 24th, and there was a brisk fall on the 25th. Means are below the normal at all stations by amounts generally between ·07 inch and ·1 inch.

Temperature—Has been unusually high at times in the central districts, and almost without a break in Orissa and Chota Nagpur. A rapid rise occurred about the beginning of the week in consequence of an inrush of hot westerly winds, which penetrated as far as North Bengal. The highest maximum temperature recorded was 114·4° at Midnapore on the 21st. On the same day the following places had a day temperature between 110° and 113°:—Raniganj, Bankura, Krishnagar, Gaya, Dehri, Arrah, Naya Dumka, Cuttack, Balasore, and Chaibassa. Easterly winds caused a fall on the following day, and local storms led to a still further reduction; so that during the middle and end of the week the difference from the normal was not large except in Chota Nagpur and Orissa, where excess still prevailed. Mean excess in Chota Nagpur is 4°·7, in Orissa and South-West Bengal 4°, in Bihar nearly 3°, and in Assam and North Bengal about 1°·5. In East Bengal, where rainfall has been much more general and constant than in the other districts, there is a small defect.

Rainfall.—Almost general rain has fallen in the Darjeeling and Kuch Bihar districts, and with the exception of the first two days of the week in East Bengal and the adjacent parts of South-West and North Bengal. Showers were common in all districts except the extreme west on Thursday, the 23rd, and again on the 25th, when it extended over North Bihar. The districts where very little rain has fallen during the week are—the Patna, Gaya, Shahabad, and Saran districts of Bihar, and the greater part of Orissa and Chota Nagpur. The average falls are above the normal in East and South-West Bengal, and below in the other districts by ·86 inch in Orissa, ·61 inch in Chota Nagpur, ·52 in North Bengal, and by ·36 inch in Bihar.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the six meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 25th of May 1895 :—

NOTIFICATION.

THE following instructions are issued for general information with regard to rule 6 of the Junior Scholarship Rules, which runs as follows :—

"No candidate will be eligible for a scholarship who has not studied for the whole session previous to the examination in the school to which he belongs at the time of presenting himself at the Entrance Examination, unless he has been transferred within that period with the sanction of the Circle Inspector."

(a). For the purposes of this rule the 1st February will be taken as the commencement of a High School Session; but in the case of candidates who have failed (or who, having paid their admission fee, have been prevented by sickness or other cause from appearing at the next preceding Entrance Examination, the 1st July will be accepted as the date from which the session begins.

(b). The transfer of students from one school to another takes place under the ordinary transfer rules, and the Inspector's sanction is not generally required. But if a student of the first class is transferred without the sanction of the Inspector after the 1st February (or, as the case may be, the 1st July, see preceding clause), he will not be eligible for a scholarship, and if after the 1st September he will be treated by the University as a private student (see Calendar for 1895, page 89, foot-note 1).

(c). Application for the Inspector's sanction to such transfer should be forwarded without delay to the Inspector by the parent or guardian of the student, either through the Head Master of the school which he is leaving or directly, in which latter case the Inspector will consult the Head Master. It is open to the Inspector to sanction the transfer of a student, while withholding the right of competing for a junior scholarship at the next examination.

(d). If the school to which the transfer is sanctioned by the Inspector is in another circle, a copy of the order of transfer should be furnished by him to the Inspector of that circle.

(e). A complete list of all the candidates at the Entrance Examination (and not merely, as heretofore of those who are candidates for junior scholarships) will in future be called for from all recognized high schools. The Head Masters will be required to state against the name of each candidate whether he is eligible or ineligible for a scholarship.

(f). The transfer certificates of all candidates who have been admitted into a school after the 1st February next preceding the Entrance Examination should be forwarded with the list of candidates to the Circle Inspector for examination and return. In the case of candidates who failed, or were prevented from appearing, at a previous Entrance Examination, the Registrar's receipts may take the place of the transfer certificates.

Director of Public Instruction.
